HITLER FIGHTS VON PAPEN FOR GERMAN RULE

Both Demand Post of Chancellor.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—Chancellor Franz von Papen, head of Germany's cabinet of aristocrats and militarists, and Adolf Hitler, former Austrian corporal and paperhanger, came to grips today. Von Papen dared the new reichstag to unseat his government, while the little National Socialists leader, whose bid for absolute power was rejected by the voters yesterday, demanded the post of chancellor.

FRANZ VON PAPEN.

Three Possibilities Emerge.

With no party having a majority, speculation centered on three possibilities:

FIRST—That Chancellor von Papen and his cabinet, unaffiliated with any party, will continue to rule.

SECOND—That Hitler and several of his aids in the National Socialist party will participate in a coalition government with Von Papen.

THIRD — That the Hitlerites will patch up an agreement to share the power with Dr. Heinrich Bruening's Catholic Centrist party and oppose the Von Papen régime.

Von Papen to Present Cabinet.

Von Papen himself gave strength to the first conjecture when he indicated that he would present a cabinet of his own making to the new reichstag when it convenes on Aug. 29 or 30 with a demand that it be accepted. He asserted that his government of aristocrats and militarists would continue to function without the support of any political parties. The chancellor pointed to the election deadlock as evidence that the German people have no desire to be governed by parties.

"My colleagues and I intend to present our program to the reichstag and dare the members to unseat us in the face of the great need for nonpartisan work," he said.

Von Papen, however, also set tongues wagging regarding the second possibility, namely, that Hitler will enter his government.

Beckons to Hitler.

"The time has come," he said, "for the Hitlerites to lend a hand in the reconstruction of Germany."

There have also been insistent reports that the brown-shirted Hitler entered a secret pre-election pact with Von Papen and Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, the real boss of the present government, agreeing to join the new regime. This report loomed in importance today in spite of the passionate cry for "No coalition!" raised by Hitler's lieutenants.

Political leaders became more perplexed than ever tonight when the Nazis opened their campaign to put Hitler at the head of the government—majority or no majority.

Nazis Claim Chancellor's Post.

"Hitler, himself, will demand the post of chancellor when he confers with President Paul von Hindenburg at the end of this week or early next week," an official spokesman said at Hitler's headquarters in Munich. "As the strongest party we are entitled to the post and will insist upon it. We will also demand the ministry of the interior."

Many political experts, however, are looking for a Hitlerite-Centrist combination to crush the Von Papen government. In this case, it was predicted that Bruening, who was ousted to make way for Von Papen, would return as foreign minister with a Hitlerite sitting as chancellor. Such a combination, it was pointed out, would control 325 seats and receive a working majority.

Von Papen today explained what he meant by revision of the German constitution which he proposed before the elections. At present, he said, the checks and balances are not of enough efficiency in the German government. He urged the establishment of an upper chamber in the reichstag, comparable with the American senate.

CROWDS STORM POLLAK RITES TO SEE GUN WIDOW

Police Battle Grave Trampling Throng.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Joe Pollak, in life an obscure liquor dealer, in death yesterday was not even the focal point of interest at his own funeral service, one of the most riotous ever held in Chicago.

Joe Pollak was dead because his wife, Dorothy, terminated a family quarrel in their home at 1936 Garfield boulevard last Wednesday night by firing a bullet through his head. Because the widow is young and pretty, not even the dead man's casket was immune from the rush of the avid mob of thousands that stormed the undertaking establishment where he lay.

Later, surging forward in morbid curiosity at the grave in the Bohemian National cemetery, thousands more were thrust backward by perspiring policemen barely in time to avert tumbling the mourners into the yawning earth atop the silvered metal coffin.

Crowds Fill the Street.

At 12:30 o'clock, an hour and a half before the service was to begin in the undertaking rooms at 4605 South Hermitage avenue, the street outside was fairly well filled. By 1:30 the block was jammed with men and women, boys and girls, crying infants and tottering old folks, struggling toward the bier of the murdered man. Only a small fraction of those present could have had any personal interest in the service.

Pushing, laughing, clutching, disputing, the throng inched toward the doorway where undertakers' assistants wrestled with the nearest, trying to form a double file of them to pass through the chapel and out another door. In front of the place it would have been a practical impossibility to edge through the jam. In back the alley was almost as crowded.

Widow Enters Rear Door.

Through the back way the cordon of police had delivered for the ceremony the sobbing, stumbling widow who had come from her cell in the county jail to bury her dead—with two deputy sheriffs and a jail matron as her personal escort. That way also a few relatives and friends wedged in and were swallowed up in the jostling mass inside.

Somehow her wild bursts of grief never marred the photographic effect of Dorothy Pollak's bereaved beauty. Nor did they disarrange even a wisp of the dark and prettily waved hair peeping out from beneath the smart little turban of black, with its pert white bow. Behind the wide mesh of the black mourning veil with its band of ribbon edging which reached her shoulders the pink and white complexion, the big blue eyes and curving lips were not hidden at all.

Wishes She Could Die.

"I feel terrible—terrible," she moaned, handkerchief to her lips. "I wish I'd have a heart attack so I could die, too."

Jail Matron Mary Kennedy clucked sympathetically and patted her ward's shoulder. In a whispered aside she spoke of the razor blades taken from Mrs. Pollak's purse as they left the jail.

"You wouldn't use those on yourself, would you?" the matron had asked, shocked at the thought.

"O, I might—I'm so despondent," sighed Dorothy.

Widow Rushes to Casket.

Rushing to the casket as she entered the chapel, the widow threw herself upon it, cuddled her cheek against the glass above her slain husband's face, and half shrieked: "Speak to me, Joe. Speak to me. I want to be with you. I'm so sorry, Joe."

Then she was taken to the private office of the undertaker, John F. Eudeikis, which had quickly experienced, like the rest of the establishment, a Turkish bath temperature, due to the sweltering assembly that spilled over into every nook and corner. Presently only her family group and her guards remained, as Mrs. Pollak wept and talked without a pause. Now and then a friend broke through the barrier to be welcomed with a rush of phrases in Polish, perhaps a quick kiss.

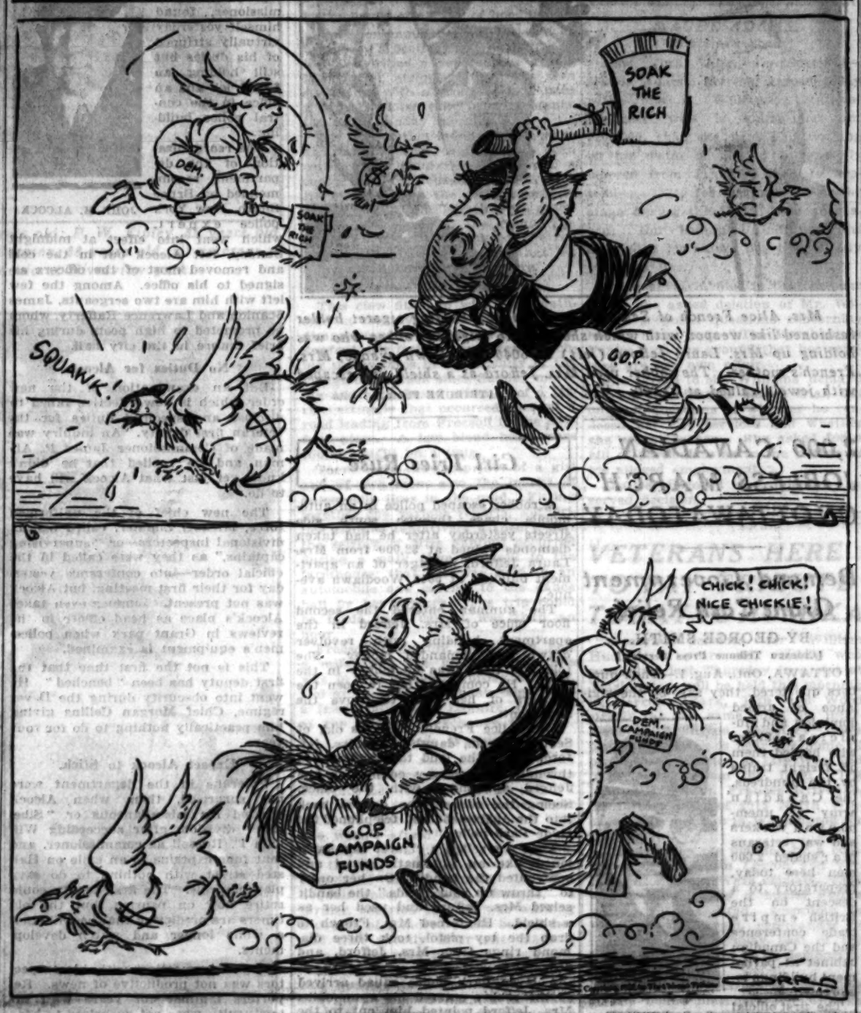

Services in the Chapel.

Shortly before 2 o'clock the police cleared a path for the group of relatives and they moved into the chapel, where a semicircle of chairs was arranged before the casket. Sobbing more loudly now, the widow was placed in one. Her mother, Mrs. Marie Myszu, sat beside her.

In a trice the intruding spectators

GRONAU TO LAND HERE IN PLANE THIS MORNING

Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau plans to take off for Chicago from Detroit in his flying boat Groenland Wal this morning in time to reach the camp at the foot of 8th street, in Grant park, by 11 o'clock. Von Gronau made this announcement last night in a telephone conversation with Mrs. Arthur Packard, his Chicago representative. He will be received by a committee of German-Americans headed by Capt. George H. Weideling.

At the city hall, Capt. von Gronau and his three aids will be welcomed by a representative of Mayor Cermak. After this reception the flyers will go to the Bismarck hotel, where they will stay while in the city, and then attend a luncheon of the Rotary club at the Hotel Sherman. The German flyer will describe his third trans-Atlantic flight.

Capt. von Gronau was forced to land near Detroit on Saturday when a water line in his forward motor broke and the motor failed. The motor has been repaired and the plane is conditioned to continue the flight through Chicago, Milwaukee, and Winnipeg to Vancouver, where Capt. von Gronau plans to take off for Japan.

WOMAN PLUNGES TO DEATH OVER NIAGARA FALLS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 1.—(AP)—In full view of a holiday crowd, an unidentified woman waded out into the Niagara river today and plunged to her death over the American falls. As officials were watching for the body to reappear below the falls, the body of a man, dressed in a blue suit, was sighted but disappeared before it could be reached.

The woman was between 35 and 40 years of age, five feet seven inches tall, slender and with light brown hair.

Co-ed Robbed of Auto for Second Time in 5 Days

For the second time within five days Miss Helen Applegate of Superior, Wis., a University of Chicago student, was robbed of an automobile early this morning. Last Thursday night she lost her own car to two gunmen at 57th street and Woodlawn avenue. This morning another car, which she had borrowed from Daniel Lazcro, 1452 Foster street, Evanston, was stolen from in front of 4016 Drexel boulevard while she was visiting friends.

Ask Hoover to Call Parley on Employment

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—President Hoover tonight laid the initial groundwork for the calling of a nation-wide conference of business men, industrialists, and other employers to discuss the advisability of decreasing unemployment by splitting up the national pay roll among a larger number of workers.

Following a White House conference at which a group of New England officials and manufacturers urged the President to arrange at once for a general shortening of the work day week and the working day so as to supply additional jobs, administration leaders said Mr. Hoover probably will call a conference to consider extension of the five day week principle to industry.

Scores of Plans Offered.

Officials said that scores of plans providing for giving a larger number of people work through shortening the hours of work for the 32 million to 35 million now employed have been submitted to the White House during the last two or three weeks. These plans are now being considered by Mr. Hoover, Secretary of Commerce Lamont, and Secretary of Labor Doak.

Gov. John C. Winant of New Hampshire was spokesman for the New England group which attended the White House conference. He put forward the so-called New Hampshire plan for reëmployment which was recently indorsed by the New England joint conference for reëmployment during a Boston meeting. Under this program, according to data laid before Mr. Hoover by Gov. Winant, the national work plan could be so subdivided that work could be supplied for an additional 3,000,000 persons. He estimated the loss to the workers at around 3 per cent.

Day and Week Shortened.

The New Hampshire plan calls for adoption of a shorter working day or a shorter working week or a combination of both. Under this plan, as explained to President Hoover, each individual business would work out its own method of employing more people to do the same amount of work which its present employés are doing today. One firm, it was stated, could cut the work day to six hours and keep its workers busy five and a half or six days a week. Another firm might adopt the five day week and have its employés work the same number of hours each day that they do now.

"What we want to do," Gov. Winant said tonight, "is to have ten men do the work nine men are doing today and split the pay roll which now goes to the nine men ten ways. Thus we would increase employment by 10 per cent. The New Hampshire plan divides the burden among ownership, management and labor. The cost of the plan would be paid by the workers, the executives and the stockholders."

All Asked to Contribute.

It was explained to the President that every person on the pay roll of companies from the president down would be asked to contribute something to pay the cost of the new people taken on. A part of the profits, if any, would go for this purpose. Executives and officials would contribute a part of their pay although executives would not share the shorter hours. Stockholders would give up a part of their dividends. It was estimated that labor's contribution would be 3 per cent and the average contribution 6 per cent.

7 Dead, 25 Hurt by Explosion in Ritz Tower

Sift Glass for Gems

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Late tonight shattered plate glass filling several huge laundry hampers was being sifted piece by piece. The glass was from the windows of Thomas Kirkpatrick's jewelery store in the Ritz Towers and from some 300 other windows blown into Fifth avenue by today's blast.

When the windows blasted out there were scattered on the avenue rings, bracelets, necklaces, and unset gems.

Detectives immediately surrounded the place while clerks and employés swept up or picked up the gems and glass. Among the things recovered were a pearl necklace valued at $65,000, two diamond brooches worth $8,000 each and a $12,000 emerald ring. Search in the glass continues for unset diamonds and other precious stones.

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—A terrific explosion, following the outbreak of fire in the paint shop and ammonia plant of the forty-one story Ritz Tower apartment hotel at Park avenue and 57th street, caused the death of at least seven firemen and injured 25 persons. Two of the injured are expected to die.

The explosion, produced by some chemical phenomenon incident to the fire, was heard for more than a mile. It rocked the neighborhood, alarming thousands who fled from their places of business or their homes. Oddly enough, people living high up in the tower did not know until later that anything unusual had occurred. But its full force struck twenty fire fighters deep in the sub-basement trying to get at the fire in its almost inaccessible location.

Firemen Trapped Underground.

Some of them, trapped in the paint room and ammonia plant, some of them at the hose lines leading from basement to sub-basement, were hurled against the cement walls with bone-breaking force and bombarded with blocks of concrete and chunks of brick, dislodged from the ceiling and walls. Those within the paint room were drenched with blazing chemicals.

The fire was put out, only after the whole subcellar of the Ritz tower had been flooded with two million gallons of water. The injured were treated in the emergency hospital established on the spot.

Fifteen in Hospitals.

Later fifteen firemen were taken to hospitals. It is two of these who are so badly injured that they are expected to die. One man is reported as missing.

The property loss from fire and explosion was estimated at $200,000.

The glass in at least 300 windows of the tower was broken. The Double-day-Doran bookshop, on the ground floor, was wrecked. So was the jewelry shop of Thomas Kirkpatrick.

The explosion shook up and startled the whole Park avenue district. It shattered windows, hurled manholes into the air and poured thick, heavy, poisonous smoke into the streets. For more than three hours the firemen, facing a task as difficult and dangerous as they have encountered in years, fought to drown out the stubborn chemical blaze two stories beneath the pavement.

The building went dark after the explosion and there was no power for the elevators.

The Ritz Tower is said to be the tallest apartment building in the world. It rises forty-one stories above the street to a height of 540 feet. It was completed in November, 1928, and it was appraised at $6,000,000.

EIGHT SEIZED AT REDS MEETING IN JOHNSTOWN

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Eric Carlson, aged 38, of Oakland, Cal., a veteran shot in last Thursday's melee between police and bonus seekers, died early today in a hospital. He was wounded in the abdomen. His brother, Dr. John Carlson, of Oakland, was notified immediately. This death brought the fatalities to two. William Hushka was the other victim.

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Governors of the two states most seriously concerned with the problem of the bonus army today declined to extend aid which they were asked to give to the wanderers.

Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania refused a plea of Mayor Eddie McCloskey of Johnstown for tents in which to house the veterans, though the governor assailed the methods by which the veterans were driven out of Washington.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland went even further in frowning on the plan of Commander Walter W. Waters of the bonus seekers to establish a permanent camp in Maryland, about 20 miles from Washington. The governor called the plan impractical, asserted the bonus seekers were certain to become public charges, advised them to return to their homes and added that the attorney general was considering legal means of preventing the army from entering the state.

Later Gov. Ritchie said he had agreed to receive Waters in his office at 2 p. m. tomorrow for an interview concerning the governor's refusal to sanction establishment of the bonus camp in Maryland.

Break Up Red Demonstration.

Tonight an effort by communist agitators to stage a demonstration in the business section of Johnstown was broken up and eight men arrested, but not before it had led to a spirited clash between Mayor McCloskey, the sheriff, and the chief of police. Meanwhile 7,000 bonus seekers slept beside bonfires in their camp on the edge of the city after a scanty evening meal.

The communist demonstration, organized by the "United Front Committee for August First," never really got started, although it drew a crowd of several thousands into the streets. Police dogged the footsteps of the known radicals in the crowd and the closest any one of them got to making a speech was George Hart of Johnstown, who leaped upon a statue in Central park and began, "My friends——"

Fat Suspect Loses Race.

Before he could say more, the police had seized him. Hart's colleagues fled and all save Frank Garloke, a ponderously fat man, were fleeter of foot than the police. Garloke was arrested.

As thousands of cheering and jeering townsfolk accompanied the police and prisoners to the city hall, Sheriff Homer George and Chief of Police Charles E. Briney, rushed reserves to the scene. As they reached the city hall, the reserves were met by Mayor McCloskey, who ordered them to return to their stations.

After considerable wrangling the police left. Chief Briney promptly sent them back, and once more the red headed mayor shouted commands that they retire and shoved some of them. Once more they left. Later one detail returned and tackled the job of clearing the jammed streets.

Mayor Makes One Arrest.

During the excitement, the mayor arrested Anthony Aundriassi of Johnstown, who protested he was not a communist. Later police arrested five others in a general roundup of reds.

Earlier in the day the mayor had flown to Harrisburg and had an unsatisfactory conference with Gov. Pinchot. McCloskey had hoped to obtain tents from the state government and food from the Red Cross. Gov. Pinchot, while far from cold, said all the state's tents were in use at soldiers' camps and could not be supplied for the bonus army.

Gov. Pinchot expressed indignation over the way the bonus army was ejected from the nation's capital, but he also expressed concern lest health conditions and lack of food should make it difficult to maintain the bonusers at Johnstown for an indefinite period.

The governor hopes to visit Johnstown in a few days. In a formal statement he said:

"The bonus marchers have shown far more restraint than the Washington authorities. The majority of them did nothing whatever to deserve treatment that would have been cruel if they had been Chinese coolies. It is hard to see what they could have done that would justify a night attack, with tear gas and tanks, on camps containing hundreds of women and children.

"A little forbearance, a little common sense, and a couple of hundred men like the Pennsylvania state police would have moved them, if they had to be moved, without breaking any bones. The whole business was brutal, stupid, and altogether unnecessary."

Mayor McCloskey received word during the day that the National Red Cross will not help feed the 7,000 bonusers, because they take the attitude that it is a local matter and should be handled locally. The food situation became acute today.

Added to the shortage of food was the threat of pestilence and disease which medical investigators after a tour said hung over the camp in which there are 7,000 men, women and children and others constantly arriving.

Physicians said that health conditions were "very bad" and a "menace" to all in camp.

Gen. Smedley Butler, the retired marine leader, was invited to come to the camp and address the ex-soldiers, but he telegraphed from Philadelphia the advice to the campers to disband and go home.

"Am only too glad to be of real help to soldiers," he telegraphed, "but in view of present decided uncertainty of food supply to a great number in one place I am firmly convinced the only sure and practical way at this time to help them, particularly as there are many women and children, is to arrange with their home states to receive and care for them."

Oppose Permanent Camp.

Meanwhile the plans of Commander Waters for the establishment of a camp on the 25 acres of land in Anne Arundel county, Maryland, given them by Mrs. Maude Edgell, were running into difficulties. A few veterans already have gathered there, according to reports reaching here.

Gov. Ritchie in his formal statement, said that such a camp was "totally impracticable and should not be established." He added the attorney general was considering legal means of preventing the scattered forces of the bonus army from entering the state.

"Maryland treated these men with every consideration," the Governor's statement ran, "while they were here; fed them and transported them to Pennsylvania, where they wanted to go. Maryland will continue to respect every right of any of the men who are now in this state or who may come here, and both as a people and as a state we will show our sympathy and helpfulness in every way. But to permit a settlement to be established here along the lines suggested raises other questions.

Calls Plan Impractical.

"It all sounds very Utopian, but certain practical things must not be overlooked.

"In the first place, the proposed site is totally unsuitable for the purpose. I have had it inspected by the state health department. It is principally scrub woodland, with no agriculture upon it possible, no food of any kind, nothing like an adequate water supply, and of course no sewerage facilities. No group could earn a livelihood or sustain themselves on that land, and health and sanitation would be seriously menaced.

"Our own Maryland people are suffering sadly now from the effect of depression, want and unemployment. We cannot be expected to accept in our midst an organized body of men who do not belong here, and who would certainly be the object of public charity, at a time when we will have to strain every energy and tax every resource to care for our own people."

OPEN BONUS RIOTS QUIZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Repercussions to the rout of the bonus army by army regulars came thick and fast in Washington today.

They included:

First—At President Hoover's request, the district grand jury began an investigation to fix the blame for the battle on Pennsylvania avenue in which William J. Hushka, Chicago veteran, was killed and more than two score persons were injured, including veterans, policemen, and spectators.

Second—Superintendent of Police Pelham D. Glassford, under administration fire on the charge that he temporized with the bonus army, demanded detailed explanations from subordinates for staging a series of "Red raids" early Saturday morning without instructions from him.

McKellar Wants Inquiry.

Third—Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], declaring President Hoover's use of military forces to expel the veterans was unnecessary and inhuman, announced he would demand a sweeping congressional investigation when the senate reconvenes in December.

The jury investigation got under way under the careful direction of department of justice officials who have been conducting the greatest "Red hunt" Washington has ever seen. Assistant Attorney General Nugent Dodds was personally assigned by Attorney General William D. Mitchell to assist District Attorney Leo A. Rover in presenting to the grand jury every fact touching on the riots and the dispatch of troops to end the bonus army's occupation.

A dozen witnesses, most of them policemen, including Supt. Glassford, testified at the opening session. Glassford spent more than an hour on the stand.

The retirement of Supt. Glassford is expected daily.

William Hushka, the veteran slain in the rioting last Thursday, will be given a full military funeral in Arlington national cemetery tomorrow, with delegations from all veteran organizations attending.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Most of the millionaires have lost those model dairy farms, the milk from which cost almost as much as champagne, but Uncle Sam has his left. It is the farm at Annapolis, Md., maintained by the government at a cost of $145,000 a year to supply vegetables, fruits, and dairy products to the United States Naval academy.

The $600,000 government dairy farm started modestly 22 years ago, after some midshipmen became ill from drinking ordinary milk. A small initial appropriation by congress grew to $255,000 with the understanding that the naval academy would pay enough for the milk to reimburse the treasury over a period of years. Then in 1922 congress forgave the debt and the treasury transferred it to the red side of the ledger.

Today the farm occupies 900 fertile acres in the Chesapeake bay section of Maryland, a few miles from the naval academy. It was removed from its original site in the academy reservation lest the cows attract flies to the midshipmen's barracks and officers' homes.

Not Common Variety.

The milk is the purest high breeding, scrupulous hygiene and scientific feeding can bring forth. It is counted daily for its bacteria content, which is so low that it is not pasteurized, and those who live at the naval academy gain the benefit of the elements that are lost in the pasteurization of the common variety of milk used in the vast majority of American households.

In a word, it is the same kind of milk that is prescribed for very young babies of parents who are fortunate enough to afford the high price it commands in the market.

"Why," a visitor asks, "is it necessary to feed such costly and such pure milk to midshipmen who when turned loose as officers must drink everyday milk?"

"The answer is that the navy does not drink enough milk," comes the prompt reply.

Midshipmen Lack Thirst.

While there is no set regulation fixing the amount of milk a midshipman must drink, he is expected to account for three pints daily. He can have as much as he wants. The output in 1931 was 193,914 gallons. What the midshipmen don't drink they get in the form of ice cream. With the number of midshipmen severely reduced in the incoming class there will be more ice cream than ever, unless the new generation of student officers show an abnormal appetite for milk.

The farm produces its own alfalfa and corn. But the naval academy Holsteins' daily ration does not end there. To these are added fish meal, molasses, and other grains all pulverized to an appetizing meal. In addition silage is served. Familiar aromas arising from huge carts of the fermented corn stalks waiting to be distributed in the feed troughs remind the visitor that the cows are the last thing in the navy still on a rum ration.

No petted infant receives greater care and attention than the herd. They are milked by hand. Every milker dons a fresh white suit daily. He must wash his hands before the milking of each cow. The cows themselves have a bath and brisk rubdown before each milking. Stalls and milking barns are washed down daily with disinfectant and patrols make rounds regularly with guns loaded with a fluid to exterminate any audacious fly that happens on the premises.

Boasts Champion Holstein.

The herd consists of about 440 head now, 200 of which are milkers. Breeding is one of the big industries of the farm and it now boasts some of the champion Holsteins of the world.

There is Elsie, for instance, who won a world's record by producing 30,000 pounds of milk in one year. And Elsie is still going strong.

Frances is another. She was America's reserve champion for three years running, being beaten only by a Canadian heifer for the national championship. But Frances now has a beautiful calf trotting by her side. She no longer is a heifer, therefore, and may not enter the next show.

To give the pedigrees of all the bluebloods down here at the naval academy farm would be to run through the whole herd of 440 odd head.

The farm is run on a strictly business basis. The midshipmen still do not get their milk at actual cost. Sufficient profit is taken to lay aside funds for fire insurance and depreciation. At present these funds stand as follows:

Furniture and fixtures	680.93
Machinery and equipment	34,842.58
Cattle	11,299.44
Work animals	1,351.07

At the time of the last accounting in December, the dairy also showed "cash on hand in the United States treasury" aggregating $55,362.44; accounts receivable, $12,699.75, and supplies on hand $27,361.81.

A lieutenant of the pay corps lives on the farm and runs it. He has a staff of 40 men whose average pay is $30 a month with board and keep. All of the latest type farm machinery is used. Great machines are busy racking alfalfa everywhere. Tractors long since replaced the horse.

Traffic Charge Against Young Harding Dropped

A charge of reckless driving against James P. Harding, 1050 Pratt boulevard, son of John P. Harding, loop restaurant owner, was withdrawn in the Evanston police court yesterday. A capias for his arrest, issued last Saturday, was also withdrawn. It was explained the action was due to lack of prosecution. Young Harding was arrested in Evanston July 19 after his car had damaged the automobile of Otto Dahl, 3809 Central Park avenue, a Chicago fire department captain. Harding is a nephew of Capt. Patrick Harding of the Rogers Park station.

2,000 CANADIAN JOBLESS MARCH ON OTTAWA TODAY

Demand Government Grant Cash Relief.

BY GEORGE SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 1.—Their numbers quartered, they say, by the vigilance of armed dominion and municipal officers who hauled them off freight trains by the hundreds, the Canadian army of unemployed workers and war veterans marshaled 2,000 men here today, preparatory to a descent on the British empire trade conference and the Canadian cabinet at parliament buildings tomorrow.

R. B. BENNETT.

The first official act today of the workers' convention, which was held in a garage, the sawdust strewn floors of which serve also for night sleeping quarters, was unanimously to condemn President Hoover for his order of eviction against the American bonus army.

Premier to Meet Delegation.

Premier Bennett has arranged to meet "no more than seven" representatives of the jobless army, which has come here from all sections of Canada, tomorrow. In a letter to George Winslade, leader of the jobless men, Bennett said he assumed that the visiting army has no communistic association, in which case no government could meet such illegal organizations.

"We never start trouble. They always start the trouble," spokesmen of the jobless declared tonight as they prepared to submit tomorrow the following demands:

Employment insurance to which workers would not contribute; immediate cash relief of $10 per week per man, with $2 per week extra for each dependent; repeal of tariffs and taxes holding up living costs; cessation of "police terror and violent régime throughout Canada" and release of imprisoned communists; self-determination for India and release of Indian political prisoners; withdrawal of British troops from the colonies; embargo against food and munitions to Japan; lifting of embargo against Russian goods; exemption of poor farmers from taxes, debt, and rent payments.

Live in Camps.

The jobless army is living in three or four camps on the outskirts of Ottawa. Many of the men have their wives and children with them. THE TRIBUNE correspondent visited the chief of these camps today. It consisted of about 400 men and is situated beside the railroad track on the edge of the city. The men are typical migratory workers from the wheat fields and lumber camps. Perhaps half of them have seen service abroad and they preserve a sort of rough military discipline.

An improvised field kitchen has been set up in a garden behind the Ukrainian Labor temple and great wash boilers full of mulligan stew were cooking under the supervision of Jack Wells of Calgary, who was an army cook in France. The ingredients for the stew were begged from farmers and citizens or bought with money supplied by the International Workers' relief, a communist organization.

It was quite evident that there was a small but active communist contingent in the camp, but the bulk of the men are decent unemployed workers.

Girl Tries Ruse

A robber escaped police in an automobile chase through south side streets yesterday after he had taken diamonds valued at $2,000 from Mrs. Laura Jefford, manager of an apartment building at 5046 Woodlawn avenue.

The gunman entered the second floor office of Mrs. Jefford in the apartment building with revolver drawn and demanded money. She told him there was no money in the office. He compelled her to open the drawers of her desk to prove the statement.

Mrs. Alice French, 22 years old, of Seattle, Wash., daughter of Mrs. Jefford, heard the loud talk and looked through the doorway connecting the Jefford apartment with the office. Seeing the robber, she dodged back into the apartment and telephoned the Hyde Park police.

Then she seized a cigaret case fashioned like an automatic pistol and confronted the bandit. On her order to "throw up your hands" the bandit seized Mrs. Jefford and used her as a shield. He forced Mrs. French to drop the toy pistol, took three diamond rings from Mrs. Jefford, and fled.

A Hyde Park police squad arrived as the robber entered his automobile. Mrs. Jefford pointed him out to the policemen, who chased the bandit's car to Ellis avenue and 43d street, where they were outdistanced.

PRESENT STATE BOARD HANDLES U. S. RELIEF FUND

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Illinois' initial allotment of $3,000,000 from the federal government's emergency relief fund will be administered by the present state commission, to which will be added three new members, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson announced today.

The new members of the commission, the governor said, will be State Auditor Oscar Nelson, State Treasurer Edward J. Barret, and Garret D. Kinney, Peoria, director of the state department of finance.

With the commission membership including the three state officials, Gov. Emmerson explained, it will be possible to surround the expenditure of the $3,000,000 allotment with all the safeguards that are applied to the expenditures of funds from the state treasury.

During the conference with the relief commission held here today Gov. Emmerson discussed the unemployment situation at length with its members. He reiterated his previous instruction that all able bodied men who receive relief must be required to perform some work in return. For the work those who are given relief would be credited with the rate of pay prevailing in their localities. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. is chairman of the commission. Other members are Corporation Counsel William Sexton, Chicago; Omer H. Wright, Belvidere; Victor A. Olander, Chicago; Arthur Eidman, Belleville; Joseph M. Cudahy, Chicago, and George A. Barr, Joliet.

ALCOCK BENCHED BY POLICE SHIFT; HAS NO DUTIES

Veteran First Deputy Still Has $8,000 Job.

First Deputy Police Commissioner John H. Alcock, who originated the "Siberia detail" for captains put on the bench without duties when he was acting police commissioner, found himself yesterday virtually stripped of his duties but still holding an $8,000 job and an office in the central police building.

JOHN H. ALCOCK.

No Duties for Alcock.

But an examination of the new order which is now effective failed to disclose any specified duties for the veteran first deputy. An inquiry was made of Commissioner James P. Allman and he replied that he didn't know yet just what Alcock will have to do.

The new chief of the uniformed force, Michael Zimmer, called his six divisional inspectors—or "supervising captains," as they were called in the official order—into conference yesterday for their first meeting, but Alcock was not present. Zimmer even takes Alcock's place as head officer in the reviews in Grant park when policemen's equipment is examined.

This is not the first time that the first deputy has been "benched." He went into obscurity during the Dever régime, Chief Morgan Collins giving him practically nothing to do for four years.

Expect Alcock to Stick.

Veterans in the department were not surprised, then, when Alcock created his miscellaneous or "Siberian" division, after succeeding William F. Russell as commissioner, and sent four captains to an exile on Halsted street with nothing to do save play pinochle. The first deputy could retire now on pension, but the old timers are predicting that he will stick a while longer and watch developments.

Zimmer's meeting with his inspectors was not productive of news. Reporters familiar for years with his taciturnity were not surprised to hear him say that "there is nothing to say." The new order, said the chief inspector, "speaks for itself." "We'll do the best we can; what more can we do?" he said.

BIG NEW YORK PROTEST AT WAR BY COMMUNISTS

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Close to ten thousand men, women and children gathered late today in Union square in a communist demonstration which is part of a world-wide protest against war. Among its peculiarly American aspects were violent protests against the dispersal of the bonus army in Washington, unemployment, and Wall street.

The crowd, which was watched by some fifty policemen—and by three times as many more out of sight, but ready in nearby buildings—was obviously in an ugly mood. It booed capitalists depicted in caricature on posters. The placards reiterated demands with the usual violence for free bread, free rent and "down with capitalism."

There was one American flag lost in a sea of Red banners.

CHICAGOANS LINK ANCIENT INDIA AND BABYLONIA

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The first definite link between the ancient civilization of India and Babylonia has been found in the Tigris valley by excavators of the University of Chicago oriental institute.

Digging in the ruins of an ancient city called Tellasmar, which flourished at the time of Abraham, about 2000 B. C., the scientists found dated relics which came unmistakably from prehistoric India. Among them were seals, beads and pottery with the likeness of elephants, rhinoceroses and crocodiles, none of which lived in Babylonia at that time.

REPEAL OF TAXI MONOPOLY FACES A SECOND FIGHT

Move to Reconsider It Bobs Up.

A definite move to reconsider the vote by which the taxicab monopoly ordinance was stricken from the city statutes by the council last Thursday was noted in the city hall yesterday. If made, the motion to reconsider probably will be put at the council meeting next Thursday. This may be the last meeting of the summer.

The ordinance was repealed last Thursday by a vote of 40 to 6. Any move to reconsider it would, under the rules, be made by one of the forty who voted for repeal. It was not made plain yesterday just who would make the motion but it was certain that at least two would stand stanchly against it. These aldermen were Oscar F. Nelson [46th], who introduced the repealer, and Thomas J. O'Grady [14th], most vocal of those opposed to the monopoly ordinance.

Nelson to Oppose Repeal.

"I can see no reason or reasons why we should nullify our action of last Thursday," said Nelson yesterday, "and I shall oppose any motion to reconsider the vote. The repealer only erased one provision from the books—that giving the vehicle commission power to limit the number of cabs on the streets.

"None of the safety provisions is affected. The public is still protected by the same bond required of each cab driver and the same licensing provisions as to physical qualifications and ability to operate an automobile. There is no reason why the independent cab drivers—the little fellows—should be denied a chance to make a living."

Ald. O'Grady stirred the council Thursday by declaring that "if any independent drivers are refused licenses again, I'll demand an investigation and expose some of the Christmas gifts of the Yellow Cab company.

"My attitude hasn't changed," O'Grady said yesterday. "I feel the same about that monopoly as I did when I voted to repeal the ordinance."

Profit on 15 Cents a Mile.

How a Cleveland cab company is making money by charging only 15 cents a mile, as against Chicago rate of 45 cents for the first mile and one-quarter and 20 cents for each additional mile, was disclosed yesterday by dispatches from the Ohio city. A. B. McBride, president of the Zone Cab company of Cleveland, has written Chicago aldermen offering to start immediate operation of 1,000 cabs here for 15 cents a mile, if authorized.

Mr. McBride said the Checker Cab Manufacturing company controls both the Cleveland and Chicago Yellow Cab companies and that the Yellow of Cleveland charges only 15 cents a mile.

"The Chicago Yellow Cab company," Mr. McBride wrote to Ald. Nelson, "being a part of the Checker Cab Manufacturing company's taxicab trust, Chicago will have to pay for the cheaper rides in other cities where taxicab competition is open and not restricted by legislative acts, because the taxi trust's loses elsewhere are bound to be loaded on to Chicago and Pittsburgh, where the trust controls the trade."

State Authorizes Road Work to Cost $250,000

The state department of public works at Springfield yesterday authorized construction in 11 counties in Illinois of state aid county road and bridge projects at a total cost of $250,000. The largest project is the construction of 2.33 miles of 20 foot concrete paving on Wolf road at Wheeling at a cost of $161,061.

JOHN, SEEING THE SIGHTS, BECOMES A SIGHT HIMSELF

John L. Tucker, 28 years old, of Memphis, Mo., strolled into the Evanston police station yesterday clad in shirt, shorts, shoes and rhubarb leaves. He explained that he had been deprived of his pants in a robbery 10 miles northwest of Evanston.

Tucker said he came from Missouri to visit Marty Romano, 4701 Beacon street, Chicago. Together they set out to see the sights on a party which lasted five days, Tucker said. On Sunday night they were riding in Romano's automobile when three gunmen forced them to the roadside and announced a robbery. The bandits became angered because he had no money, Tucker said, made him remove his trousers and forced him out of the car.

One of the bandits commandeered the automobile and drove away with Romano. Tucker gathered some rhubarb and made himself a skirt for the 10 mile walk to Evanston. He was given cab fare to the Romano home by the Evanston police.

DRY'S KILLER TO BE TRIED IN STATE COURT IF CAUGHT

With federal, state, and city forces joined in a hunt for Drew Clark, 35 years old, 3317 Indiana avenue, slayer of Eugene Jackson, colored prohibition agent, it was learned yesterday that he will be tried for murder in the state courts if he is apprehended.

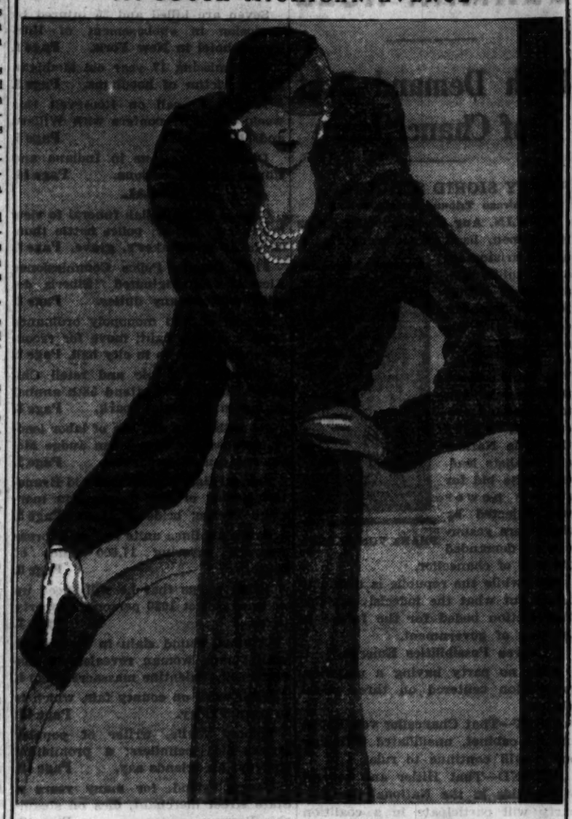

The search for Clark, under the direction of W. E. Bennett, chief of the special agents' staff of the dry bureau, was spurred after the inquest into the shooting. Jackson was shot twice on Sunday when he tried to arrest Clark after he had purchased a gallon of moonshine whisky.

The decision to try the slayer in the state courts, it was said, was reached in a series of conferences between George F. Lappley, attorney for the prohibition department, and the United States attorney and the state's attorney's offices.

ROBBERS OVERPOWER CLERK.

Rejects Neutral Offers to Help Settle Row.

Germs of War

ASUNCION—Paraguay is authorized by congress to mobilize all armed forces to resist Bolivia in dispute over Chaco territory. Government charges in note to league of nations that Bolivia violates articles 10 and 11 of league covenant.

LA PAZ—Bolivia notifies United States it is determined to settle dispute with Paraguay once and for all, "even at the force of arms. Government rejects neutral investigation.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Bolivia notified Secretary of State Stimson tonight that it was determined to settle the Chaco dispute with Paraguay "once and for all, even at the force of arms."

A note addressed to the American secretary by the foreign ministry declared that Bolivia was "not interested in investigations which do not define the fundamental issue." The note was in reply to communications from neutral parties atempting to conciliate the dispute at Washington.

While Bolivia asserted that it was defending itself "in a territory that we consider ours," the people of the capital continued a jubiliant day long celebration of the capture of Fort Boqueron, Paraquayan stronghold in the Chaco, by Bolivian troops.

Text of Note.

The foreign minister's note to Washington said:

"I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of the cablegrams sent us by the representatives of the neutral countries on July 29 and 30 relative to the conflict with Paraguay and requesting a report on the latest developments, at the same time asking if we are ready to accept an investigation on these developments.

"They say that Paraguay has denied the attack on our Fort Florida.

"We notify your excellency that we reported on the Chaco developments after the door had been closed on the nonaggression pact negotiations. We have been doing so, even after the attack of June 29, so as to make known the historic truth. But the aggression of July 15 changed the entire situation. Paraguay did not agree to continue the negotiations after the attack of June 29 and attacked us again on July 15.

Wants Final Solution.

"This attack forced us to send reenforcements to the Chaco in order to uphold respect for our country. In denouncing the attack on Fort Florida we made reference to the report of the commander there. The attack of July 15 was effected in the same place.

"We are not interested in investigations which do not define the fundamental question. Bolivia wants a final solution to the dispute. It does not wish to be perenially on guard in the Chaco withstanding the advances of Paraguay.

"This is why the country has reacted with all its strength, determined once and for all to liquidate, even at the force of arms, this dispute.

"We defend ourselves in a territory that we consider ours. Historically we have a right to the littoral on Rio Paraguay.

"After Paraguay had attacked us in Fort Florida on July 15, we saw it as a duty to effect reprisals. We have occupied three Paraguayan forts. In 1928 Paraguay attacked us similarly.

"The country wants to put a stop to these proceedings.

"At present Paraguay is concentrating troops in the Chaco. While it maintains this aggressive campaign we must answer categorically that we shall maintain the same attitude."

Paraguay Orders Mobilization.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 1.—(AP)—General mobilization of the armed forces of Paraguay was authorized by congress tonight, while a protest against Bolivian attacks on Paraguayan forts in the bitterly disputed Chaco territory went to the league of nations.

While preparations to call army and navy reserves to arms were pushed forward, Foreign Minister Higinio Arbo charged in a note to the council of the league of nations that Bolivia had violated articles ten and eleven of the league's covenant, respecting peace and the territorial integrity of member nations.

Rumors that Bolivian troops again were attacking Fort Islapoi, which has figured previously in the troubles between the two nations, excited the city tonight.

Meanwhile the capital was a beehive of military activity. Every train from the interior brought volunteers laden with flowers and bearing medals of the Virgin of Caacupe, Paraguay's revered symbol.

EARLY SETTLERS PICNIC AND TELL CHICAGO'S STORY

58th Annual Outing Attended by 5,000.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

All one needed to be the life of the party at the old settlers 'picnic in Riverview park yesterday was a birthday somewhere between 80 and 100 years ago, a few gold medals, a pair of feet still agile enough for the old dances, and a lively memory of "way back when." More than 5,000 were in the grove for the 58th annual picnic sponsored by the Chicago Turn Gemeinde.

Remembering when Chicago was only a village, or when it was battling the flames of the great fire of 1871, or skinning through the panic of '73 gave many a silver haired pioneer an admiring audience as small groups heard tale after tale recounted. And if one remembered the polka—well—

Never Too Old to Dance.

"Say, I ain't an old lady yet." A slim woman of 85 turns a scornful glance upon a man five years her senior who has asked her if she can dance. A wandering German band in holiday costume has paused and a circle gathers as the strains of "Ach du Lieber Augustine" are sounded.

The couple moves off, dancing the polka. The watchers smile and nod their heads to the music. They start clapping their hands, some beating time with their feet, or humming. More couples swing into the circle. The band quickens its tempo. The couples bob about like rubber balls, then come to a stop breathless and flushed.

Reminisces About a Panic.

Under an ancient elm not far away Edward Knorr of 345 Menomonee street sits on a bench discussing the panic of '73. He was born in Germany 82 years ago and came to Chicago in 1861.

"Yes, sir, I've been through four panics," he begins, "but there wasn't one as bad as that one in '73. Why, about the best bet for buying anything was to use postage stamps for money. Yes, sir, many's the time my mother paid for her sugar with postage stamps.

"We had soup kitchens at Madison and Clinton, and Grand and Wells. The men lined up three deep and two blocks long for dishes of soup. There's been other panics, too, but people forget 'em."

The Halkets Win a Medal.

Bits of conversation drift from the registration booth. "Here are our marriage certificate and my baptismal record. From Scotland. We've been married 64 years. I'm William Halket and I'm 88 years old and my wife, Charlotte, is 87. We live at 2830 North Racine avenue."

In the final awards, the Halkets won the gold medal for the married couple whose combined ages totaled the greatest number of years. Their years totaled 175.

William Niebuhr, 2015 North Keeler avenue, came to Chicago from Germany in 1868 and took up teaming. But he found time to fight Indians with the 5th U. S. Cavalry.

"For three days I lived on horsemeat after Custer was killed," he said. "Then we followed Sitting Bull up into Canada. Worked for Uncle Sam at $13 a month."

"Yes, that's what I got in the civil war," broke in Henry Krauch, born in 1858 in the house his father built at Clybourn and Larrabee. "And those days of the great fire were real hard times. We had to live in an attic so small we couldn't stand up in it."

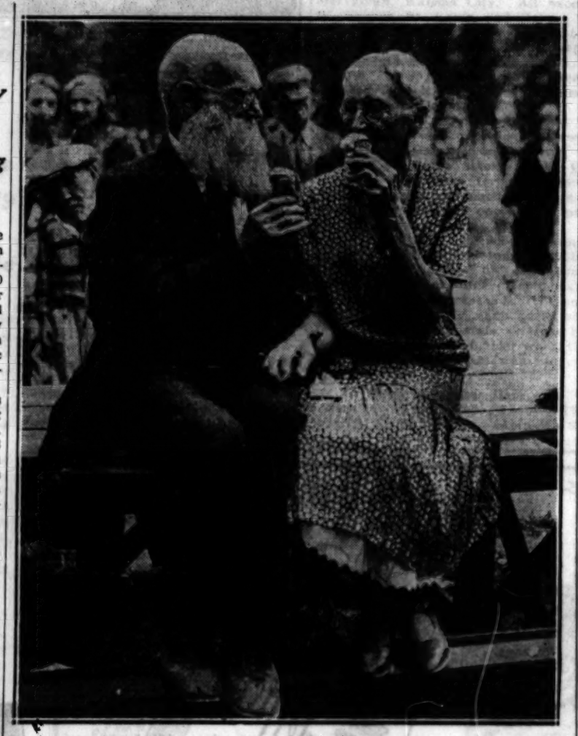

Gold medals were awarded to six for long residence in Chicago. The recipients and the length of their residence here are: John Bremer, 3240 Normal avenue, 81 years; Theresa Breitenfeld, 1714 Belmont avenue, 81 years; Dennis William Finley, 84 years; Mrs. G. Smith, 527 Clinton avenue, Oak Park, 74 years; Louis F. Mueller, 4445 North California avenue, 79 years, and Anna Heinz, 1707 West 66th street, 78 years.

The old settler longest in the employ of the same business was John H. Keenon, 70 years old, 823 Wisconsin avenue, Oak Park, who has worked at the Chicago postoffice since 1879. He received a medal, as did Michael Heath, 76 years old, for the longest residence in the same place. Heath has lived at 354 West Superior street since 1859.

Mrs. Catherine Clark, 96 years old, 7541 Peoria street, was asked if she objected to the renaming of Clark street. She bobbed her little black bonnet and observed: "I'm willing to change my name under the right circumstances."

MISSING GIRL, 17, FEARED VICTIM OF RIBALD GANG

Evidence of a Struggle Is Confirmed.

Ludington, Mich., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Searchers striving to find Evalyn Sanford, 17 year old high school graduate who was apparently kidnaped near her farm home near Ludington Saturday night, today obtained a clew indicating that she might be in the hands of a gang of hoodlums.

An anonymous person, believed to have been a bootlegger, transmitted to the authorities a report that a tall, blonde girl, stripped nude, was seen struggling with a group of men near a dance hall ten miles east of Manistee early Sunday morning.

His information indicated that some at least of her captors had been called away from the dance hall, a converted farmhouse on route M55. He asserted that the girl's efforts to get away or clothe herself were greeted by loud laughs by the group. The informant added that some of the latter seemed to be armed and that he, being alone, dared not interfere.

Fits Into Other Information.

This clew fitted in with facts gathered in the investigation of the girl's disappearance. Posses, led by Edward Sanford, her father, have been searching the swamps in the vicinity of the village of Freesoil since Sunday morning and have found evidence of a terrific struggle that occurred just off a road leading from Freesoil to the Sanford place. A few blond hairs were found cought on a twig.

There were the footprints of a girl and of two men, also the marks of automobile tires in the mud. Fitting together the various reports, authorities adopted tentatively a theory that the seizure of Miss Sanford occurred during a walk from Freesoil to the farmhouse; that she was held in an automobile and carried to the dance hall by her captors. The trip could be made in a car in less than an hour.

Freesoil is hardly more than half a mile from the girl's home. She was in the village Saturday evening, and at 10 p. m. was conversing with a friend, Mrs. Fay Laguire, operator at the telephone exchange there.

Disregards Warning.

"When she said she was going home," said Mrs. Laguire, "I tried to convince her it would not be safe. I wanted her to remain for the night with me, but she laughed and said she wasn't afraid."

Evalyn then started out to walk. On the way she was passed by two friends in an automobile. A third acquaintance, George Buegge, a farmer, asserted that he was walking a couple of hundred yards behind her and that shortly after she made a turn in the road he heard a scream.

He went forward to investigate, but saw nothing to indicate trouble and convinced himself he was mistaken about the scream. The disappearance of Miss Sanford was not known until the family awakened yesterday morning and failed to find her.

State Police Join Search.

The alarm was then raised and the search began. The hunt has been unremitting, with from 50 to 200 persons examing all the pools and morasses that lie along the road from Freesoil to the farm. Also joining in were the Michigan state police, headed by Corporal Colburn Munger, and deputies led by Sheriff George L. Colyer of Mason county.

State police said Evalyn had only one boy friend and that he was fishing with his father the night of the disappearance. No other man or youth in the vicinity has been reported missing. The investigators said they were convinced the girl had not gone away voluntarily.

Sanford, the father, is a gaunt man more than six feet two inches tall. He spent a sleepless night leading the search on the trail of the daughter's abductors.

It was learned that two other girls, one of them a sister of Miss Sanford, 15 year old Genevieve, have been accosted on the swamp road outside Freesoil in recent weeks. The other was Anna Surna, a resident of the village. In each case two men riding in an automobile were the annoyers.

ASKS FACTS

[White Studio Photo.]

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Maude Adams, actress, agreed today with John D. Williams, theatrical producer who is suing her for $203,000, that she paid him nothing on his claim of having successfully labored from January, 1927, to September, 1931, for her return to the stage during the 1931-1932 stage season. But her plea indicated she doubted if his efforts had been of any value to her.

In an affidavit, filed in the Supreme court, she asked deletion of Mr. Williams' proposed questions concerning her earnings from "The Merchant of Venice," on the ground that her earnings are her own affair.

She agreed to Mr. Williams' demand for an examination before trial, but only on questions of whether he rendered her any services and whether she accepted them. She asked for a bill of particulars as to the nature of his alleged employment.

Justice Bernard L. Shientag reserved decision.

VETERANS HERE TO PAY TRIBUTE TODAY TO HUSHKA

Memorial services for William Hushka, 37 years old, veteran who was killed last Thursday in a riot at Washington, will be held this morning in Harrison park, 18th and Wood streets, at the same time his interment in Arlington cemetery takes place. The park is near the home of his brother, Charles, at 2316 West 23d place, with whom he lived. The brother and Mrs. Frances Krivenko, his former wife, of 2015 North Winchester avenue, are in Washington for the funeral.

The services are planned by a committee of American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars officials. Taps will be sounded by a bugler and a salute will be fired, according to Henry Lewandowski, commander of the Kenneth M. Copley post of the V. F. W. There will be no demonstration.

Two hundred recruits to the ranks of the bonus marchers left Chicago yesterday on a pilgrimage to Hushka's grave in Washington, headed by Fielding W. Ireland, 7026 Chappel avenue, senior vice commander of the South Shore post of the legion, and C. L. Wiley, 3901 Kimball avenue, legionnaire who protested the jailing of his janitor for making home brew. Another group is being gathered.

Preparedness Gives Dentist the Jump on His Bandits

After Dr. Edward Nemmers, a dentist, was held up by two men two weeks ago and robbed of $40 and some dental gold, he bought a revolver and cut a peephole in the door c.. his office at 1365 Fullerton avenue. Yesterday he heard a noise outside. Peeping through the hole, he saw the two bandits who had robbed him before, with a youth. Dr. Nemmers got his revolver and fired a shot through the hole. The trio fled down the stairs. He pursued and captured the youth, Louis di Battita, 18 years old, 1444 Larrabee street. Later Nicholas Buck, 21 years old, 1547 Orchard street, and Joseph Pano, 21, of 2103 Osgood street, were arrested at their homes as suspects.

Labor Leader's Son Escapes Jail Term; Gets Probation

John Sheridan Jr., son of a veteran leader of teamsters' unions, was sentenced by Judge John P. McGoorty in October, 1930, to spend ten days in jail for contempt of court for perjury. The case was appealed to the Supreme court, which returned an affirmation of the sentence on June 24.

But Sheridan will not serve in jail. It was discovered yesterday that Judge McGoorty, on July 15, entered an order changing his punishment to six months probation.

The order stated that the probation was allowed "on recommendation of the state." Assistant State's Attorney Homer Dodge, who had first asked that young Sheridan be held in contempt, was told of this.

Matter for Court Ruling.

"It is not true that this office requested probation for him," declared Mr. Dodge. "I was called to Judge McGoorty's court. The judge asked me if there was any objection to the change in sentence. My answer was that the state's attorney's office had nothing to say about the matter; that the affront was given to the court and that the court must decide whether it felt the affront should be overlooked. I don't know how the record could show this office recommended probation."

Sheridan was called before the grand jury in the fall of 1930 to testify about the racketeering activities of the recently slain gangster, George [Red] Barker, and his associates, including William [Three Fingered Jack] White. It had been alleged that the Barker crew seized control of the Coal Hikers union and the Coal Dealers and Helpers union, affiliates of the teamster labor groups.

Punished for Contempt.

As a sworn witness Sheridan denied he had been a shield for Barker in the latter's efforts to raid the union treasuries. Later, at the contempt hearing, it was shown he admitted not telling the truth in his original grand jury appearance. He was so evasive that Mr. Dodge and Assistant State's Attorney Charles Mueller demanded his punishment for contempt. Judge McGoorty then fixed the ten day sentence.

Discovery of the change to probation came when the sheriff's office began an inquiry to determine what should be done about Sheridan as a result of the Supreme court decision in his case.

Judge McGoorty left the Criminal court soon after sentencing Sheridan and has been hearing civil cases. He was a leader in promoting investigation of alleged racketeering among the unions. He is at present on vacation near Whitehall, Mich.

BARE N. Y. KILLER AS SUSPECT IN GANG MASSACRE

"Conroy" Hunted Here in Moran Slayings.

ROBERT CONROY.

Chicago detectives last night disclosed that Robert Conroy, who was found shot to death in a New York flat with the body of a slim, blonde woman in the same room, was sought here in 1929 as a member of the Fred (Killer) Burke gang and one of the participants in the St. Valentine's day massacre. In the massacre seven men, allies of the George Moran gang, were shot to death in a garage on North Clark street.

Conroy's real name, it was discovered by search of the police records, was Robert Newberry. He had his early experience as a criminal in Cincinnati, later going to St. Louis, where he became connected with Burke. The latter is now serving a life sentence in the Michigan penitentiary for the murder of a policeman.

Started Search in 1928.

"We first started looking for Newberry, or Conroy, in 1928," said Sergt. William Cox. "The police at Toledo, O., wanted him for the murder of Policeman George Zientara there during a $260,000 holdup of an express company truck.

"It had been fairly well established that Fred Burke, Newberry, Gus Winkler, and men known as Crane Neck Nugent and Norman Jones were in the Toledo crime and that they had fled here after the killing.

"Newberry, in the opinion of the police in Toledo, was the man dressed as a policeman who handled a machine gun and riddled Zienatra, who had interrupted as they were trying to open a safe holding the money.

Sought Gang in Cicero.

"We watched for the gang around 52d avenue and 23d street, Cicero. Burke, Winkler, and Newberry hung out there at various times, but we didn't find them and I don't believe they were around Chicago at the time."

Later, when the seven Moranites were executed by gangland enemies, Burke and his aids were mentioned as the killers. Strength was added to this theory when ballistics experts learned that guns captured in the possession of Burke had been used in this wholesale murder.

Some of the killers were dressed as policemen, a subterfuge alleged to have been adopted by the advice of the nimble witted Newberry, a counterfeiter and blackmailer of note as well as an exponent of more violent crimes.

Lieut. William Cusack of the detective bureau recalled that he had made a special trip to Springfield soon after the massacre to seek Burke, Winkler, Newberry, and Nugent, but had failed to find them.

Woman a Former Chicagoan.

The blonde woman whose bullet riddled body lay beside Conroy's in New York was said by persons familiar with the Chicago underworld to have been Rosemary Sanborn, once a cigaret girl in west side cabarets. It is related of her that after tying up with Newberry she defrauded a wealthy Chicagoan of $25,000 in a badger game, collecting with Newberry's assistance after taking a photograph of the man in a compromising situation.

What Newberry was ever directly connected with the Capone outfit is doubted by the police. The only connection that could be traced even tenuously was through a theory that Burke was an agent of Capone in the St. Valentine's day massacre.

Probe Deaths in New York.

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The police today continued to hold to a theory that Robert Conroy, alias Newberry, and Rosemary Sanborn, counterfeiters and badger game operators whose bodies were found yesterday in a flat on 104th street, died as a result of a murder and a suicide. Newberry is believed to have killed the woman, then himself.

An elaborate counterfeiting plant and a large number of spurious but almost perfectly made $5 notes were in the flat.

A report that a little black book containing the names of victims, including two United States senators, had been found in the flat was denied by Inspector Kear of the Manhattan detectives.

Newberry, according to underworld denizens here, was suspected at one time of having a hand in the kidnaping of the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. It was said that when Al Capone begged to be allowed his freedom from the Chicago jail to aid in the search for the kidnapers he hoped that if he got in contact with Newberry he would find the proper clew.

The bells are to arrive Aug. 15. The machinery and bells were made in Croyden, England. For several months workmen have been engaged in adjusting the tower of the university chapel to house the bells and machinery. The machinery is to be installed during the week. RAPIDAN CAMP "BUILT WITHOUT COST"—ADAMS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Marines and troops who were ordered to build President Hoover's Rapidan fishing camp were assigned there as part of their "annual exercises and training period," Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams said today.

His reference to the cost of building the camp and road leading to it was made in a letter to Representative Henry T. Rainey [Ill.], Democratic leader of the house. In it he did not state the cost of maintaining the marines and engineers at the camp during its construction.

Secretary Adams said the President spent $15,000 from his own funds for material for the cabins; the marine guard did the work. He declared the marines "would not otherwise have been employed and the work was substituted for ordinary training they would have been given elsewhere."

On the road, he said, an engineer road regiment was employed for a few weeks one summer "in the annual road building exercises" in surfacing "two or three miles of the road." Newspaper men recalled seeing the troops cutting the highway proper out of the side of a mountain and through a dense virgin forest up to the camp, a distance of between eight and ten miles.

500 DROWN IN CHINESE FLOODS; CHOLERA SPREADS

CANTON, China, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The scourges of floods and cholera lashed at three sections of China today taking a heavy toll in lives and property. The rampaging Chu Kiang [Canton river] has demolished 600 houses and drowned 500 persons at Canton proper. Eighty persons perished in a home for the aged. Thousands are homeless.

In western Shensi province the Yellow river had battered down its dykes, inundating thirty towns, and leaving 50,000 persons homeless. In Manchuria torrential rains and floods, centering around Kailiang, have done tens of millions of dollars worth of damage.

So serious was the spread of cholera, the dread summertime disease of China, in western Honan province, that authorities have appealed to Nanking for medical help. The city of Honanfu's death rate was mounting alarmingly. In southern Hupeh, according to Hankow dispatches, the cholera scourge was widespread, and bubonic plague was also taking a heavy toll in lives.

HE COMMUTES FOR 63 YEARS; CLAIMS RECORD

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The champion commuter of the nation is the title claimed for Addison H. Day of Chatham, N. J., on the Lackawanna railroad. Mr. Day, who is an officer of the Marine Midland Trust company, today began his sixty-fourth year as a regular commuter between Chatham and New York.

When Mr. Day started his daily trips to and from Chatham he was obliged to make the journey by stage to the Oranges, where he boarded a mail train which stopped to take on passengers for New York. The cars were lighted with kerosene lamps and heated with woodburning stoves.

Mr. Day is now 82 years old. He continues to make the trip daily despite the vicissitudes of the weather.

had crushed forward, through the semblance of an aisle left for the clergyman, the Rev. R. Keene Ryan. They bent over to peer into the face of Mrs. Pollak. They swarmed between the minister and the body of the man whose funeral sermon he had come to preach. The Rev. Mr. Ryan raised his voice in admonition.

"I am about to begin the service," he said curtly. "Will those present please remember that this is a funeral, and have respect for the dead?"

Hurriedly he began his prayer. The hush lasted for a few moments, the arrested motion for a few more. "The Lord hath given, and the Lord hath taken away," intoned the minister.

Crowding Begins Again.

The babel and the push began again. Joe Pollak was not going to be buried in peace, the Rev. Mr. Ryan perceived. His voice raced now, pitting itself against the anxiety of those in back to be up in front. Abruptly he closed.

In the press of circumstances and people less than five minutes had been consumed by the service. As the minister's voice ceased, Dorothy Pollak screamed. She was led to the casket once more and once more dropped, hysterically weeping, across it.

"Watch that plate glass window," yelled Undertaker Eudeikis as the glass groaned under the pressure of scores beyond it and other scores behind it. Over in the corner where Joe Pollak lay there were the clatter of falling chairs and the crash of breaking glass as vases went down beneath the onslaught. Then the break came.

Mob Pushes Way Out.

Deputy Sheriffs Mike Jelinek and William Feeney each took an arm as the pretty widow in the black crêpe dress and the modish black coat with its white lapin collar sagged limply between them. They led her toward the door. She was sobbing and crying out in Polish and English, trying to rush back again. Behind her came the stampede.

Burly patrolmen in uniform clutched the door jamb, beads of perspiration standing out on their foreheads, and held on for dear life as the crowd surged through in the wake of the widow. Helpless as straws on a river current, they battled to keep themselves from being swept completely out of the chapel as the mob broke for the open air.

Grunts and cries testified to jabbings of elbows and feet trodden upon unmercifully. A few minutes later it was over and the tension was past.

Procession to Grave Starts.

Scores of cars trumpeted their way through the packed streets around the chapel as the procession began to the cemetery at 5400 North Crawford avenue. In Hermitage avenue and all the streets leading into it for some blocks north eager spectators swirled around on the pavement, perched on fences, porches, and nearby roofs for a glimpse of the slim, smart figure in black and white with a deputy sheriff on either side and a jail matron in the rear.

Brakes squealed and bumpers crashed as onlookers dodged between the cars of the cortège. The open car laden with the floral tokens swarmed with urchins on either running board as it moved forward.

Crowd Tramples Graves.

At the cemetery every drive was lined with the vehicles of those who had determined not to be cheated of a glimpse of the self-made widow.

Workmen struggled in vain to preserve the graves from violation by the trampling feet of the horde. Over them swarmed the onlookers. Scores of those who fought for places were ignorant of the fact that they stood above the grave of another man shot to death and buried only a few days ago, whose death had been foretold by a card medium. He was George Carl, a south side grocer.

Motorcycle and other police shoved and pushed to make a way to the Pollak grave for the mourners—the widow, her blonde young sister, Mary; her mother, and her cousin, Mrs. Victoria Schultz, a witness to the shooting. The pallbearers deposited the casket and stood back. The pressure from behind became perilous. Those at the edge were being pushed beyond their strength to resist. Some dropped forward with their hands on the silvered metal of the coffin to keep their balance.

Short Service at Grave.

Shouting and shoving, police cleared enough space to give room, and forced a passage for the Rev. Mr. Ryan, who had been isolated, helpless in the crush.

Once at the grave, the minister spoke briefly, consigning Pollak's body to the earth. Another shriek, and Dorothy was struggling with her mother and sister, attempting to throw herself into the grave. She was held back by the deputies. The pallbearers stripped off their gloves and tossed them down on top of the casket. A flower was dropped, and the weird rites were at an end.

It was as difficult for the police to make a way to remove their prisoner as it had been to get her there. Eventually they half led, half carried her back to the car that took her to her cell in the county jail once more, still weeping—and still undisheveled.

Another Woman Mourns.

One other woman shed tears yesterday for Joe Pollak. She was Mrs. Julia Cebulski, former friend of the alcohol dealer and accused by his widow of being more than a friend. Mrs. Cebulski slipped into the Eudeikis chapel shortly before noon. Going up to the casket, she stood looking down at Pollak's body.

"I asked her if there was anything I could do to help," Undertaker Eudeikis said. "She said, 'O, yes. Please raise the glass so I can kiss him good-by.'" The undertaker refused to say whether the casket was opened.

Resume Inquest Saturday.

On Saturday Mrs. Pollak will be called again before a coroner's jury, which at its first meeting recessed the inquest to permit further investigation of the shooting. Since her arrest she has alternately wept for Joe and considered her clothes. Her mind shuttles back and forth between the topics with amazing agility, as when she stopped crying suddenly a couple of days ago, to remark, as if she had just thought of it:

"Well—now I can be a blonde."

Insurance Firm Sues Mr. Gann on $21,300 U.S. Ship Payment

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Edward Everett Gann, brother-in-law of Vice President Charles Curtis, was today named defendant in a civil suit for $21,300. The suit, which was filed in the District Supreme court, alleged that Gann had "wrongfully converted" that amount of money to his own use.

The New Jersey Fidelity and Plate Glass Insurance company of Newark, N. J., filed the suit.

The insurance company had placed a bond with the government when the Spear Engineering corporation secured a contract to build the motorship Hydrographer.

Gann Agent for Builders.

Gann, as agent for the shipbuilders, and the George H. Price company, local agents for the insurance company, were to hold jointly all moneys paid by the government to the Spear corporation, the suit alleged. However, it was claimed, Gann, on Aug. 2, 1929, received a payment from the treasury of $21,300 and he failed to place the money in the account he and the Price company jointly controlled.

Later on the shipbuilders defaulted on their contract and the Fidelity company was forced to pay the United States government $110,774 which the government lost in taking over the work on the ship. The company, by reason of the default, contends it is entitled to the $21,300 and despite demands made upon Gann the money has not been paid over to it.

Gann Avoids Questions.

Gann, called at his office by newspaper men, said he had no desire to discuss the case. "I will make the proper reply at the proper time in the proper court," he said. His only question was as to the identity of the attorney who filed the suit. This was Foster Wood, a local lawyer.

Largely due to the fact that his wife is official hostess for Vice President Curtis and therefore second lady of the land, Mr. Gann has achieved considerably publicity in recent years. During the last three years he has attended countless formal dinners to which the Vice President had been invited. In each case Mrs. Gann, as the hostess of the Vice President, sat at the head of the table, Mr. Gann sat at the foot.

"Make Hair Grow while the sun shines"

"It is a well known phenomenon that in the summer the growth of hair is more rapid," says Dr. Arnold Lorand, Vienna Dermatologist.

THAT Hair grows faster in the summer than at any other season is an established scientific fact. You can take advantage of this seasonal peculiarity by starting Thomas' hair and scalp treatment at once.

Your hair will respond more quickly to this famous proved method of treatment now than at any other time. Within an unusually short time your dandruff will disappear, hairfall will stop, and new hair will actually be visible on the thin and bald spots. Call at the Thomas' office and talk your problem over with the specialist in charge. He will gladly examine your scalp without charge or obligation and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do for you.

RASKOB PHONES ROOSEVELT HE IS TO VISIT HIM

May Swell Roster of Big Business Backers.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—John J. Raskob telephoned Gov. Roosevelt today to tell the governor that he would visit him later in the week.

JOHN J. RASKOB.

Raskob held the political purse strings for Al Smith in the '28 campaign, and is the retired chairman of the Democratic national committee. It was Mr. Raskob's support which gave Gov. Smith his greatest bid for the approval of the moneyed interests of the country, and while Gov. Roosevelt is not expected to gain the same intimacy with Raskob that Smith enjoyed, the New Yorker's visit to Albany may result in adding the name of Raskob to the roster of men of big business, such as Bernard Baruch, who have given their aid to the Roosevelt campaign.

Mr. Raskob is expected Friday.

No Replies to Pay Rollers.

Asked this evening to comment on the barrage laid down by Republican leaders yesterday, criticizing the governor's radio address of Saturday night, Mr. Roosevelt replied he had "not one peep" to offer.

He has refused to answer the attacks made by the Hoover pay rollers, as the principal spokesmen for the Republican administration have been designated, contenting himself with issuing a promise that when his direct adversary, President Hoover, has anything to say, an answer will be given speedily.

Willard Discusses Railroads.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore railroad, was today's luncheon guest at the governor's mansion.

He presented the plight of the American railroads, as Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific, and W. Averill Harriman, chairman of the Illinois Central, had done before him.

A number of other visitors at the mansion included John O'Hanlan of the New York Federation of Labor. The governor is known to be eager to present a definite plan for relieving unemployment.

His particular hope is to arrange for a shorter work day and a shorter work week.

Franklin Brooks, former assemblyman from Westchester county, described by the governor as "a good Republican," called at the mansion and when newspaper men asked Mr. Roosevelt if Brooks was still a good Republican,

Gov. Roosevelt had nothing to say about the reports from New York that Mayor James J. Walker is planning to run for governor if Gov. Roosevelt sustains charges against Walker and removes him as mayor.

ROOSEVELT PAYS OLD SOCIAL DEBT TO KAISERLAND

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Gov. Roosevelt settled an old debt today. In 1896, when the governor was a lad of 14, he and a tutor went on a bicycle tour in Germany. They committed various minor infractions of the imperial laws and during one day the future governor was arrested and fined four times, the last being when he dared to pedal into the fortified city of Strassbourg.

He was given courteous treatment, however, and when the authorities perceived his innocence of wrongful intent they gave him a stein of lager and a bit of apple tort.

Today the governor and his son, Franklin Jr., were hosts to Prince Louis Ferdinand and Prince Frederick, sons of the former crown prince of Germany. The youths were shown about the mansion and grounds and were sent off happy after being treated to milk and cookies.

"MARRYING J. P.," 79, TO WED

'MARRYING J. P.' OF EVANSTON TO WED AT AGE 79

Harrison's Bride-to-Be Is 41 Years.

Samuel Harrison of Evanston, who has performed nearly 1,700 marriage ceremonies during his 30 years as a justice of the peace, will figure in one more ceremony Saturday. This time, however, some one else will tie the nuptial knot; Justice Harrison is going to be a groom.

The 79 year old justice and his bride to be took out a marriage license at the county building yesterday. She is Mrs. Emmy Christensen, 41 years old, 1033 Wesley avenue, Evanston. She is a widow and a grandmother. Harrison is a widower and a great grandfather. They met several months ago.

Ceremony to Be Saturday.

They will be married some time Saturday at Mrs. Christensen's home, Justice Harrison said last night. A Municipal court judge from Chicago probably will read the wedding service, he said. Although declining to discuss his approaching marriage fully, the justice admitted that he would follow the precepts which he has given to newlyweds for many years.

Among them are: "Treat your wife as a mate, not an idol," and "Woman's place is in the home, and her husband's place is beside her."

Received 250 Offers.

Justice Harrison, who holds the distinction of having been Evanston's first fire chief and of being the oldest justice in the county, courted the marital limelight last April when he held public bids for a wife. He received more than 250 responses, none of which he accepted.

At the time Justice Harrison specified that no woman need apply unless she were redheaded. Mrs. Christensen is redheaded. Harrison resides and has his office at 1561 Sherman avenue, Evanston.

CLOUDBURST HITS LONDON; ONE MAN KILLED BY BOLT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 1.—A cloudburst and an electrical storm broke over London this afternoon. One person was killed and several were injured. The damage was great. Streets and basements were flooded.

At Twickenham a 65 year old spectator at a cricket match was killed by lightning as he stood under a tree. Two men standing nearby were injured. Lightning bolts also caused several fires. Subway lines were flooded, halting service. Police were faced to bail out flooded Bow street station courtroom.

Several women fainted as hundreds crowded into a pedestrians' subway of the house of parliament to escape the downpour.

PREDICT RECORD VOTE IN MISSOURI PRIMARY TODAY

Repeal and 'Bossism' Are Main Issues.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Prohibition and "bossism" are the leading issues in Missouri's primary election tomorrow to nominate a successor to United States Senator Harry B. Hawes, Democrat, who has announced his retirement, and to name party choices for congress, governor, and other state offices.

Wet and dry organizations have indorsed candidates for all major offices and have taken an unusually active part in the campaign.

With several bitter fights, chief of which is the issue of "bossism" raised in the Democratic gubernatorial contest, three-fourths of a million votes, a record breaking number, are expected to be cast.

Champ Clark's Son in Race.

Among the five Democratic candidates for Hawes' senatorial post is Col. Bennett Champ Clark of St. Louis, son of the late Speaker Champ Clark.

Clark is opposed by Charles M. Hay, St. Louis, long a state dry leader and senatorial nominee in 1928; Charles M. Howell, Kansas City; Col. James Merryman, Kansas City. All except W. Byrnes, St. Louis, and Robert H. Hay have announced they favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Hay favors resubmission.

Both Clark and Hay have openly accused Howell of excessive expenditures of campaign funds.

Henry W. Kiel, former mayor of St. Louis; former Congressman Dewey J. Short of Galena, and Robert J. Kratky, St. Louis attorney, are the principal candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination. Kiel and Kratky are strongly opposed to prohibition.

Missouri's sixteen congressmen—twelve Democrats and four Republicans—are among the fifty-six Democrats and twenty-nine Republicans running for the nomination. The successful thirteen from each party will be chosen from the state at large because of failure to redistrict when the number of congressmen was reduced by three.

Wets in Kansas Race.

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The biennial Kansas primary campaign for the first time since 1914 has brought the prohibition issue before the voters of one of the initial states to outlaw the liquor traffic.

Several repealists and submissionists are included among the 63 Republican, 50 Democratic and 9 Socialist candidates to be voted on tomorrow for congressional and state offices.

Several candidates for congressman and United States senator have made the federal farm board an issue by advocating its abolishment.

CROSLEY GIVEN 13 GUN SALUTE; DEPARTS TODAY

Rear Admiral Walter S. Crosley yesterday retired as commandant of the Ninth naval district and the Great Lakes Naval Training station in a brief ceremony on the Great Lakes parade grounds. He reviewed the 2d battalion of recruits to whom he delivered a brief speech, and was honored with a salute of 13 guns.

Admiral Crosley will leave today for the Pacific coast, where he will be assigned to command a battleship division in the Pacific. He will be succeeded at Great Lakes by Rear Admiral Watt T. Cluverius.

ROOSEVELT WRITES CHEER TO INFANTILE PARALYSIS VICTIM

Boston, Mass., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Writing a word of courage to a youth suffering from infantile paralysis, Gov. Roosevelt of New York advised him not to lose heart—that the affliction was not the worst thing in life that might befall him. The governor recalled the fight he had undergone to regain his strength and "get on with the job."

"There's lots worse things in life than this," he wrote to Benjamin C. Marion of Roslindale.

Benjamin, who is 19, is the son of Mrs. Jean Marion, supervisor of nurses in the Roslindale branch of the Community Health association and widow of Dr. James Willard Johnson Marion, who was a classmate of Gov. Roosevelt at Harvard. The youth, who was stricken in 1929, is recovering.

CHINA PREPARES TO SEND ARMY AGAINST JAPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 2.—[Tuesday.]—Japanese and neutral dispatches from Hankow today said that Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, Nationalist leader and virtual dictator of China, is attempting to reach a compromise with communist leaders in order to release regular troops for possible use against the Japanese in North China and in the province of Jehol.

The Japanese reported that Marshal Chiang is preparing to lead six divisions to assist Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, former Manchurian war lord and military leader in North China, in the Peiping area in the event of a Japanese invasion.

Chinese organizations are now openly tightening the boycott against Japan. Many merchants handling Japanese goods have been the targets of bombs and funds are being openly solicited to finance volunteer bands operating against the Japanese in Manchuria. The Japanese charge that the Chinese have violated the Shanghai armistice agreement and have secretly mobilized 10,000 troops.

G. O. P. CONGRESS CANDIDATES FOR DRY LAW REPEAL

Republican candidates for congress from Cook county met at the Morrison hotel yesterday at the call of Congressman Fred A. Britten, dean of the Illinois Republicans, and adopted a platform with planks for prohibition repeal, no cancellation of European war debts, a strong navy, economy in government, and the negotiation of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty "without reference to diversion of water at Chicago."

Besides Mr. Britten, these candidates attended the meeting: Elliot W. Sproul [3], M. A. Michaelson [7], P. H. Moynihan [2], Samuel Epstein [5], Alfred Rueben [6], C. T. Jankowski [4], and Julius Klein, state at large.

The St. Lawrence seaway plank included the phrase that "no international arbitration commission should ever be authorized to tell the United States how much water it may or may not divert from Lake Michigan. This authority should never be taken from congress."

Mr. Britten expressed satisfaction with the meeting. "The Cook county congressional candidates are confident of victory," he said, "and show every disposition to campaign strenuously until election day. I predict a lot of new faces in the next congress." The meetings will be held each week.

PISTOL TOTER IS JAILED AS NEW GUN COURT OPENS

Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green, presiding in the new "gun court" set up by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby to specialize in cases of violence and concealed weapons, opened proceedings yesterday by jailing a pistol toter, fining a man armed with a knife and dismissing seven alleged gamblers.

Charles Davis, Negro, 21 years old, 1212 West 13th street, was the first defendant. Daniel Scanlon, south park policeman, testified he saw Davis loitering at South Park boulevard and 55th street, searched him and found a pistol. Davis was sentenced to thirty days in the Bridewell.

Another Negro, Herman Landry, 24 years old, arrested under similar circumstances, was fined $10 and costs. The police testified that they found a small knife in his pocket. Landry unable to pay the fine, was sent to jail to serve it out.

In the gambling case Lieut. Martin McCormick produced racing sheets to prove that the seven prisoners taken in three alleged handbook shops on the near north side were betting on the horses. The lieutenant was unable, however, to show search warrants for the raids. Judge Green ordered the evidence suppressed and freed the prisoners.

PRINCE HORRIFIES SOCIETY; MAKES CASTLE A HOTEL

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 1.—One more family of European nobles needs money and is taking in paying guests in a castle where eighteen years ago nobody could have set foot who couldn't trace his family back at least sixteen generations.

This time it is Prince Ludwig Windischgraetz, scion of one of the oldest and most powerful noble families in the history of Austria-Hungary. He has just announced that his famous old castle at Sarospatak is open for paying guests. The price is $3 a day for board and room. Drinks and washing are extra, but the cellar, especially in Tokay wines, is one of the best in central Europe.

Castle Built by King.

The castle at Sarospatak was built in the thirteenth century by King Andreas II. Legend has it that St. Elizabeth was born there. Later it passed through various noble families, the Paloczis, Perenyis, and Rakoczys. Prince Bretzenheim rebuilt it in 1702, after King Leopold I. had all but demolished it. About this time the Windischgraetz family came into possession of it and has kept it ever since.

Budapest society is scandalized at the action of Prince Windischgraetz, but he remains adamant.

"Money is money these days," he is reported to have said, "and guests—well, the best guests today are those who can pay."

Follows Example of Zita.

Prince Windischgraetz, of course, is only following a precedent set by the Hapsburgs themselves. For none other than the former Empress Zita, the head of all the Hapsburgs, now rents out her favorite castle not far from Vienna as an ordinary "pension."

This is the Schloss Wartholz, near Fayerbach, about an hour and a half on the train from the Austrian capital. The last Hapsburg emperor, Carl, regarded it as his favorite castle and in it Otto, heir to the throne, was born eighteen years ago. Zita likes it, too, especially for the fond memories it bring back. But she needs the money and so the castle has become the "Pension Schloss Wartholz," a favorite week-end hostelry for the families of the noisy bourgeois whom the Hapsburgs once so despised. The former empress pockets the room rent taken in.

Fountain Now Swimming Pool.

The castle is in a beautiful spot. It lies hidden in a deep forest whose trees hug the edges of the Schneeberg peak, rising 6,000 feet. The scenery is elegant, but not the palace. None of the Hapsburg castles were.

On the terrace of veranda hard headed business men sit reading the newspapers while ther wives play with their children in what used to be a fountain but it now used as a swimming pool. The guests talk.

"The Hapsburgs," you say.

"O, yes. The Hapsburgs," a cloak merchant chuckles, "yes they're still taking our money . . . charging $2 a day for room and board in these days . . . ain't it awful?"

Austrian law allows the former empress to collect the rent on her palace, but she cannot return to it unless she renounces her former imperial rights. Zita prefers to keep her rights and collect the rent.

SLAYING TRIAL OF BRITISH FLYER BEGINS TODAY

Miami, Fla., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Mysterious circumstances of what the state contends was a love triangle that led to the death of Haden Clarke, young writer, at the home of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian flyer, will be placed before a jury tomorrow in the trial of Capt. W. N. Lancaster, British aviator, on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Keith-Miller will be a principal witness. She supports the story of Lancaster, her flying partner and one time fiancé, that Clarke committed suicide.

Clarke was shot the morning of April 21 in the room he and Lancaster occupied at her home, within twelve hours after Lancaster had hurriedly flown from St. Louis on hearing Clarke and Mrs. Keith-Miller planned to be married. The pistol with which Clarke was killed was bought by Lancaster in St. Louis.

A hearing on deportation charges against Mrs. Keith-Miller was postponed today until Aug. 15. She is free under $1,000 bond.

Waukegan H. S. Sets Tax Levy at $388,000 for Year

The Waukegan Township High school board yesterday fixed its tax levy for the coming year at $388,000. Of this amount $320,000 goes for educational operating expense and $68,000 for sinking fund and interest on bonds. The figure represents a saving of $24,000 from the budget of the last year. John E. Reardon, secretary of the board, said that the tax rate for high school purposes, which has been $1.58, will be lowered by 11 or 12 cents.

SEVEN AIR LINES UNITE IN NEW EXPRESS SYSTEM

Network Covers 17,600 Miles of Routes.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

The second large air express network came into being yesterday, bringing all the large air lines into one of two networks, the Railway Express Agency system and the General Air Express system. General Air Express, inaugurated yesterday, is composed of six air mail lines and one nonair mail line, with more than 17,600 miles of route.

The air lines represented by General Air Express are Transcontinental and Western Air, Eastern Air Transport American Airways, Transamerican United States Airways and Pennsylvania Airlines. Ludington Airlines, one nonmail route, is included. The system offers connecting bus and train service to all parts of United States, Mexico, Canada, and South America, and pickup and delivery service will be performed by the Postal Telegraph and Cable company.

Shipments Limited to 200 Pounds.

Shipments are limited to 200 pounds except by special arrangement, and insurance on the cargo is available for not more than 15 cents per $100. A typical air express rate is $2.80 for a 10 pound package carried overnight between New York and Chicago.

The other large network is the air express service maintained by the Railway Express Agency in conjunction with United Airlines, Northwest airways, National Parks airways, Western Air Express and Pan-American airways. The latter system covers South America. This system also offers a pickup and delivery service at no extra cost, $50 free liability and additional insurance at 15 cents per $100. Carriage of a 10 pound package between Chicago and New York costs $4.40.

Rumors of Affiliation.

Since the formation of General Air Express there have been rumors that Pan-American Airways and Northwest airways have sought an affiliation with the new system, as well as their affiliation with the Railway Express Agency system.

Air express has become of increased importance in the eyes of air transport line operators, as the rates paid by the postoffice department for the transport of air mail have been decreased, and a concerted drive to increase the volume of air express is well under way. Last year the Railway Express Agency group increased its express poundage to 885,000, as compared with 286,000 pounds carried the previous year.

While Germany was pondering its chaotic political status, the Nazis, infuriated by their failure to obtain a majority in the reichstag, organized punitive expeditions against their political rivals. Six persons were killed, many were wounded in post-election riots in Koenigsberg, Braunschweig and in the province of Schleswig-Holstein.

"Last Warning" Issued.

Franz Bracht, Chancellor von Papen's federal commissioner administering the state of Prussia, issued a "last warning" to all political parties, threatening them with heavy punishment if acts of violence continued.

The Nazi raids began at dawn in Koenigsberg, East Prussia. Gangs of brown shirted youths broke into the homes of their political enemies. One group broke down the door of the former provincial governor, Von Bahrenfeld. When he remonstrated, the Nazis fired, wounding him.

At the same time other groups rang bells at the homes of the communist city counsellor, Herr Sauff; the communist reichstag deputy, Walter Schuetz. Women were trampled down or locked in kitchens while the invaders shot wildly. Sauff and Zirpius were killed and Schuetz was seriously wounded. A girl who rushed to protect Schuetz's wife was shot and is dying.

Rioters Use Torches.

Incendiary bombs set fire to the building of a Social Democrat newspaper. Garages, owned by Republican leaders, were destroyed by the rioters who ran through the streets with blazing torches.

Only after police reserves were rushed to Koenigsberg to reinforce the regular police was the rioting stopped. Building trades workers went on a strike as a protest against terrorism.

Braunschweig's Socialist mayor, Herr Boehme, was wounded when Nazis hurled a bomb into his residence. Other bombs were hurled against shops and homes of Republicans. The Hitlerites clashed with the communists, and the leader of the Hitlerites at Braunschweig university was shot to death.

Nazi raiders raced through Schleswig-Holstein villages in automobiles at dawn, firing and flinging bombs into communist beer halls.

Two communists were slain in a clash with police in Hamburg. In a suburb of Essen Hitlerites were surprised by police in the act of stopping up automobiles and searching them for weapons. Shots were exchanged and one Hitlerite was seriously wounded. Police arrested 22 Nazis and confiscated their revolvers and ammunition.

Police Hem In Nazis.

During the night a battalion of Hitlerite "storm troops" assembled near Bochum. They were equipped with full marching kits and carried provisions for three days. Physicians accompanied the Nazis. Police surrounded the battalion this morning and arrested them. Police later released the troopers, ordering them to leave the city one at a time.

A young reichsbannerman was killed at Hoesisch-Oldendorf, near Cassel, in a clash with Hitlerites.

During the outrages the republican reichsbanner organization was besieged by republicans with pleas to protect them from the violence of the "storm troopers." Karl Hoeltermann, reichsbanner chieftain, conferred with his assistants on measures to be taken to protect the republicans from attack.

Under the provisions of the ten day political truce decreed by President von Hindenburg all election posters were torn down today to erase the last vestiges of the election struggle.

RENEW EFFORTS TO GIVE SCHOOLS CASH PAY DAY

Better Chance Seen for Loan from East.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

After three days of inactivity there was a renewal of official efforts yesterday to provide a pay day, in cash, for the school teachers and other employes.

Deputy Controller Petterson announced, after a long distance phone conversation with Controller M. S. Szymczak in New York, that he would sell any tax warrants in the city's aggregate of funds to the bankers and invest the $2,245,000 received in the 1932 educational tax anticipation warrants of the school board.

The controller will do this, the announcement says, "provided the board of education will take the necessary steps to bring about legislative enactment repealing the socalled N. S. F. check law, which is the cause for not being able to secure a legal opinion upholding the marketability of the 1932 educational tax warrants."

Report Loan Outlook Brighter.

Dispatches from New York yesterday were to the effect that eastern bankers had told Mr. Szymczak that because of improved financial conditions in Chicago and the rise in the bond market the chances for obtaining a loan in New York were much better than a few months ago.

Controller Szymczak instructed Mr. Petterson to request Fred W. Sargent and D. F. Kelly of the committee on public expenditures to ascertain what warrants the Chicago banks will purchase "and secure a basis of action that will permit the payment of teachers' salaries in accordance with the agreement with Mayor Cermak on July 25," according to the statement. It also was announced that Messrs. Sargent and Kelly had promised to comply with the request this week.

In addition the school board directed President Myers, Trustees Orville Taylor and Joseph P. Savage to ascertain from Melvin A. Traylor of the First National bank and Abner J. Stilwell of the Continental-Illinois bank why they had not provided the cash for a pay day. Mr. Myers said last night that the two bankers would be interviewed today, if possible.

Repeal of Law Urged.

This plan was initiated by Trustee Taylor, while the board was considering a resolution to ask Gov. Emmerson for a special session of the legislature to repeal the "N. S. F." check law.

Action on this resolution, offered by Trustee William D. McJunkin was deferred, but the board instructed its attorney to ask for a rehearing of the "N. S. F." check decision of the state supreme court. The attorney was instructed to ask for a stay order, so that the order to issue "N. S. F." checks will not become effective.

"Before we ask for a special session," said Trustee Taylor, "I would like to know from the bankers their attitude toward buying school tax anticipation warrants and, if they are opposed to those warrants, whether it is due solely to the N. S. F. check law, or whether they have other criticism.

"I want to know why Mr. Traylor and Mr. Stilwell now appear to decline to provide the pledged $2,245,000 for a teachers' pay day. They made the promise in my presence that their banks would provide the cash. It may not be their fault at all, but the pay day was to have been last Friday, and I think we should ascertain why it did not arrive."

Bankers Want Taxes Paid.

"The bankers have been frank with us," remarked Trustee Savage. "Mr. Traylor told us in the mayor's office some time ago the banks would not buy our school warrants until the people pay their taxes. E. E. Brown of the First National told us here that the banks will be largely influenced by the recommendations of the Sargent committee."

Both Trustee Savage and President Myers told their fellow trustees that they resented outside interference with the board's affairs. They referred in particular to those agencies which brought about the adoption of the "N. S. F." check law, which the trustees said they knew nothing about until it had been passed.

"I'm fed up on others handling the board's business," said President Myers. "They went to Springfield and had this N. S. F. check law passed without the courtesy of conferring with the board." It has been rumored that a teachers' organization was responsible for the law.

Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, another trustee, remarked: "The bankers must have been snoring when the law was passed. So was the school board. We had attorneys looking after our interest in Springfield. We can't get away with that alibi."

The joint board of teachers' unions suggested the course which the board adopted yesterday. At their meeting in the morning the teachers asked Corporation Counsel Sexton to call the mayor's "summer cabinet" together with school trustees, bankers, the law firm of Chapman & Cutler, bond experts, and the citizens' committee, to ascertain the attitude of the banks toward the N. S. F. check law before acting upon the request for a special legislative session to repeal the law.

The board took preliminary action to provide a pay day in tax anticipation warrants for teachers and other school employes who did not get their salaries last year. To these the board owes $5,428,340. With $3,400,000 to be obtained from the city in 1931 tax anticipation warrants the board will have more than enough warrants to pay all salaries due last year. The board requested the return of these warrants by the city in exchange for 1932 warrants and provided for raising the interest rate on the 1931 warrants from 4 to 6 per cent.

School officials have contended that the $5,428,340 is still owed to the school employes because they refused to accept scrip and tax warrants last year.

A dozen teachers denied yesterday that they had refused tax anticipation warrants, and they said they doubted whether other teachers had refused them. Some of them did not take the scrip because, they asserted, it was not accepted at department stores, except on past due accounts.

IROQUOIS INDIANS, FOR FIRST TIME, TO VOTE NEXT NOVEMBER

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(AP)—For the first time since he lost his hunting grounds the red man of New York is going to vote for a "great white father."

Under the direction of a Mohawk chief whose anglicised name is Thomas W. Shaw, a campaign has been launched to get out the vote of the six Iroquois nations in the coming presidential election "to obtain justice for ourselves."

The Indian was granted the franchise in 1924, but he has rarely if ever used it in this state. Economic conditions and dependance on the white race for employment are said to have awakened him to his responsibilities. The federation embraces the Mohawk, Seneca, Onondaga, Cayuga, Oneida, and Tuscarora tribes.

Shaw, who on the reservation is Chief Tahowadehote, said he would urge support for Gov. Roosevelt.

Judge to Speed Lawsuits Against Delinquents.

When the last receipts of the day were counted in the cashiers' cages last evening—the deadline for the payment of 1930 real estate taxes under the installment plan—County Treasurer McDonough announced that $4,799,165 had been received since July 7, when the plan was inaugurated.

Many taxpayers whose funds were included in this total had paid their total assessments. Others agreed to pay their taxes in four installments. These have paid a total of $3,156,436 on 49,105 parcels of property. Yesterday $458,826 was paid on 5,806 parcels. The next installment of taxes under the plan will be due within 60 days.

Judge to Speed Suits.

Judge Craig Hood indicated that suits to collect delinquent 1930 personalty taxes must be brought to trial as quickly as possible as he started hearing a call of such cases yesterday in the Circuit court. He ordered that the number of cases called daily be increased from 20, the number put on his call for the opening day, to 100.

The majority of the attorneys who appeared before him were granted continuances of a week or ten days for their clients. Judge Hood told them, however, that unless some emergency arises they must be ready to proceed when the cases are called next. "Garden variety excuses," said the judge, "won't be accepted as ground for further continuances."

Asks Income Tax Data.

A number of continuances were granted when Lee La Rochelle, special attorney for the county, demanded that the defendant taxpayers produce their federal income tax returns to back their contentions that their personal property had been overassessed.

One case, that of the River Forest State bank, was settled after a hearing. The bank got a reduction from $2,112 to $1,915, which was the amount of its 1929 personalty tax, but was assessed $95 in penalties and costs. Attorney Elmer W. Arch, representing the bank, stated that its real estate taxes, $400 in 1929, were boosted to $2,000 in 1930.

Judgments were entered yesterday against two 1930 delinquent personality taxpayers whose cases were heard last week by Circuit Judge William V. Brothers. A $7,084 judgment was entered against Tyler, Hippach & Co., 400 West Ohio street, glass dealers, of which $6,860 was the tax levied on a $100,000 personal property assessment and $224 was for penalties and costs. The company paid the judgment.

Attorneys for A. G. Spalding & Bros., sporting goods manufacturers, took an appeal on a $14,000 judgment entered against their clients for delinquent 1930 personalty taxes.

Wife Hangs Herself in Home; Mate Finds Body

Mrs. Elizabeth Jarvey, 29 years old, mother of a 5 year old daughter, ended her life yesterday by hanging herself in her home at 4435 North Winchester avenue. The body was found by her husband, William, a downtown public accountant. Before hanging herself Mrs. Jarvey asked her housekeeper, Mrs. Alvina Kindelberger, 3125 North Racine avenue, to take her daughter, Joyce, home with her. Jarvey told Detectives Dennis Creedon and Thomas Creevey of the North Damen avenue station his wife was operated upon for appendicitis two weeks ago and since then she had been morose.

LEO BROTHERS SUSPECTS LAKE VICTIM IS FATHER

At the request of Leo Brothers, who is serving a prison term in Joliet for the murder of Alfred Lingle, an investigation was begun by Coroner Walsh yesterday to determine whether the body of a man recovered from the lake off Fullerton avenue on July 24 might be Brothers' father. The body, believed to have been in the water between three and five months, was clad in a blue suit with a label bearing the name, "Harvey Brothers."

In his letter to the coroner, Leo Brothers said one of his father's wrists was deformed, by an old sprain or break. At the coroner's order Dr. I. M. Feinberg examined the body at the county morgue and found the right wrist deformed.

On the other hand Police Sergt. Jack Greer, an acquaintance of the senior Brothers, declared after studying the dead men's face that it was not Brothers. The son's letter stated that his father, a barber, had lived at 121 North Ogden avenue. E. Cammies, a tenant there, said Brothers had moved out seven weeks ago intending to travel selling a scissors sharpener. Cammies had heard, he said, that some of his neighbors had seen Brothers within the last week.

Serbians Break Ground for New Cathedral Here

Ground was broken yesterday for the new Serbian cathedral to be erected at 1905 Fowler street. The principal address at the special service was delivered by Archbishop Madary.

STORE BUILT BY JOLIET DEBTORS OPENS SATURDAY

The Grohar brothers grocery store at 1203 Woodruff road, Joliet, which is being built with the unpaid bills of customers, neared completion yesterday as plans were made for the opening on Saturday. All the work on the 40 foot square brick building has been done by 115 men, who owe Anton and John Grohar more than $5,000. When the work has been completed the total bill will have been lowered $2,000, the brothers said yesterday.

The lease on the old Grohar store at 1204 Woodruff road is to expire soon. The brothers decided to build a new store and found that 60 per cent of their customers owed for groceries. They hit upon the plan of letting the customers build the store. A canvass revealed that all crafts necessary were represented on their books. First call was issued for laborers, who dug the basement. Brick layers, painters, plasterers, and plumbers began to pay for their groceries with labor. Material for the building cost the brothers $3,000.

Estate of Ex-Governor Is Sold for $500 Claim

Poplarville, Miss., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Theodore G. Bilbo, twice governor of Mississippi, stood near the auction block here today as his $50,000 "dearm house" and 3,000 acre estate were sold to satisfy a federal court judgment of $500 and costs of approximately $400. The title of the estate was transferred to H. K. Rouse, Pearl River Chancery court clerk, who was the only bidder.

GRAND TRUNK

In case you are skeptical about TERRAPLANING here's the evidence!

Women everywhere will be interested to know that Miss Amelia Earhart, who christened the ESSEX TERRAPLANE, is herself the first woman in the world to own one of these new type cars

Hence, when a car that is really new and revolutionary is ready for description, the language is weak from abuse.

That's why it takes a new word—TERRAPLANING—to picture the joyously thrilling performance of this radically new-type car, the ESSEX.

It's a totally different kind of performance—a skimming, dashing, get-there, safely close-to-the-road swift smooth motion such as has not been enjoyed before except in planing on the water or in the air!

We feel it is idle to challenge your credulity with generalities about this performance.

Your experience with conventional cars will probably discount the glowing things we might say about its nimble surging getaway, its split-second acceleration, its dogged whisper-quiet six-cylindered pneumounted power on the hills.

So we asked the scientists of Guggenheim School of Aeronautics, New York University, to measure the action of the ESSEX TERRAPLANE against earlier designs.

Just to make it interesting, we suggested it be matched not merely against cars competitively priced but against the costliest and finest mechanisms that American automotive engineering genius has devised.

Herewith, graphed on the chart, you see the results.

Look them over, see what TERRAPLANING means, and then remember you get it in the new ESSEX at a price that's actually down among and UNDER the former lowest-priced Three!

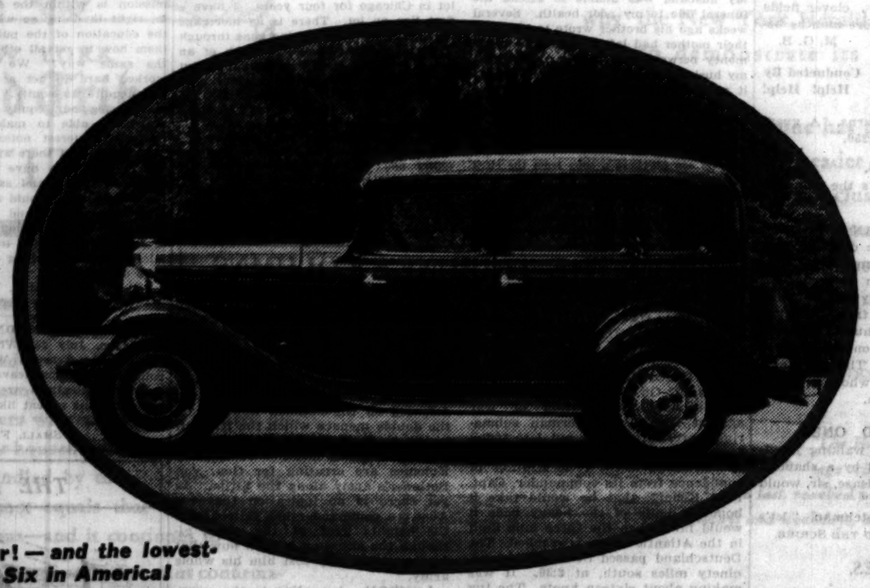

CHART SHOWING

ESSEX TERRAPLANE	100 %

CAR B . . .	95.6 %
CAR C . . .	86.6 %
CAR D . . .	76.2 %

3 " Standing start to 35 M.P.H.
4 " " " to 60 M.P.H.
5 Hill climb in high gear, time and summit speed

This chart is based on tests made by the scientists of Guggenheim School of Aeronautics, New York University. The cars used were all 1932 designs, stock production, none being specially fitted or tuned for the purpose. Performances were clocked both by stopwatch and Accelerometer. Testing hill was the steepest gradient of its distance East of the Rockies.

What a Car!—and the lowest-priced Six in America!

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE GERMAN POLITICAL CRISIS.

Results of the German elections interest and concern us in the United States chiefly as they bear upon the question of European—and American—stabilization and recovery. They do not supply every decisive material for an answer to that question. It is impossible for us, feeling and thinking politically as we do in America, to know whether or not the great gain of the Hitlerites, the substantial gain of the right parties generally, is a gain for stability in Germany and therefore to be accounted a gain for stability in Europe and the world. We must wait, at least until the processes of negotiation and compromise have found a government, to know whether there is prospect of an aggressive foreign policy which would retard coöperation for economic and financial recovery or even threaten peace.

We may allow for electioneering rhetoric, without underestimating the underlying objectives of the political classes represented by the supporters of the Von Papen government or the Fascist movement. There can be no doubt in the American mind that Herr Bruening's statesmanship offered better promise of a working out of the international contacts of Germany on lines the United States could welcome and support than any government formed by Von Papen and Hitler groups are likely to try. Perhaps Herr Bruening and his Centrists will be able, in the balance of party strength, to exercise a check upon a right government's foreign policy.

Apart from the question of its effect upon international relations, the swing toward Hitler seems to represent in Germany's internal polity the natural impulse of peoples in times of acute confusion to turn to strong government. Between the threat of chaos or the continuance of futile division and the acceptance of autocratic rule, a nation's will, up to a certain point, turns to strong government as a lesser evil. This occurred in Italy and in Great Britain. It would certainly occur in the United States. The choice is painful to a people aspiring to freedom and justice, but circumstances sometimes compel it. From this point of view, the swing in Germany to the right may make for stabilization, but this must depend upon whether the new forces exercise a wise measure of moderation in the exercise of power both in internal affairs and foreign relations. We hope, for this reason, that the exceptional abilities and large mindedness of Bruening will be operative in the German situation. We cannot forget the consequences of the dominant sway over German policy of the classes represented by the junkers and militarists before the war. If the swing to the right restores this sway, results will be unfortunate if not disastrous, unless experience has brought to them a moderation they have not revealed in the past.

MORE FEDERALIZATION.

One of our local jurists thinks that "all laws regulating marriage and divorce should be the same in every state. In other words, laws regulating marriage and divorce should be federal laws."

In other words, any majority in congress should impose its theories or convictions in this social concern upon the people of every state regardless of the social traditions, religious and moral convictions, or view of public policy of that community. If the majority in congress held very liberal views as to divorce they would be imposed upon states holding strict views, or vice versa. Thus a state preponderantly composed of members of religious denominations holding profound convictions that divorce should be little short of impossible might have imposed upon it a federal law framed according to the convictions of other communities in which other religious and social views prevailed.

This predicament is created by the federal prohibition laws which impose the moral convictions of a portion of the nation upon other portions of equal respectability and social responsibility. The framers of the constitution, wise and farseeing statesmen who understood conditions as well as principles, avoided this certain source of discord by not disturbing the authority over social legislation inherent in the sovereignty of the states. They did not propose to attempt to standardize social conditions by force of federal law. They knew that a constitutional framework designed to do so would not stand, would not, in fact, be adopted, and they understood too well the science of government and the conditions with which they were dealing to wish, much less to try, to force social conformity. They understood that majorities cannot successfully dictate to conscience or statutory mandates compel social changes. The mores of communities lie deeper than the laws, and attempts to transform them by force of government result in evils worse than those sought to be cured.

It would be very difficult, if not practically impossible, to reach any agreement upon the terms of a federal divorce law which could reasonably expect such general acceptance as would justify the experiment. The diversity of views even among religious authorities is considerable and serious. The diversity of views among laymen is even greater. To recognize this diversity is not to ignore the difficulties or the evils attending it, but for these evils and difficulties it is neither necessary nor wise to substitute worse. Much can be accomplished through action by states and courts to bring about uniformity when uniformity does not collide with conviction and to prevent the evasion of existing laws. For example, false residence or residence for divorce purposes only could and should be abolished. No doubt the selfish interest of states which find profit in lax jurisdictional rules is difficult to overcome, but in due time reputable opinion should prevail over it. The alternative to federal action is slow and limited, but that does not justify a heedless resort to the latter which would produce a worse condition than those which are now complained of. We have already suffered too much from the urge of impatient reform toward centralization and standardization.

A NEW CHAPTER IN AN OLD STORY.

Commander Waters of the bonus expeditionary force now reconcentrating in and about Johnstown, Pa., says he has been given a tract of wooded land in Maryland where the marchers may settle and build up a community. The episode now approaches a form more familiar to American habit than the one it had in Washington. One of the present day American difficulties arises from the lack of a frontier, or the lack of one where there is any willingness to abide.

It used to be that when Lady Luck was out of shoes the distressed citizen turned his face toward what he thought was better opportunity and followed it to seek better fortune. He did not always find it, but he at least hustled it and he thought that if he didn't he had himself at least partly to blame for taking his bad luck sitting down. Times have changed. There are citizens who think they have a constitutional right to a percentage of the return from another fellow's work and their self-respect does not permit them to derive what they do not earn from the other person's generosity, but requires them to base their subsistence upon a doctrine of natural rights.

This theory of expropriation has much political support from such statesmen as the absconding congressmen who lured the bonus marchers into Washington and then deserted them to the care of the police and the army. Poetic justice would require that several hundred congressmen be forced into the dusty retreat and be compelled to spend the winter with the men they deluded.

If the episode comes to rest on the tract offered we'll probably see an American town forming itself out of the restless wanderings of a body of citizens who have been hunting for hills with gold in them. Presently it will have an oldest inhabitant and some first citizens, a chamber of commerce, ball team and band, a civic spirit and persons who can remember way back when. There'll be a twenty story building and plans for one of forty, a movement to get a better railroad terminal, a bigger high school, two fast half backs, and a stadium. They may call the town Patman and name the first baby for that Texas congressman.

AN ABLE MAN GIVES IT UP.

One of the most useful men in congress, Representative Tilson of Connecticut, announces that he will not run for reëlection and, indeed, will resign as soon as practicable. His reason is that the "legitimate necessary expenses" of a member of congress absorb all his salary and leave nothing to be put by for his family. So at 66 after 22 years of able service in the house he prepares to leave to find occupation promising a financial return which "will at least be on the right side of the ledger."

Representative Tilson's case is not, of course, peculiar. It is that of other congressmen without independent private means, and especially that of the congressmen who are most devoted and able in the performance of their public duties. Ability and devotion invite responsibilities and the able, industrious man finds so much to do that he has no time or energy for outside work which might add legitimately to his income or savings. Slack or mediocre men probably find it easy to go on year after year in congressional office. The best men, unless they have private incomes, make sacrifices which have limits.

One of the conditions which impose heavily upon representatives is the shortness of their term of office. Representatives sometimes have to begin preparing for reëlection before they take their seats for the term to which they have been elected. At best, an election every two years involves effort, expense, and often uncertainty which absorb too much of a congressman's resources of means and spirit. The two year term belongs, we think, to the past, and should be replaced with one of four years.

Editorial of the Day

TEXAS ON PROHIBITION.

[The Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Results of the Texas referendum on resubmission of national prohibition, although somewhat inconclusive, indicate that the Lone Star state has joined North Carolina in favoring temperance over prohibition. Thus the dissatisfaction with efforts to bring about reform at the end of a club spreads throughout the erstwhile dry south.

It is unfortunate that Democratic party officials in many counties failed to follow instructions of the state executive committee to place the question on the ballot, thereby preventing a complete expression of the electorate on resubmission. Dry leaders will contend that the majority abstaining from voting were prohibitionists.

But the two to one vote in favor of resubmission cannot be explained away so easily. Neither can it be construed as meaning that Texas is "wet." It indicates simply that Texans are dissatisfied with prohibition, that they do not consider the "noble experiment" a great or even a medium sized success.

Texans are joining their fellow countrymen in favoring temperance over prohibition as a solution of the liquor problem. And they believe with their fellow countrymen in bringing temperance into being by strictly legal means.

The first step in that legal procedure is repeal of the eighteenth amendment. So long as it remains in the constitution the country must limp along in an effort to enforce it or nullify it, which is an even greater disgrace. With it out of the way the problem of temperance can be attacked.

And the first step in repeal is resubmission.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

FORE!

COMES now the fourth annual reunion of Wake followers and Line followers in these precincts where a composite Wake-Line will prevail for the next four weeks. Perhaps the acute trepidation with which our unslippered feet first entered this sanctum sanctorum is less acute because of familiarity, but we fully realize that neither Wakers nor Liners will receive in this dual column that to which they have been accustomed. Therefore, as in the past, we ask good-natured tolerance, with the knowledge that at the expiration of the interregnum the present Wake-Line again will become The Wake on the sports pages and R. H. L. will return from his vacation full of new stories and anecdotes.

Meantime, let's have fun, Helpers and Contributors. In this frame of mind advantage is with the Liners. While Wake traditions may be maintained because of the presence of its conductor in these parts, the door is wide open so far as the Line is concerned. In the past we merely removed from their shelves many jars from R. H. L.'s cannery. This time our iconoclasm has gone farther to the actual breaking of several revered jars. Therefore, a word to the wise, etc.—we'd quote the Latin, but we don't happen to remember it from our C rating at college. All right, let's go!

LOVE'S LABOR.

I sometimes think that through our work
The world of man is blessed.
At close of day when work is done
How sweet is home and rest.
The little windows in my home
Are golden squares of light.
While seasons come and go, they gleam
And beckon me at night.

While love may give us wings, our work
Will keep our feet on ground.
Together love and labor make
The grand old world go round.

ELLA M.

R. H. L. IN HIS DEPARTURE finale explained that he was going to Washington, D. C., with a trailer attached to the old bus. He neglected to state that the trailer was for the greater comfort of Tommy Atkins. That you may know just as much as we do of the plans, let us add: R. H. L. hopes to domicile with Arthur Sears Henning and attend the wedding of the latter's daughter in the near future. That plan, if successful, will obviate difficulties concerning Tommy Atkins, which, in the past, has suffered at various times insults from obdurate hostelries.

Whether there is any other port of call than Washington we know not. We asked Col. Shelby for information and received, "Does one visit more than one place in times like these?" Whether it was an answer or an evasion we leave to you. Anyway, you now know all that we know, which will be the policy of the Wake-Line during our tenure. If any postcards come from the entourage you shall know their contents.

BALLAD OF A MODERN FANNETTE

Grandma liked Rusie when she was a fan,
Long before I was around;
My dear Aunt Hattie went wild over Matty
Whenever he took the mound.
Ma goes in a trance watching Gomez or Vance
And screams out her lungs with glee—
They're a pretty good bunch,
But I'd rather have lunch
With Mister Lon Warneke.

SHELBY L. MASON.

THE WORLD OLYMPIC GAMES at Los Angeles, purposed to create international amity and good will, opened according to tradition. On the first day of competition the French protested that a Canadian nudged one of their runners in the ribs rounding a turn of the 880 yard race and knocked him off his stride. Officials in solemn conclave pronounced the nudge not sufficient to constitute a foul.

FINANCIAL ADJUSTMENT.

Then arises Helper Beau Jester to remark that many a big shot has been discharged during this period of economic readjustment.

OUR HEART GOES OUT to the German nation. It is bad enough in this country, where we have only Republicans, Democrats, and the mavericks from those two classifications who like to be called progressive Republicans or progressive Democrats, but usually are referred to as radicals. As a result of Sunday's German elections thirteen different political parties have seats in the reichstag. Poor Germany!

DUSTING OFF THE OLD ONES.

Didja hear about the Scotchman walking jauntily down the street when accosted by a shabbily dressed man on the corner with "Please, sir, would you give me a dime for a sandwich."

SOLVING THE PROBLEM.

Dear Harve: Have a Chi Beta friend here at Champaign who had business in Urbana and wanted to get back to Champaign. He felt through his pockets for money or a token to pay his bus fare. He was so disgusted when he found neither money nor slug that he went to an automobile salesroom, bought a new car, and drove home. C. A. K.

THE NATURE OF NETTLERASH.

THERE are a few new points about nettlerash, some of practical importance and some that interest the scientist because they promise to point the way to future discoveries that may have importance from the standpoint of the everyday.

The most important practical point is that calcium gluconate is of considerable service in giving relief. It can be injected into the muscles or it can be given internally. It is the best of the lime or calcium salts for this purpose, though other preparations of lime have a place. However, neither calcium gluconate nor any other lime salt is permanently helpful or helpful in all cases.

Autohemotherapy is perhaps the best single method. It consists in drawing some of the patient's blood and then injecting immediately the same blood into the deep muscles. In the first treatment 75 minims of blood are injected; in the second, 112 minims; in the third, 150, and in the fourth, 224. Sixty minims is a dram. This is enough to inject. If it does not relieve symptoms, larger injections or more of them will do likewise.

It is never advisable to scratch or rub the nettlerash areas. The reason is plain when we think a little about the nature of the eruption, and that will be the next point discussed.

The eruption itself is due to dilation of the small blood vessels in a certain zone, with an exudation of fluid. The urticaria area is red and swollen and itches intensely, but there is no break in the skin and almost no change in the skin cells. Let the cause of the rash be stopped, and within a few minutes the itching ceases, the redness fades, the swelling disappears, and no trace of the rash is left behind.

In the making of the eruption three sets of tissues participate, but the skin cells themselves take no part in the proceedings. They are at the party and they are affected by them, but they are like the wedding guest who gets rice down his collar.

The immediate cause of the trouble is a chemical called histamine. When a little of this substance is rubbed in the skin an eruption exactly like hives or nettlerash appears. This eruption involves each of the three tissues referred to and in exactly the same way that they are involved in hives. Histamine is made from another chemical, called histidin, and that is one of the amine bodies that, taken together, form albumin. So we trace the cause of nettlerash through the chemical which is the immediate cause back to the albumins.

The presence of this histamine just below the skin, and acting as a cause, suggests the reason that rubbing and scratching may do harm rather than good; also why soothing applications may help some, but are generally disappointing.

One of the discoveries is that hay fever, asthma, urticaria or nettlerash, hives, giant hives, and some types of migraine and of epilepsy are first cousins. All result when persons who have been sensitized to certain substances are exposed to that to which they are sensitive. The sensitization is local. If it is in the membranes of the eyes and nose it will take the form of hay fever. If it is in the skin it will take the form of urticaria.

GO ON AND GET WET.

L. G. writes: I was operated on for appendicitis two and one-half months ago. My wound is all healed. May I go bathing?

REPLY.

Yes.

A HARD PROBLEM.

D. L. writes: 1. I have a 3 year old daughter who is very stubborn. If she has trouble in getting what she wants she becomes very much excited, cries, and vomits. What shall I do?

2. She is very constipated. Shall I use laxatives?

REPLY.

1. Your problem is not a simple one and, up to now, you have not met it with wisdom. She cries and vomits in order to get her way, partly because she has found that to be the way to handle you. Never allow that bit of strategy to succeed as you value your own happiness, as well as that of your child. Having firmly established your authority, thereafter train her with sufficient skill to bring about self-control and self-discipline without making her timid and afraid.

2. Do not give laxatives. Overcome constipation by dieting and establishing regularity of habit. Dieting includes the plentiful use of drinking water.

PROBABLY GALLSTONES.

Mrs. E. H. writes: I am 54 years old. About a year ago I began to be constipated, which I think has brought on indigestion. I have no pain in my stomach, but at night I awake with a sour stomach and know my food has fermented. In the last couple of weeks I have a pain in the right side of my liver, between my shoulders and under my right shoulder blade.

REPLY.

My guess is that you have gallstones or an infected gall bladder. You will require more than a few days' dieting. You may need an operation. You will certainly need to change some of your habits. You should eat simple foods with no seasoning, not much grease, nor much meat and eggs, no condiments, and no alcoholic beverages. Your supper especially should be light and simple.

TYPHOID VICTIMS.

T. O. M. writes: I had three children on my place die with typhoid fever in March. Would it be safe for any one to live in the house in which they died? What precautions would it be wise to take should I put any one in the house? Three doctors have already told me there is no danger. I have had the well water tested and it was pronounced safe.

REPLY.

You give no reason for suspecting the house. My guess is that it is entirely safe. The well water also seems to be cleared of blame. The causes left, in the order of probability, are: Exposure of these children to a typhoid carrier, probably in the family; exposure of the later cases to the first case; exposure of the child first taken sick to a case of typhoid; flies; infected milk consumed away from home; infected food other than milk.

STREET PAVING.

Chicago, July 24.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly publish in your Friend of the People column whether Devon avenue west of Kedzie avenue is a city street or highway and whether pavement recently laid on same was done by the city or highway department? H. S. G.

In reply you are informed that the city has laid no pavement on Devon avenue west of Kedzie avenue within the city of Chicago. Pavement was recently laid by the county on Devon avenue from McCormick boulevard to Cicero avenue. The county also is planning to condemn and pave Devon avenue from Milwaukee avenue to the west city limits. This board has proceedings started to pave Devon avenue from Lenox avenue to Le Mai avenue, for which an ordinance was passed by the city council on April 18, 1929.

CAN PURCHASE A COPY.

Villa Park, Ill., July 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother-in-law died recently in another city of this state. My husband was unable to attend the funeral due to my poor health. Several weeks ago his brother wrote to him that their mother had left a will dividing her money between her children. He stated my husband would not get much. 1. Isn't it necessary for my husband to receive a copy of the will? 2. He does not know how much money his mother left. Is there any way of finding this out? L. M. R.

1. He can purchase a copy from the clerk of the Probate court. The executor is under no obligation to give him a copy.
2. Similarly as to the inventory.

UNMUZZLED DOG.

Chicago, July 28.—[Friend of the People.]—I will appreciate it if your department will help our neighborhood rid itself of a dog nuisance. Next door is a big German police dog. The owner takes the dog out several times a day, loose and without a muzzle. Many times she gets careless and does not watch him. He is so big and he has a way in making such a threat to bite that every one is scared to pass by. While I have never seen him bite anybody, the fright he gives every one who must pass is as bad as a bite. S. L.

An officer was assigned to investigate and reports that the owner promised to get a muzzle and license for this dog. The officer called again several days later and found that no license had been procured and he issued court summons to the owner for failure to get this license.

TAX RECEIPTS.

Des Moines, Ia., July 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Kindly tell me what papers I should have in my possession. I have paid taxes on a clear lot in Chicago for four years. I have a first lien on lot. There is no mortgage on the lot, the same having gone through Probate court after of the death of an uncle. I have it in a lawyer's hands, but have nothing myself to prove I paid taxes. Should I hold tax receipts? I. C. G.

If you yourself paid the taxes, then the tax collector would send the receipt to you. If you turned the money over to your attorney and he paid the taxes, then the receipt might be sent to your attorney. Presumably your attorney would be willing to give you the receipts if you ask for them.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 2, 1916.

BALTIMORE, Md.—The Deutschland is off! On the second anniversary of Germany's declaration of war against Russia, the German submarine merchantman set out late today from Baltimore on a return voyage to Germany, with a declaration of confidence from its commander, Capt. Paul Koenig, that he would take it home in spite of the heavy odds it would face when the three mile limit in the Atlantic ocean is reached. The Deutschland passed Solomon's island, ninety miles south, at 2:30. It was making about sixteen knots. The tug Timminse was at the submarine's side. Every steamer passed blew whistles of salute. At the present speed the vessel should reach the ocean, where the allied warships are awaiting it, in five hours.

PARIS.—An official statement says: "We are now in possession of precise information regarding the repressions of which two Hungarian regiments were the object. One had revolted; the other took to flight before the enemy at Pliaschowo. It was the Seventh regiment of landwehr of the Sixth corps which made common cause with the Magyar mutineers. Two hundred and seventeen men of this regiment were shot. The other regiment was the Thirteenth landwehr. The 123 men who escaped from the Russians were shot by order of the chief of staff of Gen. von Linsingen."

LONDON.—The Russian armies are continuing their advances on Kovel and Lemberg. They have all but reached the defenses behind which the Teutons must make their last stand for the two great strategic points. More important than their swift investment of Galician territory, and their smashing of the German defenses on the Sokhod, however, is the double menace which the Russian troops in their forward swing southwest from Brody and northwest from Kolomea are creating for Gen. von Bothmer's army along the Stripa. As yet there is no indication that the Austrian commander has retired from the heights west of the river, although the situation is such now that further delay may cost him his whole army.

LONDON.—According to the morning newspapers, all is ready for the execution of Sir Roger Casement, who is to be hanged in the Pentonville prison at 9 a. m. Aug. 3. This would appear to put an end to the general hope in America and elsewhere that Casement would be saved from death.

NEW YORK.—Ballots of one-fourth of the 400,000 members of four railroad brotherhoods who are voting on the question of calling a general strike on 225 railroads already have been canvassed and they were virtually unanimous in favor of a strike, it is learned.

NEW YORK.—Charles E. Hughes in a speech to 500 women said he was against "sex politics" and in favor of women, in common with men, having all a citizen's rights and duties. He twice during the day declared he favored an amendment to the federal constitution granting the vote to women throughout the United States.

FELICITOUS CHANGES.

Oak Park, Ill., July 26.—While the city fathers listen to ladies who think that Broadway has a lovelier sound than Clark, and to gentlemen not interested in sounds other than those of the cash register, surely it is time that the citizens bethought themselves of other appropriate and profitable name changes.

Consider, for example, the effects of changing Michigan boulevard to Fifth avenue. The depression would be forgotten and taxes cheerfully paid. The school teachers would draw regular pay checks. Prohibition would be repealed almost at once by the common consent of Republicans and Democrats who, incidentally, would fall to loving each other in a manner heretofore unknown.

True, Michigan is not the fifth avenue from anything either east or west and, also true, there is a Fifth avenue [nee Colorado], but the answer to the first objection is that neither is New York's Fifth avenue, and to the second that the present Fifth avenue real estate owners would be glad to make their sacrifice for the general good.

Wacker drive could become the Avenue de l'Ex-Opera, and State street, Piccadilly. Grant park could be transformed to Trafalgar square, decorated with monuments appropriate to the commemoration of the sinking of the American navy at the bladder-battles of Washington and London. Halsted street business would thrive under the title of the Bowery, and Randolph, the new 42d street, again would find its theater filled and Texas Guinan caroling forth her welcome. Washington has been dead a long time, and his boulevard might better commemorate that great new spokesman for the American people, Sir John Simon.

But why limit ourselves? Why not attain our full stature and glory with Tiger Rag for a national anthem, Lord Mayor Cermak in the city hall, Herbert I. in the White House, Lady Mary Wooley admiral of the fleet, and the town itself called Gastropolis?

Many other felicitous changes will no doubt propose themselves to your readers. J. A. M.

RELIEF FOR LANDLORDS.

Chicago, July 24.—The law of the jungle is fair and just compared with present day politics and so-called relief commissions.

The relief commission has decided to adopt the nonrent payment policy, on the theory that the landlords could absorb the loss due to rent delinquency.

By what right and authority does the relief commission educate the people on how to defraud the landlord? If the commission is within the law and within its right in doing so why not complete the education of the public by teaching them how to get all other necessities in the same way? We landlords have worked hard to get a foothold in life and acquire an equity. Most of us are now losing our equity on account of not being able to make payments on contracts, interest notes, or taxes.

To prove that there are enough thinking citizens who have intelligence and backbone to try and save this country from radicalism, would say, let us property owners unite and insist upon fair and just laws governing the distribution of funds appropriated to the relief commission—and something done to help us save our equities.

MRS. E. CARROLL,

Chicago, July 25.—When these public officials like Cermak, Weber and other political high ups leave their jobs for rests and vacations are they docked in pay for being absent like every one else is these days?

A SMALL FRY TAXPAYER.

CANADA'S PLACE IN THE EMPIRE.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 21.—May I reply to Mr. G. M. Hammond's query on July 19th in the Voice of the People about a rumor that Roosevelt will cancel the war debts if the league of nations will purchase Canada from Great Britain and turn it over to the United States in return for the cancellation?

Canada is not Great Britain's to sell or give away. By the British North America act of 1867 Great Britain gave Canada its own constitution, retaining only the right to disallow or veto any Canadian legislation inconsistent with English law. This last restriction was withdrawn by the statute of Westminster, 1931, and today Canada stands as a co-partner in the British commonwealth of nations, united to Britain and to its sister dominions only by ties of loyalty; that is, by a common allegiance to the crown, which stands as the symbol of the free association of the members of the British commonwealth of nations.

Since 1867 Canada has not paid one cent of taxation, tribute or otherwise, to Great Britain. Canada entered the great war voluntarily; though she had an enlistment of half a million, with sixty thousand casualties, not a man or a dollar was asked by England.

In reality Canada today is a free nation, a limited monarchy; King George V., as far as Canada is concerned, is only king of Canada.

An illustration of Canada's position as a partner in the British commonwealth of nations may be seen in the fact that the leading elected representatives of each nation of the British commonwealth are now meeting at Ottawa in an imperial economic conference to settle the trade and monetary matters of the commonwealth, and the Hon. R. B. Bennett, prime minister of Canada, is permanent chairman of that conference.

May I quote from the Ottawa Journal of July 21, 1932:

"The empire has traveled far; the colonies have become full fledged states; Canada, like Australia, South Africa, New Zealand, and the Irish Free State, have assumed all the powers and responsibilities of nationhood—are in all respects as free as the winds which sweep their territories."

MORE ABOUT TESLA.

Chicago, July 25.—In the columns of your esteemed publication of July 20 Mr. James Pavletich, in reply to our mutual friend Mr. John R. Palandech's explanation of the birthplace of Nickolas Tesla, the great American inventor, states that Mr. Tesla is a Croatian and not a Serbian.

I do not wish to raise any question of difference between the Serbs and Croats. While they are one and the same people, speaking the same language and having the same nationalistic aspirations in the present united Jugo-Slavia, there is a difference in their traditions and religion. Mr. Tesla is not a Croatian, because while there are Serbians who are Roman Catholics, there are no Croatians of are of the Orthodox religious faith, and Mr. Tesla's father was a very prominent Serbian Orthodox priest in Smiljan, where Mr. Tesla was born.

In all of the volumes of literature that have been written in English and modern languages Mr. Tesla is always referred to as a Serbian.

WHAT NEXT?

Chicago, July 27.—I am an owner of an automobile and I am paying a state tax, a city tax, 3 cents per gallon for gas to the state, 1 cent per gallon to the government, and 4 cents per gallon for oil. It costs me about 1¼ cents a mile taxes to drive my car, and now they are asking me for a personal property tax on my car. What next?

Friend: "The house goes back to the Tudors, doesn't it?"

These keenly interested women are New York's most responsive market

A fast-growing stream of extraordinary reader interest pours in constantly from the sources that must be reached for advertising to be most productive.

After all, advertising cannot produce the greatest amount of sales influence obtainable unless the medium employed reaches the people who are the most fertile market, and also holds their close interest. And these are the two great reasons why the New York Herald Tribune is constantly able to demonstrate its productiveness for advertisers.

The Herald Tribune has thoroughly earned this remarkable extent of reader interest. A good deal of this is an obvious conclusion reached by examining a copy of this newspaper any week-day or Sunday and noticing its presentation of the news, and the calibre of its editorial content and regular features.

Note, too, the daily food and fashion news which, in conjunction with the Herald Tribune's food and housekeeping Institute is constantly proving itself to be of such interest to women. The Herald Tribune devotes more space to food and cooking alone than four leading women's magazines combined, and is the official newspaper of many women's club federations. Yet it also is read by more members of the New York Stock Exchange than is the case with any other morning newspaper.

Here is soundly balanced circulation that covers an ideal range for advertisers. 94% of the families who read the Herald Tribune in the city and suburbs live in sections where average incomes range from $2500 to $5000 a year or more. These are the people who can and do buy goods advertised in New York.

NEW YORK
INSTITUTE

The importance of the Herald Tribune Institute is growing more and more pronounced through the helpful advice and information it provides freely to the many thousands of New York Herald Tribune readers who write in on matters of food and various other household subjects. The total number of letters handled by the Institute for the past six months almost equals that of the entire twelve months previous—and it continues to grow!

The Institute in turn has found important confirmation of up-to-date facts in the regular course of studying the mail received daily. For instance, and of significance to advertisers, is the constant volume of correspondence from women who consult the daily food news of the Herald Tribune in planning the all-important evening meal. In this is to be found ample evidence that nowadays women chart their day the modern way—they plan their meals in the morning.

Forward! The Herald Tribune's net paid average circulation for the six months ending March last, reached a new record for its history for both Sundays and weekdays, with an increase of 9% over the same period last year . . . Last year's total lineage for department store advertising in this newspaper was greater than ever before . . . The Herald Tribune ranks second in the United States in amount of national advertising carried.

BRITISH UNITS 'MAD AS HELL' AT MOTHER COUNTRY

Parley Nears Rocks in Trade Dispute.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 1.—All the elements of a first class row will be present when the British imperial conference reconvenes tomorrow after its long week-end holiday. According to all appearances today, it is on the cards that instead of drawing the British empire closer together this economic conference at Ottawa may have the effect of driving a wedge into a widening crack between Great Britain and her dominions.

Canada and South Africa are violently angry with Stanley Baldwin, leader of the British delegation, over his statement last week when he attempted to prove that Britain had done everything for the dominions and had received nothing in return.

Canada "Mad as Hell."

South Africa spoke her piece yesterday in the acid statement issued by H. C. Havenga, finance minister of the Union of South Africa. Canada, while controlling herself thus far, was today described by a delegate as "mad as hell." One of Premier R. B. Bennett's ministers is reported to have said of Mr. Baldwin:

"He has rocked the boat. If he rocks it much more we may drift apart."

Amplifying this rather mixed metaphor the Canadian minister is reported to have asked:

"What was Mr. Baldwin thinking of? What is the use of coming to Ottawa if he makes an agreement impossible by such a statement?"

With Canada and South Africa, therefore, at daggers with Britain, delegates see little hope for any effective result from the conference. About the only serious negotiation which has progressed at all is that between Britain and Australia for the refunding of the Australian debt. It amounts to two and a half billion dollars, and Australia, which is now paying 5 per cent, would prefer to follow Britain's example and get the interest down to 3½.

Offers Large Concessions.

Her own credit is not good enough for that, but she is trying to persuade Britain to guarantee a conversion loan and is offering in return large concessions on the Australian tariff in favor of British goods.

New Zealand, which trails along with both Britain and Australia on most subjects, probably would like to benefit by a similar arrangement.

Very little interdominion business has been done. The Irish Free State has talked with Canada, Australia, and South Africa and hopes to get some benefit for Irish woolens, linens and whisky in return for purchases of Canadian and Australian wheat, Australian wool and South African fruit.

Not one word has passed between Irish and British delegates about the tariff war between England and Ireland.

2 Robbers Caught; Third Escapes Under Police Fire

Two young bandits were captured on the northwest side early this morning less than ten minutes after they had held up a pedestrian. A third man escaped under police fire. The trio robbed Albert Klein, 3542 Leland avenue, of $1.50 at Central Park and Wilson avenues, and drove away. A few minutes later Klein met Policemen Andrew Schmill and Eugene McNally of the Albany Park station and cruised the vicinity with them. At Ainslie street and Lawndale avenue they saw the bandit car and the arrests followed. The prisoners refused to give their names.

Columbus, O., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Climaxing a quarrel in his home tonight, C. T. Robinson, 53, shot and killed his wife's sister, Mrs. Mary Howard, 42, wounded his brother-in-law, George Howard, 48, and then committed suicide. Mrs. Robinson told police her husband had been drinking and that he had shot at her several times previously. Police said Robinson became angered when Mr. and Mrs. Howard attempted to quiet him during an argument with his wife.

Doctor Awakes and Finds Wife Dead of Sleep Potion

Dr. William A. O'Brien Jr., 4043 Melrose street, a radiologist, awoke yesterday to discover his wife, Vera, 26 years old, lying dead in bed of an overdose of a sleeping powder. On a nearby table she had left a note which said: "I think, Bill, you can do a little better without me. That is why I am doing this. I still love you." They were married 18 months ago, Dr O'Brien told the police.

ITALY THREATENS TO BOLT NEXT PARLEY ON ARMS

Resents Way She Was Treated at Geneva.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 1.—Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian minister of aviation, served notice on the world today that Italy may be missing the next disarmament conference unless other nations give up their tricky and hypocritical ways of acting in the matter of disarmament.

The general, who was sent to Geneva, Switzerland, in an airplane by Mussolini after Dino Grandi, former foreign minister, disappeared from the Fascist cabinet to reappear as ambassador to London, added the warning that if Italy bolts the conferences on disarmament in the future, other nations will follow suit. He evidently was referring to the fact that ten other nations, including soviet Russia, abstained from signing the resolution which put the recent conference to sleep for a few months.

Voices Italy's Resentment.

The article, which reviewed the disarmament conference from the Fascist viewpoint, reiterated Italian resentment and dissatisfaction at the way Italy's projects and proposals fared in the outcome of this summer's negotiations.

Many are linking today's threat with the resolution passed last April by the grand Fascist council and which said that Italy would reexamine her position regarding Geneva this fall, meaning that Mussolini might decide to withdraw from the league of nations.

Balbo said that Great Britain, the United States and France stacked the cards at the disarmament conference and jammed through their own proposals in order to enable them to keep what armaments they need and want while attempting to force other countries to cut down on what they consider indispensable instruments of defense.

He particularly assailed the proposal to abolish bombing planes of more than 3,000 pounds in weight, especially. The air minister reserved his final crack for Geneva in general.

"Hardboiled" Diplomatic Era.

"To get on there," he said, "one must be courageous and dare to be unpopular. Without strength and continuous self-control, you cannot keep up an uncompromising position there and resist the flattery, compliments and falsity which are the rule of the so-called courteous diplomacy."

SLAIN BANDIT IS IDENTIFIED AS POLICEMAN'S KIN

The bandit shot and killed yesterday by B. Z. Harrison when the robber and a companion tried to hold up Harrison in his drug store and subpostal station at 2226 East 79th street, was identified last night as Walter Earsman, 33 years old.

Identification was made by Earsman's brother, Raymond, 10301 Avenue H, a south park policeman. Walter had been out of touch with his family for a year and had been considered a black sheep, the policeman said. The slain robber was said to have served as a city fireman from May 7 to May 17, in 1928, having been discharged on the latter date.

Harrison was alone in the front of the store when a man entered and asked for a telephone slug. His suspicions aroused by the nervous attitude of the customer, Harrison took a revolver from beneath the counter and dropped it into his jacket pocket.

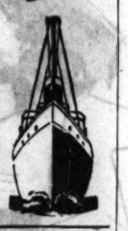

A second man entered the front door, drew a revolver, and ordered Harrison to "stick 'em up." The druggist drew his revolver and opened fire. The first shot hit the bandit with the gun in the forehead. The second bandit, who was in the phone booth, crawled to the door on his hands and knees and ran down the street.

New Book by F. D. Roosevelt Is Published

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Government—Not Politics," by Franklin D. Roosevelt. [Covici-Friede.] "This Man Roosevelt," by Earle Looker. [Brewer, Warren & Putnam.]

COINCIDENTAL with Gov. Roosevelt's launching of his campaign for President on the Democratic ticket, there is published the first book to bear his name as author. It bears the provocative title, "Government—Not Politics," and it states in exactly 107 pages, with no equivocation whatever, what the candidate thinks about the present state of affairs and what he hopes for the future. It is composed of articles which have previously appeared in magazines, but which were collated for the first time.

GOV. ROOSEVELT.

Whatever one's politics no reader accustomed to the bushwa which often comes from public pens can help being impressed by the honesty and straightforwardness of the words in "Government—Not Politics." There is no flowery oratory (on paper). There is no hedging. Gov. Roosevelt makes statements which could not possibly be misinterpreted. There are many subjects which he does not discuss, the repeal for one thing, but the matters which receive his attention he deals with summarily.

He frankly says that we need politicians, and public spirited ones, for thus do we build statesmen. "We do not realize that we are at a crisis in our national life comparable to war. The same sort of unselfishness and the same simplicity of purpose is required that we showed in 1917-'18."

Taxation is in great need of reform, he says, and he suggests that "the whole field of the sources of taxation could be divided between federal and state governments" to cure the evil of duplication of taxes, and he further says: "The time has come for definite action along practical lines," and still further: "We must go deep, slashing away useless units, offices, and officials to balance budgets. This will take courage, leadership, and persistence."

As to public utilities—one of his favorite fights—he says: "The whole question of government vs. utilities has been purposely and maliciously confused by the cleverest special pleaders of the twentieth century in the pay of the most unscrupulous utility interests." And he says later: "Public welfare requires the control of public utilities."

He calls attention, trenchantly, to the fact that he can be governor, but it might be very hard for him, like other men of fifty, to get a job as a shipping clerk. He suggests: "Unemployment insurance is no cure-all for the depression. It cannot prevent the recurrence of industrial crises. It is no panacea for human misery. But it softens the shock. It is the life belt for those who are swept overboard." And he briefly suggests a method of employing such an insurance.

He indicts the administration "on three separate counts: three vital issues affecting personally practically every man and woman in the United States." Count one: Washington has embarked upon the policy of propping up European finances to avert repercussions in America. But it has not summoned up the moral courage to tell the nations of Europe that they must acknowledge the debts which their governments owe the government of the United States. All efforts to stabilize world finance will be futile until Europe recognizes her just obligations. . . .

"Count two: When international trade began to languish the administration attempted to revive it by resorting to its traditional policy of raising the tariff. . . .

"Count three: Mistaking the tick of the ticker for the pulse of business, Washington does nothing to restore the purchasing power of from fifty to sixty million people who live in small towns and on farms. Its hopeless infatuation with its own farm board keeps it from trying to work out a plant to rescue the farmer."

Gov. Roosevelt declares against financial mergers and consolidations and the evils of holding companies and points the collapse of "the Fordney, Ohrstom, and Insull dynasties" and "the Kreuger fraud" in one paragraph. He also attacks unsound foreign loans and unstable investment banking.

He gives one recipe for restoring purchasing power by the equalization fee plan—and explains it.

Finally, he makes plain the plan for reforestation of the state of New York, which does away with the small unproductive farm.

Throughout the 107 pages there is never an unnecessary word. Gov. Roosevelt certainly writes what he means.

And simultaneously with his own book there is published "This Man Roosevelt," by Earle Looker, a newspaper man, who declares himself a Republican who set out to get the truth, whatever it might be, about the potential Democratic candidate for the presidency. He began his work eighteen months or more ago, when Roosevelt's sun began shining brightly on the national political horizon. If he came to scoff he certainly remained to pray, for there could scarcely be a more admiring volume than his. That admiration has the quality, however, of reluctant praise, for he did not choose to admire originally. He practically demanded of the governor that he submit to a thorough physical examination at the hands of a committee of doctors chosen by Mr. Looker, and he asked that he be allowed to drop in at any time upon the life of his "hero." The result of the eighteen months' concentration on Mr. Looker's part is to be found in a very interesting book, which, even though it is obviously a campaign biography, has the spirit of an interesting human being in it.

Mr. Looker, far from avoiding the delicate question of Gov. Roosevelt's health, puts such stress upon it as to make it almost the leading question of the book. He quotes the findings of the group of specialists as: "We believe that his health and powers of endurance are such as to allow him to meet any demand of private and public life."

Thrills Await 100 Winners of Circus Tickets

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

There are so many things to be seen in Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus that no matter what your taste in entertainment may be, you will find plenty to amuse you.

There are one hundred of the funniest clowns that ever have been assembled in one place. They romp about the arena, painted in the gayest fashion and dressed in the most ridiculous clothes. They are there with their trick inventions and their funny automobiles, with their crazy impersonations, on the tallest stilts you've ever seen, in burlesque boxing matches. They are there in so many shapes and forms and situations that you'll have a difficult time taking your eyes off them to view some of the more serious acts under the big top.

Another delightful feature of the big show is the collection of young animals their menagerie boasts. Clumsy baby elephants, infant lions, tigers, leopards, camels, zebras, and monkeys and their proud parents are important adjuncts of the show.

Then there are the acts that thrill one with their daring and fearlessness. Chief among these is the sensational Hugo Zacchini, billed as the "human projectile." He is fired bodily from the mouth of a huge cannon, is hurled through space, and alights far across the wide expanse of the arena.

Doesn't all this sound like Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's is the most glorious kind of a circus? And winning an invitation to our party there should put one in an enviable class. You'll be there, too, if you can write me a letter that shows you'll really and truly have a marvelous time there on Aug. 11.

The letters must be in Thursday morning, you know, so that I can select the hundred boys and girls who will be my guests in time to have their names in next Sunday's TRIBUNE. Be sure that you tell me your age when writing and that your name and address are plainly written. Send the letter to Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and wait for results.

Accessories in Shops Before Fall Clothes

Alligator Brown Accepted Autumn Color.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Any attempts during the last few days to find some new fall clothes have been rather dismal and futile but with much enthusiasm a few good and particularly significant colors and accessories have been trailed to earth. Usually a shop hound finds new clothes first and then is swamped with the task of reporting new and proper accessories for the above mentioned clothes, but in this year of upside down worries, some significant fall accessories are now bravely ready for debate, and what accessories!

Perhaps you have heard whispers that brown will be the accepted color for fall. Evidently that whispering is authentic as well as authoritative, for new handbags featured in one shop are of good looking sleek, shiny ginger-brown alligator hide. You've probably forgotten just how smart and practical and luxurious this alligator hide can be. A lot of us have, and you with many others will be appreciatively surprised with the new models.

Most of the brown clothes will be of called Van Dyke brown, a shade so dark that it is almost black. With this you will need the warm rich ginger tint of the newest alligator bags, handbags with simulated shell frames that are two to three shades lighter than the leather. Some of these frames are accented with gold colored metal. Good looking envelope bags can be decorated with monograms of either two or three gold metal initials, they are lined with deep brown moire silk and are marvels of capacity with many flat tailored compartments and fittings of simulated tortoise shell.

Fitted cases of alligator in the same tawny shade of brown are the very newest traveling accessory. They are showing a compact week-end case lined with cinnamon brown suede and fitted with all the requisites of a dressing table—bottles, brushes, and manicure accessories, all fashioned of deep brown enamel accented with gold metal.

There are going to be lots of brown alligator street shoes, trim, jaunty oxfords with gold metal eyelets, smartly designed leather heeled walking pumps, and various combinations of alligator and brown suede. Belts for all the new sport frocks for fall will feature alligator and suede with gold buckles and snaps.

Your newest brown kidskin gloves will not be so wide and floppy of cuff. Gauntlet styles are restrained and simple in design and you'll wear them to fit and fit snugly, quite a marked difference from the one to two sizes too big that the well dressed woman wore the past two summers.

Neckerchiefs and scarves are going to flutter from every fashionable neckline this fall. Some fascinating new English scarfs are made of very sheer and rough weave wool, so thin as to be transparent. Some cheerful yellow ones are particularly effective with the fall browns. They are three cornered affairs, to be tied cowboy fashion around the neck with the two perky ends pointing skywards at the back. Flying yellow birds wing their way across these imported scarfs and other contrasting colors, such a green and raspberry, are available now.

Clubs to Furnish Partners for Training Camp Dance

The 2,000 members of the Citizens' Military Training camp at Fort Sheridan were given their first regular four hour drill yesterday morning. In the afternoon they were kept busy in a four hour session of supervised athletics. The citizen soldiers will be guests tonight at the first of a series of weekly dances. Dancing partners will be furnished by north shore women's clubs.

West's Villages Strong for 'Pent House' Dresses

Buyers in Chicago for Display of Fashions.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Despite the scarcity of penthouses in Kansas, Utah, and other states of the west and middle west, the "pent house dress" made its impression yesterday on buyers from small towns and cities of that region, assembled at the Congress hotel to do some buying.

They are attending the semi-annual buying convention of the twenty-seven year old Retailers' Commercial union, an association with 1,000 merchant members which owns its own jobbing company and buyers' company. It will continue today, tomorrow, and Thursday.

The "pent house dress" is a formal evening dress, which becomes informal by the wearing of a jacket of the material. The fashion of evening gown is not new, but the name will be responsible for many "pent house" dresses being worn in prairie towns this winter, style experts said.

The Morrison hotel Terrace garden tonight will be the meeting place for more buyers from throughout the country from Detroit west, who will watch models displaying fall and winter apparel. The fashion show, sponsored by the Morrison Hotel Exhibitors' association, is a semi-annual affair. More than 200 manufacturers from the east and west will show new fashions in lingerie, dresses, coats, and shoes.

Ger Sunde, director of the fashion show which will be staged tonight, tomorrow night, and Thursday night, and on the same nights next week in the Morrison hotel Terrace garden, yesterday reviewed new fashions.

"There are no drastic changes in styles," he said. "Dresses will be about two inches longer, including daytime street dresses. Waistlines are slightly higher. Materials are better tailoring is better, and the woman who buys an inexpensive dress this fall will get more for her money than she has in the past."

The new cloth coats shown at the fashion displays in both hotels emphasize big fur collars, cuffless fitted sleeves on which the fur trim appears above the elbow, almost to the shoulder in some cases, and fitted princess lines. The new swagger coat, loose fitting, with raglan sleeves, will be popular for sports both in suits and in separate coats, it was predicted.

Sunday night and daytime party dresses with jackets; tailored lounging pajamas modeled after men's "smokers" with three-quarter length jackets, and dresses whose lines are even more molded to the figure than last year's styles will be featured.

Outdoor Opera to Be Staged Aug. 28-31 in Soldiers' Field

The first attempt to put on opera in the vast spaces of Soldiers' field will be made on Sunday night, Aug. 28, when a performance of "Aida" will be staged, to be followed by "Il Trovatore" on Wednesday night, Aug. 31. The presentations will be made under the direction of Alfredo Salmaggi, who has been doing the same thing at Grimth stadium, Washington, D. C. He promises that they will be mammoth grand opera spectacles.

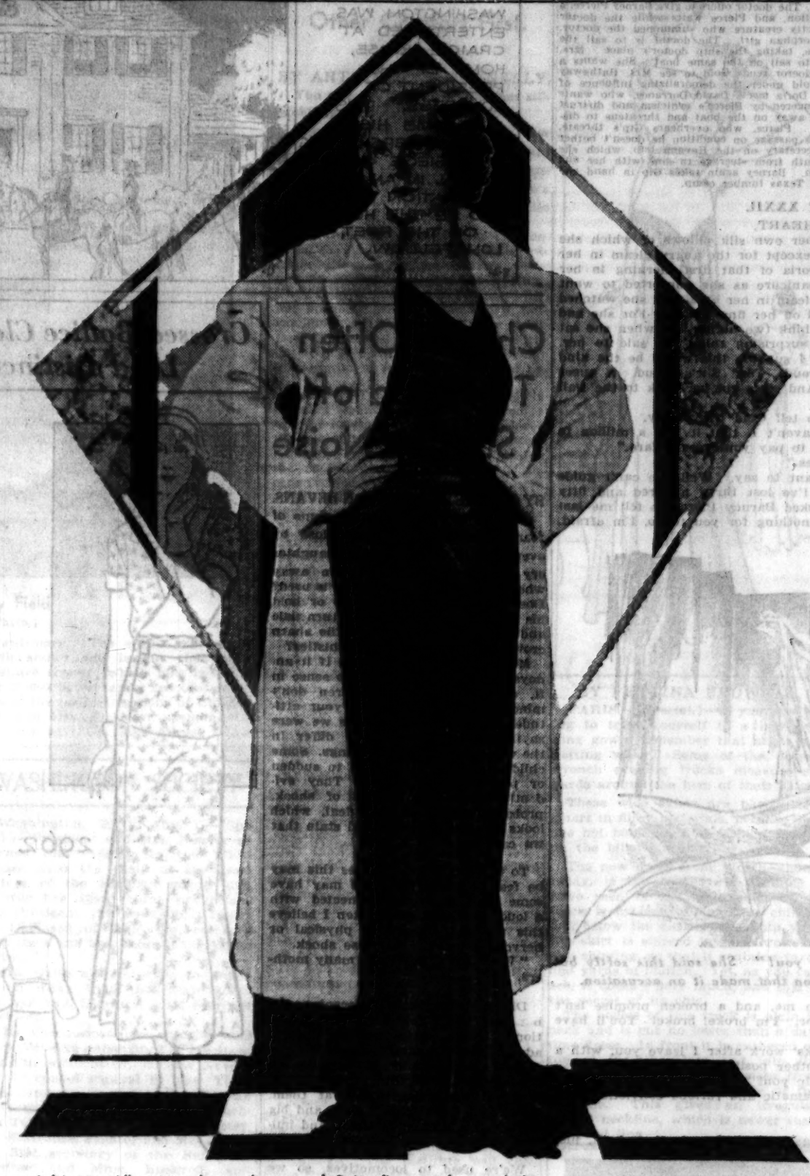

A note from the management of Cavallo's Symphonic band states that the response to an appeal for public support has been of such a nature as to encourage the hope that the concerts may be continued in Grant park throughout the summer. E. M.

By Anna Nangle.

This is the tale of David Dwight and his skyscraper. You meet Dwight, a handsome, polished, unscrupulous man, and see his tall building, also polished and handsome. Dwight fights to erect his skyscraper, cheats to keep it, and meets his Waterloo within its shining walls. He's a big business man with an eye for the ladies—several of them. [Several ladies, I mean.]

One of them is Sarah [Verree Teasdale], who works in his office and breakfasts with him in the penthouse atop his stronghold. She loves him as he loves his building.

Another is Ella, his wife, portrayed by Hedda Hopper. They remain Mr. and Mrs., but go their separate ways. Mrs. Dwight likes the income and her husband likes the protection of a wife in the offing.

A third is pretty young Lynn [Maureen O'Sullivan], secretary to Sarah. Lynn is in love with a young teller in Mr. Dwight's bank, but she doesn't believe two can live as cheaply as one and won't marry Tom until he can afford a little house and garden, etc. Norman Foster, as Tom, is an attractive, clumsy young gentleman, who jumps to conclusions when Lynn begins to go places with the owner of the building in which they are both employed.

"Skyscraper Souls" boasts an excellent cast, including Gregory Ratoff, Anita Page, Wallace Ford, Jean Hersholt, and George Barbier—but the laurels, as usual, go to Warren William. He's such a finished actor—you can't help but be attracted to the person he portrays.

On the whole, I don't think you'll be bored by this one!

'Al' Gardners Take Cottage at Olivet Camp

Lake Vacation Will Aid Charity at Same Time.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE "Al" Gardners of Winnetka are killing two birds with one stone—helping one of their pet charities and giving themselves a nice and inexpensive vacation—by taking a cottage at Olivet camp on Williams bay on Lake Geneva for this month.

The camp, which is conducted by Olivet institute as a vacation place for children and aged and infirm persons, has a few cottages on the camp grounds which are for rent, and when the Gardners were up at the lake last Sunday to visit the camp—he is a director of the institute—they were inspired to take one of the cottages and as a result Mrs. Gardner is packing up her household and away they will go tomorrow, papa, mama, Billy, Carol, a pet turtle, two dogs, and the cook.

They plan to have house guests every week-end and I wouldn't be at all surprised if the cottage colony at Camp Olivet should become one of the most fashionable on the lake, for all the young couples who had planned to stay at home this summer are beginning to decide that a change is greatly to be desired, and it might be that some of the Gardners' friends will follow their example and join the paying guests at Camp Olivet for the rest of the season. Mr. Gardner tells me their cottage is far enough on the outskirts of the grounds to insure some privacy, and so he and his family are looking forward to a delightful vacation.

Mrs. A. F. Madlener Plans Sale to Aid Shut-Ins.

Lake Genevans are to have another opportunity to purchase lovely things for their houses [the Woman's Exchange and the Eli Bates shop already have had their annual displays and sales at the lake], for today Mrs. Albert F. Madlener is opening her residence on the lake for a sale under the auspices of the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins.

Assisting her will be Mrs. F. Madlener Jr., Miss Katherine Lefens, Mrs. Jack Jennings, Mrs. Gardner Hammond, Miss Olive Atwater, Mrs. Daniel Winter, Mrs. Henry P. Isham, at whose residence the Eli Bates sale was held; Mrs. Hans Reese, Mrs. Sangston Hettler, Mrs. Harold Bencom, Mrs. Philip Wrigley, and Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, whose mother, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, was hostess for the Woman's Exchange sale.

Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter has returned to Lake Geneva from a motor trip in the east, having left Mr. Carpenter in Oswego, N. Y., to embark on a fishing trip with James McKeogh of New York and Wilbur and Charles Parker of Cleveland on Mr. McKeogh's cruiser Largo. Mrs. Carpenter told friends at the lake that she never wished more to be a stowaway than she did when she left her husband, but that she wasn't even allowed on board, it being a party for men only.

Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum Sails for European Trip.

Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, who has been at her farm, Longcroft, near South Haven, Mich., since early summer, sailed last Saturday for a European trip. The length of the trip and her itinerary are indefinite, but she probably will not be gone more than six weeks or two months, for as president of the Fortnightly she will have a busy winter and her duties as the chief executive of that well known woman's club will make it necessary for her to return to the city fairly early in the autumn. Her son, Mervyn Baum, is remaining at the farm during his mother's absence.

Miss Cornelia Lunt of Evanston will sail on Aug. 25 for her annual trip to Europe. She will spend about six weeks in the London apartment which she has occupied during former stays in England. Miss Lunt has a number of old friends in London and in the country near by and she plans to rent a car so that she may get around to see them all.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Newcomet of 20 East Cedar street and their daughter, Marian, will leave on Friday to spend a month at Lac du Flambeau, Wis. Their older daughter, Mrs. J. Beach Clow, and her husband are staying in town for the present because their month old baby, Nancy, is better off at home.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Richardson of Lake Forest will depart tomorrow for the Olympics in California. They'll be back about the 22d of this month.

Mrs. Robert Hixon Taking Her Children to Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Schwarz of 1100 Lake Shore drive will start east by motor tomorrow for Nantucket, where they've taken a house for the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Robert Hixon of Lake Forest and her children will leave this week to spend a month in northern Wisconsin. Peggy, the oldest of the Hixons' pretty daughters, may enter Miss Nixon's school in Florence in the fall. She has been attending Farmington.

If negotiations for a cottage at Charlevoix are completed this week Mr. and Mrs. John Coleman Jr. and their children will leave next week for a month there.

Mrs. Jacob Baur, who gave up the idea of going to California to meet her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bartle Bull, when they landed at San Francisco last week from a round the world honeymoon, is expecting them to reach Chicago about the 15th of this month. They went to Los Angeles for the opening of the Olympic games and from there they will go to Toronto for a visit with Mr. Bull's family before they come to Chicago. Mrs. Baur spent last week-end at Lawsonia on Green lake, motoring up with the William A. Yagers and stopping over in Lake Geneva on the way for a look at Lewis Myers' exquisite orchids.

I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent, dependent, young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, a well to do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty creature who summoned the doctor. Both men determine to help the plucky young orphan girl. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doria Hathaway, a widow, friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. The doctor sends Gold to see Mrs. Hathaway and she gets the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralizing influence of Doria. He decides to sail himself. On the boat Doria meets David Dorrance, who wants to interest Pierce in a business deal. Gold is angered by Pierce's cynicism and distrust of women. Gip Alen, Gold's half brother, slows away on the boat and threatens to disclose his identity unless Gold does as he bids. Pierce, who overhears Gip's threats, unknown to Gold, arranges to get the third class passage on condition he doesn't bother Gold. Dorrance offers Gold a position as his secretary on the Havana trip, which she gladly accepts. Doria invites a good looking youth from steerage to dine with her and give an exhibition tango. The youth is Gip Alen. Barney again takes Gip in hand and arranges to give him a six months' tryout in his Texas lumber camp.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

A WILLFUL HEART.

Doria was propped against pillows—her own silk pillows of which she always carried a trunkful—smoking; and except for the angry gleam in her brown eyes, she might have been the Doria of that first morning in her bedroom at Claridge's hotel, waiting a manicure as she purported to want it now. Only that today there was that gleam in her eyes, and she watched Gold Franklyn very closely as she worked on her finger nails. For she had begun to think—Elverton had made her think two nights ago when she sat in his consulting room listening to the surprising things he said to her. And what she was thinking now was: "I suppose this would be the kind of girl a man would admire; poor but proud. Yes. She's proud. A queer fish like Barney might think it grand. And she's got her back to the wall all right. Because . . ."

After another cigaret she decided to tell Gold irrevocably.

"Well, my dear, I've warned you, haven't I, that it was a million to one chance against my really being able to pay your return fare."

"You told me after we had sailed; yes."

Doria flushed. "Dirty trick, you want to say. Well, we can't guide fate. Fate's against me this voyage. I've lost three hundred and fifty pounds at the auction pool. I've just asked Barney Pierce to tell me last night's results, and there it is! There's nothing for you to do, I'm afraid.

"'You're getting Barney Pierce to help you!' She said this softly but with a dramatic and furious conviction that made it an accusation.

dear. You had nothing in writing from me, and a broken promise isn't actionable. Besides, I'm no sort of debtor. I'm broke! broke! You'll have to use your wits."

"I've used them. I have three weeks' work after I leave you; with a prospect of continuing it or getting another position."

"You're getting Barney Pierce to help you!"

Doria said this softly, but with a dramatic and furious conviction that made it an accusation.

"No!"

Gold's answer was made, for some reason mysterious to them both, just as dramatically and furiously.

Doria repeated it: "No?"

"My appointment has nothing to do with Mr. Pierce. He hasn't the smallest interest in me or I in him."

Doria examined her shining nails, as if for flaws, but she was seeing nothing except Barney's darkened face as he had left her just now. He had stayed such a little while alone in the cabin, pretty as she looked, engaging as she made herself. And she wasn't really at all sick. Sickness was unattractive to men, she had always found; but, for all this whim of staying in bed through two days' roughish weather, she felt really well. She knew intuitively what had darkened his face, put swords into his steelly eyes after she had asked him to tell her the winning numbers and the prices; and to total up her losses for her. When he had said briefly: "You've lost three hundred and fifty pounds," she had first cursed rather amusingly; and then complained rather appealingly, only to meet his courteous, bored silence. Then she had said: "I certainly shan't be able to pay that girl's fare back now. It was a mad thing ever to offer it—you know I did offer it—but I do mad things—expensive!"

"To others as well as to yourself," he returned grimly.

She answered: "Damn-you-I'm-all-right is my philosophy, Barney," knowing the fool she was for saying it. The fool and the liar—because in her young poor days she had given the clothes off her back to some girl needier than herself. And could do so again! Only her head had changed; her willful heart was still as hot when the moment made appeal.

He had looked at her and walked out like a man with a purpose. Soon after, Gold Franklyn had come down. Had they met; and had he substantiated that offer of help made on the first night out?

But Gold Franklyn—and you could not doubt her—was saying emphatically: "No."

"Well, I am glad you have found something," Doria murmured, still looking at her nails, "because when we land I'll have to wash my hands of you."

"That's quite clear."

"I told you to trust no one, didn't I?" said Doria. "Least of all, me. Didn't I say: 'Expect every one to do you down?' Didn't I?"

"You did."

"You think I'm a mean cat," said Doria more disarmingly.

"I think you're wonderful and a darling."

"My God! she thinks I'm wonderful and a darling!"

"I've enjoyed being with you, and watching and seeing what a real good time is like, and the way you took it. Watching you has been like sitting in a very expensive stall at a theater—a thing I've never done in my life—and seeing the curtain go up on a play all life and color. I've never feasted on so much life and color as I have these past four days."

"Don't you want more of it for yourself?"

"Yes!"

"You should get it then," said Doria. "You could." And she said suddenly: "I'm not cruel. I'm not! If a girl came to me and said, 'I want to go to meet my lover in a fur coat but I haven't got one,' I'd say wear mine. Or if you and I were starving together and I had one mutton chop, you'd have half. Perhaps you'd get it all if you looked hungrier than I. When I was poor I gave everything away. . . . But now it's different."

Now she did not feel the burden of life. She shook everything heavy, everything oppressive off her shoulders. This was the art of living? Gold Franklyn asked herself that as, during the next day, she typed for Doria numerous letters on a borrowed machine; letters to American friends, presumably wealthy, on Long Island, in New York, in Florida; and as far west as Los Angeles; witty, warm, loving, greedy letters—all asking more or less openly for a luxurious week-end here, a yachting week-end there, a month's California sunshine, or a week or two basking on Miami beach, or a stay in town to see all the new plays, as soon as the writer had returned from Havana. Then there was packing to be done. Unpacking had been regardless of trouble, and of unnecessary extent for the short voyage; but that was Doria. The last day slipped by. The last dinner was eaten at that gallery table in the Louis Quinze restaurant. Gold Franklyn saw, with surprised eyes, people who had struck up ardent friendships, now carefully engaged in forgetting one another. She danced for the last time—with Dorrance—on the Mercuria's dance floor. She received the good wishes of the little governess, whose hopes of vicarious romance were raised again when, in an envelope, the $50 loan came to their cabin from Dorrance. "Isn't that a billet-doux, dear," said the old-fashioned little thing.

"It's better. It's $50!"

"O, dear me!" said the little governess.

How it was that she avoided Barney Pierce as completely as she did, Gold hardly knew. He was in conclave with Dorrance, or monopolized by Doria, or invisible on some other errand of his own—Gip Alen needed some handling and was getting it—and though he watched for her and she knew it, they had no talk alone.

It was Elverton, the good friend, with whom she spent the only spare half hour she had on the last evening, assuring him of her wonderful prospects, talking to him of Gip. And it was Elverton who, during that half hour, took her into the third class to satisfy herself of the young man's temporary welfare.

There was no privacy there, and a hostile Gip made it callously clear that he desired no privacy for a farewell with her.

"You've treated me shamefully. You deserted me. You're out for yourself like all women. Not that I blame you for that. I only want you to understand, Gold, that I'm on my feet now; I'm promised a grand job, and I'm being met on the docks. I've had a foul voyage, and you've done nothing for me. Nothing! I owe you nothing, Gold." His gesture was splendid. "As for you, you'll have to look after yourself. This is good-by."

GASOLINE ALLEY—ALMOST TO BOSTON

Child Is Often Terrified of a Sudden Noise

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Does your little boy show signs of fear when airplanes roar close by overhead? Does your little daughter cry or act terrified and run away whenever the vacuum cleaner is used? Does your small son scream or hold his hands over his ears and turn pale and try to run away from the sharp crowing of cocks, or train whistles?

Many young children do. If it annoys you because you see no sense in it, or because other children don't mind such things, change your attitude toward it. Because, as we were saying yesterday, children differ in the way they respond to things. Some children are very sensitive to sudden or piercing loud noises. They evidently experience a kind of shock, probably mostly physiological, which looks like the psychological state that we call fear.

To be sure, in some cases this may be fear, because the child may have some pain or fright connected with a loud noise. But more often I believe this to be their special physical or nervous sensibility to noise shock.

"What can I do?" ask many mothers.

Different things in different cases, but here are a few workable suggestions. First, make use of the old adage that familiarity breeds contempt. Make your little child acquainted with the thing that troubles him. If it's roosters look at them, talk about their funny combs and big tails, make pictures of them, and imitate their crowing.

We're used to locomotives, so we forget they are powerful, impressive, towering giants to a tiny child. Look at these, too—from a distance, at first. Then play train. Buy a bell and whistle. Talk about how safely they carry people. Perhaps you can even get an engineer of a locomotive to pull the cord that blows the whistle.

Use a similar method with airplanes, though I wouldn't try to get near a starting plane on a field, as the roar of the propeller is deafening.

The fear of a vacuum cleaner is not easy to overcome, nor is the device easy to interest a child in. But he might be shown its parts and how it works and told how much it helps—or a game could be made up connected with it, like playing it's a train—or a story told about it. A child should not be forced to stay near it, but should be eased into minding it less.

And last, always be sure your little boy or girl is thoroughly rested, well nourished, well aired and sunned, and lovingly treated.

Boy Wonders if He Should Keep Girl Guessing

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"How about the man?" queries Bob. "Hadn't he better play a hand at 'keeping them guessing,' too?"

Bob fell for the girl like a ton of bricks! Every time he saw her he told her he was crazy about her.

"Any time you want to go anywhere, Babe," he reminded her often, "you just call on this lovesick crooner. He'd leave anything for you!"

He dated her three evenings a week and phoned her four! Even so, she managed to slip out on him one of the four! So, Bob's wondering if you hadn't oughta keep a girl guessing, too!

Some girls wouldn't remain in love if they weren't sure of their man. They have to be pretty sure before they turn their hearts over. One evening "kept guessing" and they'd suspect the boy friend's love was cooling! And they'd be subject to a cooling process, too. It depends upon the girl! If she's one of the steady, reliable, true blue sort you don't have to play any guessing game with her. But if she's fickle a man may have to give her a good scare to hold her.

If she's moody, changeable, keeping her guessing is worth trying. If she has a high and mighty opinion of herself as a vamp she can be kept guessing a lot. Indifference will intrigue her.

You can tell the girl's character by her attitude toward other things. If she tires easily of everything she gets, she's just as apt to be bored with a suitor always at hand. He'd better not be too lavish with compliments or attention.

If she's just a regular, normal girl and as in love with a boy as he with her, he can tell her every time he sees her how much he likes her and she'll like hearing it.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Willie, 5 years old, dressed in a clean white blouse suit, was having a chocolate soda. He spilled some of the soda on his blouse and his mother said: "O, that's too bad. Right on your nice, clean suit." "Sorry, mother," he answered, "wish I had taken vanilla."

Olympic Games Hold Interest of Film Stars

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Four other film notables are taking a keen sideline interest in the Olympics, too. They are Jim Thorpe, who received an ovation at the Los Angeles Athletic club the night before the games, when ex-sports champions and sports writers were assembled in a premeet jollification, Charley Paddock, the old sprint champion, and Johnny Weissmuller and Duke Kahanamoku, who made the water boil in the Olympic swims. All are movie actors now, but they have juggled their film schedules around so that they are out there at the Olympic stadium all through the next two weeks.

Douglas Fairbanks made a tour of Olympic village, where the athletes of the 39 nations are living, and he was lucky to get away in one piece. The Italian boys and the Argentinians literally mobbed him in their attempts to jostle next to Doug while teammates snapped camera shots and reeled off short movie shots of the actor's visit. The Canadian boys told Doug "Yes, we have heard of you, Mary Pickford's husband. You know, Mary comes from Toronto."

Fairbanks invited Lord Burghley, the British 400 meter hurdler who won in the 1928 games, to be his and Mary's guest when his athletic lordship is through his stint in the games. Another former acquaintance whom he invited was Gaudin, French fencer, with whom Doug had once fenced in Paris.

When Sam Goldwyn's company, headed by Ronald Colman and Dorothy Hale, turn the stage version of "Cynara" into a talkie they have orders to retain the bit of dialogue in which Miss Hale, as Clemency Warlock, is supposed to tell her husband, Jim Warlock [Colman]: "I don't like too much of that Adolphe Menjou-Ronald Colman kind of thing."

When Helen Gahagan and Melvyn Douglas came to Hollywood for their stay during Douglas' present film engagement, one of the omnipresent real estate gentry met them and told them: "There are only two places to live out here, where everybody lives. Malibu Beach or Beverly Hills." Whereat Miss Gahagan, in her positive way, said: "There are only two places where I won't live, Malibu and Beverly."

Which recalls how, with equal positiveness, Miss Gahagan met her husband. She was cast as star in a New York stage play, and the producer trotted out scores of possible leading men for her inspection. Miss Gahagan showed little interest until an unknown young man walked into view. "I'll have him," she said, and she did. The young man was Melvyn Douglas, and he got the leading part, and, like the Hans Christian Anderson stories, married the princess, and so far they have lived happily ever after.

They have imported five snorting, belligerent black miura bulls, the sort that are raised professionally for bull fights, from Mexico for Eddie Cantor's "Kid from Spain." They keep them tethered with three placid oxen to avoid wear and tear on the temporary stables at United Artists theater ever since one of the bulls spotted a movie actor he didn't like and with one lunge of his horn impaled one of the tethering posts and pulled it up by the roots.

Eddie Cantor has to do a comic version of a bull fight with these bulls. They are saving that part of his picture until the last scenes for some time in September. "I know only too well why," Cantor told me sadly. "I know what I want to do in those scenes, and Sam Goldwyn, the producer, knows, but I am afraid the bulls won't know."

Another of Cantor's showgirls, a little beauty with brown hair, whose name I didn't get, comes to work every day in an imported Spanish automobile as long as a bread truck. She's only one of the wealthy daughters who's doing it for a lark. One of the others is Consuelo Baker.

Lowell Sherman has one of those Neon signs that you can see for a mile for his house number.

Tasty Service of Left-Overs Cookery Test

Veal Can Rival Chicken at Second Appearance.

BY MARY MEADE.

Chops, roasts, and steaks are so self-satisfied in all their smug completeness that one simply follows the cook book directions and knows they will taste—just as the chops, roasts, and steaks did last week.

But leftovers—ah, that's a different matter! It's when the meat platter comes back to the kitchen with all the smugness gone out of the steaks and roasts and with just scattered luscious sections remaining that I begin to get excited. For the test of a real cook is not what she can do with meat at its first appearance, but what she can conjure out of it for the second. And while there seldom is enough left for another meal, when combined with other tempting leftovers, wonders can be wrought.

The biggest job is to work up variety in these meat extenders. And sameness of flavor is the biggest pitfall. If the meat has sufficient tastiness to do for the whole dish, don't drown it in chili sauce and smother it with onions. But if tastiness is its weak point, experiment a bit with condiments. Poultry seasoning often does wonders in croquettes and other dishes which have been extended with crumbs or rice. The addition of meat extracts and bouillons which may be kept always on the shelf, do wonders to flavor. Often the savory fat which was cut off yesterday may be added to give richness and flavor. Or bacon drippings or the meat from a link of canned sausage will do the trick. Bones with their delicious hanging-on scraps are prime for savory soups, and rendered meat and drippings will always find a place as a splendid shortening for ginger breads, choco late cakes, and waffles.

Now for a few snapshot suggestions for luscious leftovers. Meat salads, jellied and otherwise, too seldom used make delightful warm weather luncheon dishes. The roast flavor will make them delicious. Veal may be turned into a salad you would think was a chicken delicacy. A combination of minced ham and diced beef is most tempting. Or try this for a tasty luncheon offering:

SUMMER SALAD.

1-3 cup diced cucumbers.
1 cup shredded crisp lettuce.
⅓ cup diced sweet pickles.
⅓ cup diced celery.
Mayonnaise.

HAM CUTLETS.

Deep fat is another solution to the leftover meat problem. And actually it's a much healthier way of cooking than the pan fry method, in which so much fat is likely to be soaked into the foods. With French frying, the heat forms a crust before the fat can be absorbed. As a variation from the always delicious croquettes, serve meat cutlets. Simply blend ground seasoned ham or other meat with thick white sauce, spread on a plate to chill, and when cool, shape into the form of cutlets. Dip in crumbs, egg, again in crumbs, and French fry in deep fat [380 degrees F.] till golden brown.

Delicious meat pies, casserole combinations, and ragouts with your choice of meats extended with rice, eggs, bread crumbs, potatoes or other vegetables, will take little time and little work, as the main cooking is already out of the way. For instance:

SHEPHERD'S PIE WITH POTATO PUFF.

3 cups diced lamb or other meat.
1 cup cooked peas.
1 cup leftover gravy or meat stock.
Salt and pepper to taste.
2 slices bacon, minced, or 2 tablespoons bacon drippings.
1 tablespoon peppery sauce.
2 cups hot mashed potatoes.

Blend the meat, peas, and gravy. Add the seasoning and turn into a deep casserole. Whip the potatoes till light with a little hot milk. Pile them roughly on top of the pie and dot with butter or minced bacon. Place in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] and heat thoroughly. Brown quickly under a flame and serve with tomato catsup.

Rumania Accepts Hoover's Invitation to Century of Progress

Rumania has announced its acceptance of President Hoover's invitation to participate in the Century of Progress exposition next year, according to exposition officials. The news came yesterday in a cable from Felix J. Streyckmans, chief of foreign participation, who is in Paris.

At the same time word came from the Chinese ministry at Nanking, that China has approved the selection of the site for its building on the lake front, just north of the 23d street entrance.

Rumania was the tenth nation to accept the invitation. Other countries participating will be: France, Persia, Turkey, Honduras, Guatemala, Ecuador, Brazil, and Cuba. Lithuania and Mexico have partially accepted. Influences are working in other nations to bring them to the World's Fair. Among them are Belgium, Norway, Great Britain, Sweden, Hungary, Denmark, Austria, Netherlands, Poland, Yugoslavia, and Colombia.

Besides China, sites for buildings have been selected by France, Mexico, Colombia, Poland, Canada, and Cuba.

Billie Burke Asked to Continue "Follies" in Ziegfeld's Place

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The widow of Florenz Ziegfeld, the beautiful Billie Burke, may carry on his plans for the Follies. A. C. Blumenthal of the Ziegfeld Production company, said Miss Burke had been asked to return to New York from Hollywood and take the producers' place in the presentation of two extravaganzas which he had planned before his death here July 22.

One of these productions will be another Follies. The second will be an operetta composed by Jerome Kern.

Miss Burke is not certain what she will do. "I may return to Hollywood to accept motion picture offers," she said today.

The actress was making a picture at the time of her husband's death. She will complete it this week and will remain here two weeks more, leaving at that time with the body for New York, where burial services will be held. She said she has not decided whether she would accept the suggestion of Mayor James J. Walker of New York for a public burial.

Russian Women Put High Value on Cosmetics

They'll Give Up Every Other Comfort First.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You can get women to abandon silk stockings for cotton ones.

You can get them to wear last year's dresses, or dresses of five years ago—BUT threaten to take their cosmetics away from them and there's a stampede to the nearest cosmetic counter!

Anyway, this appears to be the cosmetic experiment under the soviet régime. Russian women will go without finery, but not without lipstick. They'll go without soap, but not without powder. They'll wear cheap canvas shoes, but they'll have their rouge jars. And more power to them! Without that Eve rib in their system what a tragic lot of females they would be!

Beatrice Webb, a 70 year old British socialist and economist, back from a tour of Russia, not long ago, declared the use of rouge, powder, and lipstick "grossly immoral" and she wants the communist party to issue a decree forbidding painted lips.

"Russian women," she did say, "have the most beautiful complexions in the world—and they do not need cosmetics." However, it was soviet principles—not Russian complexions—that the elderly British socialist wants to preserve.

Boris Cronig, writing in a current trade paper, tells of a traveler who sees a Russian working girl clumping along in her ill fitting clothes, heavy shoes from one of which a buckle may be missing and a dirty white string serving in its place. But regardless of how the rest of her ensemble may look, her lips are cherry red, her eyebrows may be pencilled, and there's a blush of rouge.

And it's no easy job to lay hands on cosmetics in Russia. No 10 cent stores, no cosmetic shops, no department stores where cosmetics may be purchased reasonably. The Russian girl's lipstick, cheap and poorly made, costs $2.50. Face powder, Mr. Cronig tells, is about $7 or $8 a box.

Fifteen or twenty girls chip in on a single box purchase. A really good cake of soap is $10 and the cheapest soap is 75 cents a cake "when you can get it," Mr. Cronig adds. A dozen girls will band together for a bottle of perfume (of a kind) for $12.

French Evening Frocks Exhibit New Wide Skirt

BY LETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—If you are going to treat yourself to a new evening gown, remember that skirts are getting wider. Some of the newest French evening frocks measure six yards around the hem of their skirts.

These wide skirts are particularly smart in filmy materials, because they are not bouffant, and fashion frowns on the billowing skirt.

The new dress from Worth, shown today, is the best Paris example I have seen of the wide skirt. This frock is made of China blue chiffon, and below the closely fitted hip yoke the skirt is shirred in three rows of fine shirring, so that it contains yards and yards of chiffon. Yet, as you can see, it doesn't flare much, and this is the secret of its chic.

The bodice of this frock is plain in back and is cut no lower than a daytime dress. In front it is gathered on top of the shoulders and into the fitted V of material that rises from the waistline to the left side of the neckline. This gives an irregular draped neckline, which is newer than the cowl line.

Heat Teaches Lesson in Care of Home Lawns

Second Growing Season of Grass Soon to Start.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Whoever in the family has assumed responsibility for care of the lawn this season undoubtedly has learned some lessons from experience in recent weeks.

Perhaps one more lesson is yet to be mastered before the family's official lawn keeper can consider himself in the senior class. This is that there are two good seasons in the year when grass grows most, and two periods of the year when it is practically dormant. The second growing season of this year will be encountered in another four or five weeks.

The best stand of lawn sod is obtained when the grass has been amply fed during the spring, and watered artificially only when the ground became obviously dry or started to crack. Those who apply the sprinkler lightly and frequently learn that a shallow root system develops which will not carry the grass through the dry July and August semi-dormant period.

Likewise, the lawn womer which clipped the luxuriant grass during the growing season, unless it was adjusted of late, has clipped the grass so close this month that the roots are exposed needlessly to baking sunlight. If the stand of grass is rather light one might better omit mowing altogether in hot weather. At least, to keep the lawn even, the mower should be set to clip as high as possible.

The best period for sowing a lawn is in the fall, when rains start abundant growth again and weeds are more easily controlled. In lawns heavily infested with weeds, or where grass has died back in spots, these areas may be spaded up, raked into a fine soil and reseeded. An application of plant food during August is advisable.

PROBE JUVENILE COURT ON DELAY OF BANDIT CASE

Probation Officer's Role as Judge Explained.

An inquiry into the 24 continuances granted in 25 court appearances to three bandits who held up a restaurant at 9137 South Western avenue last May 2 was directed yesterday to the Juvenile court, where most of the continuances were given to Charles Harrington, 16 years old, leader of the holdup gang.

Harrington was armed with a pistol when he held up Miss Marie MacLaughlan, 17 years old, and her mother. Miss MacLaughlan shot Harrington in the hip and Harrington fired back, slightly wounding the girl in the arm. Harrington was sent to the St. Charles School for Boys last Friday. His two companions, Alex Johnson and Allen Reynolds, both 18 years old, were given probation by Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court when Miss MacLaughlan, weary of making the long trip to court, agreed to the order.

Frank Matousek, listed on the county pay rolls as an assistant probation officer with a salary of $206 a month, sat virtually as a judge in the Juvenile court and granted the numerous continuances in the Harrington case, it was disclosed.

Judge Mary Bartelme, the Juvenile court judge, is touring Europe, it was learned. In her absence, Judge Otto Kerner was appointed to hear Juvenile court cases. Since Judge Kerner is an Appellate court judge with many cases from the Circuit and Superior courts to pass upon, most of the work of hearing evidence against boy delinquents falls upon Matousek, the records show.

"It's not an unusual procedure," said Judge Kerner yesterday. "The practice was adopted in the days of the late Judge Arnold of the Juvenile court. Matousek acts as a referee and his recommendations are acted upon by me."

Judge Kerner said that in the Harrington case he passed upon the evidence and upheld Matousek's recommendation concerning the commitment to a reformatory. He knew nothing of the many continuances granted previous to the final action, he said.

Explanation of Delay.

Matousek was reported to be on his vacation yesterday. At the time of his final action in the Harrington case he said the many continuances were caused by the fact that the cases of two of the bandits were being heard in the Criminal court and one in the Juvenile court.

"There was no outside pressure in the case," he declared. "Legal technicalities caused the delay. The witnesses could not be both in the Criminal and Juvenile courts at the same time and thus there was difficulty in getting all the evidence in. After all despite the many continuances, less than three months elapsed between the commission of the crime and final sentence to the reformatory for Harrington."

ERLANGER'S WIDOW HELD ENTITLED TO BATTLE FOR ESTATE

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The late Abraham L. Erlanger, showman, and Miss Charlotte M. Fixel became man and wife on the Atlantic City boardwalk in Nov., 1927, when he gave her a wedding ring, Surrogate John P. O'Brien ruled today in upholding her right to contest his will.

His decision ended the longest and one of the bitterest trials in the history of the Surrogate's court and signalized defeat for the efforts of Former Supreme Court Justice Mitchell L. Erlanger, a brother, and two sisters to prevent Miss Fixel from sharing in the estate.

Erlanger died in Miss Fixel's arms in March, 1930, in the Riverside drive apartment where they had lived for ten years. He left an estate then estimated at $7,000,000, but subsequently it has been evaluated by the temporary administrator at $124.50 in cash and $1,270,000 in "uncollected or uncollectable debts."

FEAR DISORDERS IN MINE AFFAIRS OF TWO STATES

Tension prevailed in two coal mining sections of southern Indiana and Illinois yesterday.

In Indiana Gov. Harry Leslie refused a request that state troops be sent to guard nonunion miners near Terre Haute. In Illinois residents of Benton were uneasy over threats of trouble today when John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, is scheduled to speak on the proposed new wage contracts for Illinois miners.

The Indiana situation seemed most acute. Two hundred union miners picketed the Dixie Bee mine south of Terre Haute and threw fear into more than 100 workers, who refused to leave the shaft until assured protection.

Refuses Request for Troops.

Sheriff Joe Dreher and County Prosecutor Charles C. Whitlock telegraphed Gov. Leslie for troops late Sunday, asserting that they could not cope with the situation. The governor said that he would not order the militia to the scene under the present circumstances. A force of deputies succeeded in bringing out the men and taking some of the night forces into the mines.

The picketing has continued since Thursday, nonunion miners being prevented from entering the mine each morning. No work was done Thursday, Friday and Saturday, but it began again yesterday. There has been no open violence at the shaft since April 6, when about 1,200 men surrounded it and severely beat a number of workers and officers of the mining company.

Similar trouble was experienced at Dugger, Ind., ten days ago when a crowd of 1,000 miners menaced strikebreakers at the Hoosier mine until troops were called out.

Plan Protection for Lewis.

Measures were taken to insure order when Lewis speaks at Benton, Ill., were contemplated by Franklin county authorities. Mr. Lewis is to speak in behalf of the new wage agreement negotiated by miners and operators of the 12th district, which has many members loyal to Lewis.

Approximately 400 citizens and miners pledged the sheriff support in keeping order.

These friends were saying yesterday that they would not tolerate disorder or heckling or a repetition of the discourtesy shown State President John H. Walker of Springfield at Johnston City Saturday. Walker's automobile was stoned by alleged radical miners as he left the town.

Another meeting of miners scheduled for Johnson City tonight was stopped by authorities, who turned back persons coming to that town on the roads.

The meeting today is expected to gather 20,000 miners from all sections of the state. Mr. Lewis will address them at the fair grounds in Benton. Members of the Stanley McCollum post, American Legion, have been sworn in as deputy sheriffs and Sheriff Browning Robinson issued an appeal asking "the cooperation of all patriotic citizens in preserving order tomorrow."

John H. Walker announced last night that a referendum would be held Saturday on the new wage scale.

FALL OUT OF TREE FATAL.

Oscar Anderson, 51 years old, 2722 Union street, Blue Island, received a fractured skull which caused his death yesterday when he fell forty feet from a tree which he was pruning to a concrete sidewalk.

SHERIFF'S AID FILES $55,000 SLANDER SUIT

Thomas J. Wren, 7831 South Shore drive, an attaché of the sheriff's office, yesterday filed the declaration of a $55,000 suit, charging slander, against Harold N. May, 6866 Woodlawn avenue. The bill alleges that May injured Wren's standing in the community when he implied, in statements to neighbors on July 25, that Wren had damaged his car. Later, the bill charged, May tried to intimidate Wren's wife.

Jones Boots Him In from Far Back.

Bobby Jones, the bronze skinned little horseman from down along the Mexican border, was the big hero in the first performance of Hawthorne's summer racing season yesterday.

JOCKEY R. JONES.

It was Jones in the first race—just after the curtain went up—who kicked the Kentucky 2 year old, Fayette Prince, to victory after a mighty ride down the stretch. Again it was Jones who came from behind, who overcame all sorts of handicaps, who rode Big Brand like a demon down the stretch to win the Shoreland purse, which held the featured place on the bill.

12,000 Out for Opening.

So it was Jones who won the applause of the more than 12,000 spectators who braved a rainy looking afternoon to be on hand when Hawthorne opened. The crowd was a bumper for the times—and it was a bumper betting crowd—just as all Hawthorne crowds are. And Hawthorne established some sort of a record for Chicago racing this season when the final statistics showed that the wagering and attendance had been slightly above the figures of a year ago. No other Chicago track has been able to make that kind of opening day report this season.

The favorites were getting home just often enough to keep the boys who burn the midnight oil over the handicap figures in money.

Big Brand Beats Good Ones.

When Big Brand took the Shoreland he conquered a band of the best 3 year olds that are left in the west. He had a most difficult task to win and only a kid like Jones could have got him home. This Jones boy isn't a flash in the pan. He's been riding that way all season against the greatest jocks in the land.

At the beginning of the Shoreland Crystal Prince broke in front from an inside post position, Cathop was next away, Waylayer was third, and Big Brand was last in the field of seven. They ran in that order until well straightened out for the run down the back stretch. Things began to happen then. Cathop raced on by the pacemaker and took the lead, Waylayer was in second place, and Cee Tee was running third.

Big Brand, during the next eighth of a mile, moved from the rear guard into fourth place, but rounding the lower bend he was still on the outside and it didn't appear as if he had much chance of catching the three horses that were hot footing it in front of him.

"Let's Go!" Says Bobby.

Jones made Big Brand go after them just the same. He first whipped Cee Tee and made that fellow drop far back and then he passed up Waylayer. But Cathop had him by a fair sort of a margin and the finish was not far away. Jones applied the pressure once more. A dozen strides out he had Big Brand on even terms with Cathop. Before they reached the finish line he had him a length in front.

It wasn't a particularly fast mile and a sixteenth, the time being 1:46 1-5. The deep cushion, damp from a drizzle of rain, prevented any record breaking performances. Cathop hung on to be second and Crystal Prince came with a belated rush to get third money. In the mutuels Big Brand was stoutly backed and paid $5.32 for a $2 ticket.

Polydorus Last to First.

The Brookwood purse, engaging fleet sprinters, brought another thriller when Jockey Johnny Maiben brought Polydorus up from last place in the rush down the stretch and made the speedy son of Friar Rock nip Supreme Sweet right at the finish line to win by a nose.

It was one of those finishes in which only the judges on the line of finish can separate them. Polydorus was the only odds-on favorite to win and his great run down the stretch in the middle of the track with Maiben escaping all chance of trouble brought the crowd up with its loudest shout of the afternoon. Vishnu, which forced the pace Supreme Sweet was making, landed third money. Polydorus ran the six furlongs in 1:12 3-5 and in the mutuels paid $3.62.

Gloritone by a Length.

Some stylish 2 year olds met in the Mohawk and it brought victory to Gloritone by a length from Stuyvesant Peabody's Miss Melody. Edward R. Bradley's Ballygran was third. Jockey W. Wright had Gloritone in front a good part of the way.

Hawthorne officials were happy over their big opening. They were of the opinion that the heavy clouds kept several thousand away. And when very many more than 12,000 or 15,000 go to Hawthorne a shoe horn is needed to wedge them into the enclosure.

All Set, Fans; Cubs Perfect Pennant Plans

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The Chicago Cubs spent this day off in figuring how they are going to make up the 5 game gap which now exists between them and the Pittsburgh Pirates. It was a fine mathematical problem, but the boys mastered it, although they are keeping the solution secret for the time being.

Pitcher Guy Bush was the only one who would give a hint as to the program worked out during the day's conferences. Guy figures that the Pirates will arrive in Chicago on Sept. 20 three games in first place. He plans to beat them Sept. 20, reducing the lead to two games, and on Sept. 21 he schedules Warneke to reduce the margin to one game. Sept. 22 Root or Malone will bring the pennant race to a tie and on Sept. 23 the Cubs will go a game in front when Bush comes back to make it four straight in the series.

There's a Catch in It.

It is figured that that one game lead will stand up, for after the Cub series the Pirates will go to St. Louis to close the season with a series of three games while the Cubs will close at home with two games against the tail end Cincinnati Reds.

The only catch in Mr. Bush's line of reasoning is found in the fact that the Pirates may be more than three games in front when they go to Chicago on Sept. 20 and that the Cubs may not win four straight in that series.

The Cubs beat the Pirates six games out of eight in the early series of the season, but since have lost eight out of nine.

As today's conferees proceeded to the comparative strength of first division teams they found a most surprising group of inconsistencies. Comparing the record of the third place Phillies against the Pirates with that of the Cubs they found a most confusing situation.

Pirates Easy for Phils.

The Phillies have beaten the Pirates 10 out of 14, two of the Pirate wins being extremely lucky. Try to reconcile this with the fact that the Pirates have beaten the Cubs 10 out of 17, especially when you know the Cubs have beaten the Phillies 7 out of 11.

The fourth place Boston Braves, on the figures so far, would have liked nothing better than to have played the Phillies all season. Beaten by the Cubs 9 games to 4 in the season series and 6 games to 4 by the Pirates, the Braves have whipped the Phillies 10 times in 17 games.

Wanted: Some Hitters.

To one who wants to be pleasant at all times there seems no necessity for bringing up the absence of outstanding hitting prowess on the Cub team. Stephenson still can swoop 'em; Grimm gets hold of one once in a while; Cuyler has gone back immeasurably afield and at bat; Woody English, perhaps the best ball player on the team, aside from some of the pitchers, hasn't been hitting as much as formerly, and so on.

The success plans worked out in today's conferences included the defeat of the Brooklyn Dodgers in the final of the series, to be played tomorrow. The Cubs must win to even the current and season series with the Dodgers, who have beaten them eight out of 15 games.

Four Pitchers Wilt Under 23 Hit Attack.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 1.—(AP)—A barrage of 23 hits, including nine doubles, a triple, and a home run, placed the Phillies within seven games of first place in the National league as they won their third straight from the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates today. The score was 18 to 5.

The Phillies drove Meine from the mound in the fourth with a seven run attack, sent Brame to the showers with another seven run rally in the fifth, and continued their scoring at the expense of Spencer and Chagnon. Flint Rhem went the route for the Phillies for his twelfth victory of the season.

CARDS BEAT BRAVES, 4-2.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Braves today, 4 to 2, as Tex Carleton held Boston to seven hits, while Bob Brown's teammates failed to give him needed support. Reese, the Card's second baseman, accepted 12 chances in the field without an error. A leg injury kept Worthington, Braves' left fielder, out of the lineup. Score:

Almost Rains, So Weary Sox Get Day Off

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, having been bounced about a bit during the last several months, naturally aren't in the best of health. Hence, when a few drops of rain fell yesterday morning the club bosses canceled the day's scheduled proceedings with the Senators rather than subject the tender athletes to such possible discomforts as wet feet, muddy shoes, and soiled uniforms.

The postponement, of course, was a great surprise to would-be customers and prospective ladies' day guests who began to gather around the premises early in the afternoon. However, the women are out only their carfares and time. They can come back this afternoon and find the gate unguarded except for the gentleman who collects the customary dime for improvident Uncle Sam.

It's Still Chamberlain.

Johnny Butler, acting manager while Lew Fonseca wanders around the minors for some possible big league talent, probably will go through this afternoon with the same pitching plans he had for yesterday. This involves the maiden appearance of Bill Chamberlain, a southpaw, whose chief claim to fame is that in semi-pro circles around Boston he outpitched Bob Brown, now a sensation with the Braves.

Fonseca is concentrating on American association territory and before returning will have seen practically all of the teams thereof. He is making the trip merely as a gesture to appease the south side folks who are asking why something better than obscure minor leaguers are not brought up. The manager hasn't spoken his thoughts, but in recent weeks he has acted much like a man who was pretty sore about something. It even has been whispered that he had served notice that if he didn't get some real help he would just as soon quit as continue. His scouting expedition followed this alleged edict.

They Still Own Mulleavy.

The Sox have at least one good man in the minors by the name of Gregory Mulleavy, who has been in and out for the last couple of years. He's playing short for the Oakland Coast league outfit and doing a large amount of hitting. His fielding is only fair, but at least an improvement over his previous work. When the Sox first brought him up from Toledo he was not far past the green pea stage, so naturally was entitled to a couple of seasons on the farm. He will be recalled this fall. That gives the club three shortstops—Kress and Appling being the others—but there already is talk of having Mulleavy play third.

The Senators will close their current stay here this afternoon and will not be asked to play off yesterday's postponement until they come back on their last western trip of the season.

Curtis Gives Own Olympic Games Pass to Jim Thorpe

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Jim Thorpe, once the world's greatest athlete, will not have to worry where another pass for the Olympic games is coming from. Thorpe, who was among the crowd of 105,000 in the Olympic stadium watching the opening ceremonies on a borrowed pass, has been presented with Vice President Curtis' pass to the games.

"Jim would have been my honored guest in the presidential box at the opening ceremonies if I had known he was here," said Curtis.

RISKO WINS 12 ROUND DECISION FROM GRIFFITH

Cleveland, O., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, won a twelve round decision from Tuffy Griffith of Chicago tonight before 7,000 in the municipal stadium.

Risko carried the fight to Griffith in the early rounds and Tuffy was so dazed he had difficulty finding his corner during the intermissions. However, it was not until the last three rounds that Risko piled up his winning advantage.

There were no knockdowns. Tuffy got the worst of the clinches, Risko outpunching him consistently the many times they embraced.

600 REPORTERS NEEDED TO TELL OLYMPIC STORY

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Approximately a quarter of a million words a day are being filed on the Olympics by the 600 newspaper correspondents gathered here. This estimate is based on figures supplied by the telegraph and cable companies, which report that almost 50 per cent of the file is being cabled abroad. Japan has the largest delegation of foreign correspondents covering the games, one publication alone sending seventeen reporters to Los Angeles.

There's Many a Slip—This One Brings a Javelin Record

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 1.—"It slee-upped," said the girl who had just broken the world record for her sex in the matter of throwing the javelin, which is a sort of skewer about six feet long, made of wood with a steel point on the business end, which the Finns brought into the Olympic games some years ago as a native weapon of theirs. The Finns had used it of old for spearing the herring in their woods of peaceful industry, and Russians or Scandinavians in their warlike tempers.

BABE DIDRIKSON.

"It slee-upped right out of mah hand," Babe Didrikson said, she being out of Dallas, Tex., and a clerical hand in a business office in her natural state, to whom the javelin wasn't even a word until two years ago. Up to that time, if you had asked her to define javelin, she might have said it was a form of the verb to javel, but how one javeled she couldn't have rightly said, because they do not javel much in Texas.

But she had walked out on the Olympic lot in the presence of 50,000 strangers in a strange town and fired that foreign spear more than eleven feet beyond the old record on her first throw, and now she was explaining that she didn't go for to bust the record at all, but had thought she was getting away nothing better than a wild pitch. It slipped. Good for the customers in the yonder end of the arena that it was a wild pitch, because if the Babe of the Olympics had thrown a strike instead, that evil prong might have pinned somebody fast to the concrete on the far wall like a junebug to a card in a museum.

An Eyeful for Old Lady.

She was still in her flannel pajamas with the zippers at the ankles, such as the athletes wear to keep the breeze off their muscles between plays, when she returned to the hotel where the Olympic girls are segregated. The lobby was jammed with players and sightseers and a Japanese bell boy called gangway as he inched along through the crowd, guiding an incredibly old and feeble lady through the press to a chair against the wall. There she could sit, just barely alive, and gaze upon vital young women in the June of life with strength to squander on the high dive, the sprints and the hurling of light and heavy objects about the field for fun, medals and newspaper clippings.

The old lady sank down, her almost lifeless hands limp in the lap of her voluminous grandmother's dress. Her eyes vaguely took in Babe Didrikson and Georgia Coleman, the swimmer, her blonde hair burned white by the sun and her face and arms tanned to the color of ginger. Little Katherine Rawls, the diver, joined the group. She is an Olympic player at 14, attended by her father, who appears as though he might be her big brother.

Olympic girls in their national uniforms were crowding into the dining room, fencers, swimmers, divers, field athletes, German, Canadian, American, Mexican, white, black and oriental, and the sightseers crowded against the red plush rope across the doorway, such as used to be seen in the night clubs when the headwaiters could choose their customers. The sightseers stared as the girls forked away at their rations, babbling in many tongues and breaking off now again to smack their palms together as some one of their company entered who had done something special or was expected to.

Good Old Adulation.

It might have been feeding time at the zoo, the sightseers stared so intently and with such bland innocence, but this was adulation, which is one of the sweet rewards of all the trying and training that make up the life of an Olympic athlete. When girls are a little spoiled they make out to resent all this, but that only betrays the ham in them. Like the hams of Hollywood and the fighting ring who pout when they are stared at, but live on and by the adulation of the obscure, your famous athlete knows in his heart that this worship is one of the prizes he worked for.

One of the hurtest looks in the repertoire of the human face is the pang which flits across the features of the somewhat famous public character, in sport, the movies or whatever, who, upon being met, is asked, "And what is your line of work."

Track Standing

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The unofficial point standing in the Olympic games track and field events, based on 10 for firsts, and 5, 4, 3, 2, and 1 for the next five places, was as follows at the conclusion of today's events:

United States	58	Philippines	4
Ireland	20	Great Britain	3
Finland	16	New Zealand	3
Poland	10	Japan	2
Germany	10	South Africa	2
Canada	10	Italy	2
Sweden	5	Argentina	1
Czechoslovakia	4

IRELAND CAPTURES TWO EVENTS.

Today's Program

First trials 110 meter hurdles.
First trials 200 meter run.
Finals 800 meter run.
Semi-finals 110 meter hurdles.
Trials 5,000 meter run.
Second trials 200 meter run.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Tolan was driven to a tie for the world record in 10 3-10 seconds by the big Marquette university colored boy who was coming like a typhoon in the last 15 feet. From the stands it appeared that Metcalfe had passed Tolan, but the officials ruled otherwise. The record was set in 1930 by Percy Williams of Canada, who was shut out in the first semi-final today when Tolan footed it in :10 7-10.

Two Irishmen Win.

Two other finals were held. Robert M. Tisdell of Ireland won the 400 meter 3½ foot hurdles, and Dr. Pat O'Callaghan of Ireland captured the hammer throw with a mark of 176 feet 11⅛ inches. World's record time of 52 seconds was tied in the hurdle race.

Stella Walsh of Cleveland, who is wearing the colors of Poland in the games and competing as Stanislawa Walasiewicz, accounted for the only world's record that was broken during the day's sport before the crowd of 43,000. She raced her first and second qualifying heats in the women's 100 meter dash in 11 9-10 seconds, displacing the world's record of 12 seconds.

32 Points for Americans.

The three final events added 32 points to the American team's total, putting it far out in the lead with 58. Points are figured on the accepted, but unofficial basis of ten points for first, and 5, 4, 3, 2 and 1 for second to sixth places. Ireland picked up 20 points, but had not scored previously.

In the 100 meter sprint Metcalfe was posted first as the victor, but after a long debate the judges decided Tolan had breasted the tape first by a margin of six inches.

Tolan himself thought he had been defeated and ran over to congratulate his American rival, only to find out soon afterward he was the new champion.

Dr. Arthur Jonath of Germany was third, George Simpson, former Ohio State star, fourth; Joubert of South Africa fifth, and Yoshioka of Japan sixth.

Second Placer Gets Credit.

The second world record feat went, on a technical rule of the Olympic competition, to Glenn Hardin of Louisiana State, who only placed second to Tisdell in the 400 meter hurdle race. Tisdell was clocked in :51 8-10, faster than the world record of :52 set by Morgan Taylor of Chicago, but Tisdell's record was disallowed because he tipped over his tenth and last hurdle. This cost him a place in the record book, but not his victory.

The Olympic officials took the time of Hardin, second man, found he had rounded the oval in exactly :52, and awarded him a new Olympic record for the 400 meter hurdles, displacing the :52 8-10 set jointly yesterday by Tisdall and Hardin. Tisdall won the race by a decisive ten feet. Morgan Taylor, the 1924 Olympic winner, placed third, and Lord Burghley, the 1928 Olympic winner, was fourth.

Movies to Decide Places.

Miss Walsh rates a heavy favorite against all the other qualifying girls tomorrow. The first semi-final in the 100 meter event was so close that, although the judges tentatively decided that Hilda Strike of Canada qualified first, Marie Dollinger of Germany, second, and Elizabeth Wilde of America, third, they announced their judging would be reviewed and possibly changed when they look at the official motion pictures taken at the finish line.

If Miss Wilde, who won her first round heat, it showed by the official pictures to have a place among the six surviving woman racers tomorrow, America will have two representatives in that final, against one each for Poland, Canada, Germany, and Great Britain.

Steeplechasers Beat Record.

Two spectacular heats in the 3,000 meter steeplechase, which included seven complete laps of the inclosure, and a series of water jumps and hurdles, resulted in a double assault on the best recorded previous time. A thrilling duel down the last 40 yards between Volmari Iso-Hollo of Finland and J. P. McCluskey, United States, resulted in the iron man Finn, who yesterday captured second in the 10,000 meter run, cleaving the tape an eyelash ahead of the Fordham univer-

THREE TROTTING RECORDS BROKEN BY SIR GUY MAC

Circuit Veteran Dominates Salem Opening.

Salem, N. H., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The veteran Sir Guy Mac, owned by Mrs. C. F. Adams of Framingham, Mass., broke three records today while winning the Classified trot, fourth event on the opening Grand Circuit program.

The chestnut son of McGregor the Great was first in each of the three heats. He ran the first in 2:04¼, leaving the favorites, Maid McElwyn and Invader, far back. His time bettered his own record by a second and set new trotting marks for the track and the state.

Walter Cox, making his first start of the season, drove the Good Time stable's King Ben, a black 2 year old, to straight victories in the Calumet Farm stake, a trotting event decided in two heats. Cold Cash, entered by a Kansas City stable, won the 2:08 pace, and the 2:20 trot was won handily by Senator Volo, owned by George F. McCarthy of Pueblo, Colo.

HAPPY GAL WINS

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—William Woodward, chairman of the stewards of the Jockey club, saw his colors come in first in the Saratoga handicap and the Flash stakes as the Saratoga meeting opened today, thus gaining a double, which is the first of its kind. The Flash goes back to 1869 and the handicap to 1901, but in all those years no pair of thoroughbreds accomplished what Happy Gal and Faireno brought off today before 10,000 spectators.

Happy Gal is a daughter of Sir Gallahad III and played with her opposition to win the 2 year old stake by a length and a half. Faireno, a son of Chatterton, and believed by many to be the champion 3 year old, was an even more decisive winner of the handicap. At the end of the mile and a quarter he led Joseph E. Widener's Pari Mutuel by three lengths and was going easily.

Rocky News Is Third.

Rocky News from the Audley farm closed gamely to land third, a half length back of Pari Mutuel.

Both Woodward racers ran coupled in the betting with other horses trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons. Happy Gal ran with H. C. Phipps' De Valera, which landed third, and the entry was the choice at 3 to 5. The Wheatley stables' Blenheim, winner of the Brooklyn and Brookdale handicaps, was coupled with Faireno and that entry was backed down to 1 to 2.

While the occurrence today was the first double in history for an owner, the same does not apply to trainers. Fitzsimmons saddled both winners in 1929 when he sent out Mr. Woodward's Gallant Fox to win the Flash, and the Wheatley stable's Diavolo to take the handicap.

Faireno earned $6,350 by his effort as against $4,125 gleaned by Happy Gal. Tommy Malley had the leg up on both winners. The filly was an added starter in the Flash.

Trainer Fitzsimmons made it a triple on the day when he saddled the Wheatley stable's Iseult in the nightcap. Bill Kelsay had the leg up on this filly, also a daughter of Sir Gallhad III., and she came on nicely to win easily. Notebook, also bearing the Wheatley stable colors, closed strongly to just miss second. She was third, back of the Greentree stables' Teaberry, which was beaten by two lengths. Iseult was the fifth favorite to win.

Faireno Starts Chatter.

Faireno's race caused comment among observers, as he is a 3 year old and was conceding weight to everything in the race. He finished in 2:04 3-5 with plenty of speed in reserve and under 114 pounds. Back of him the others were driving and they could not get even close.

The race was won in a measure at the start when Malley got Faireno away so well that he was a couple of lengths in front going around the clubhouse turn.

Owners Forget $276,000 at Arlington

The horsemen who raced their steeds at Arlington Park's rich meeting and who were able to win purses can't be so hard up for ready cash.

Fred Crafton, from the Arlington auditing department, appeared at Hawthorne yesterday with checks totaling $276,000. He was looking for the owners who forgot to collect their purses when the Arlington season closed.

The three owners with the most stake and purse money coming to them who forgot to collect before shipping away from Arlington were M. L. Schwartz, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, and W. R. Coe. Schwartz, who owns Gusto, has $81,050 coming which the Arlington officials are trying to place in his hands. Whitney's check total $71,790. Audley farm, S. W. Labrot, G. W. Ogle, Shandon farm, Mrs. John Hay Whitney, and George D. Widener also forgot to collect money before shipping from Arlington.

If Equipoise comes back from Saratoga to run in the Hawthorne handicap Saturday he will have to carry 131 pounds in the mile and a furlong combat. That was the weight Secretary Joe McLennan assigned him.

Favorite players get off to a good start at Hawthorne yesterday when Fayette Prince, at less than 3 to 1, comes galloping down to win the first race. Opium was second and Northgalis wound up third.

Several baseball games, track and field events and other athletic activities will be held at the annual athletic outing and picnic of the Chicago postoffice recreation committee at the Countryside athletic field, Mundelein, Ill., Sunday afternoon.

Tolan Wins in Olympic Dash; Equals Record

Shortly before McCluskey chased Iso-Hollo to this record, which beats the former Olympic mark of 9:21 4-5, set by Loukola of Finland in 1928, Tom Evenson of Great Britain won the first steeplechase trial in 9:18 8-10 in a performance which also outdid the best former time. No official world's record had been posted for the 3,000 meter jumping race, and Iso-Hollo's feat today may place him in the world's record book.

The Americans' 32 points today were accumulated by 18 in the 100 meters, 8 for the second and fourth places in the hurdles, and 6 in the hammer throw in which Pete Zaremba of United States was third and Grant McDougall fifth. Ville Porhola of Finland had this event in the bag with a throw of 171 feet 6¾ inches until Dr. O'Callaghan entered the ring for his final throw of the day.

Triple Tie in Fencing.

Italy defeated the United States, 11 to 5, in team foils matches of the Olympic fencing tournament and the two went into a triple tie with France for the championship.

It was the first defeat of the tournament for the United States, which has vanquished Argentina and France.

France achieved its second victory by eliminating Denmark from competition, 10 to 6, and won its third in a dramatic near deadlock with Italy. Each had eight bouts, but the judges finally gave France the decision on a single touch.

U. S. Wrestlers Win.

The United States came through with flying colors in the first runoff of first round wrestling matches, Robert Pearce, Cushing, Okla., bantamweight, and Melvin Clodfelter, Enid, Okla., lightweight, scoring cleancut decisions.

O. Kapp of Estonia, Olympic lightweight champion, lost a unanimous verdict to C. Pacome, wiry Frenchman. Kapp was on defense from the outset and will have to win his remaining matches with falls to retain his title.

Because they gained only the verdicts of the two judges and the referee, Pearce and Clodfelter were credited with one "bad mark" each. The Oklahoma bantamweight conquered O. Zombori of Hungary and Clodfelter beat H. Thomas of Canada in 15 minute matches.

"A WILD PITCH," SAYS BABE OF JAVELIN THROW

her own personal javelins and disclosed that the throw that broke the record was an accident that violated all the form, practice, skill and experience that athletes and coaches set such store by. A man who seemed to be her trainer flapped around in a state of great agitation, indignant over some vague offense printed in a Los Angeles paper. He didn't want her to talk. She wanted to. So she talked, of course, while the man who seemed to be her trainer chattered angrily about all he had done to make the Olympic games a success.

He said he was from Chicago. He had labored patiently and long to put this great thing over in a great big successful way and now somebody had written something in a Los Angeles paper that had just taken the heart right out of him. This is another familiar type. Possibly they had spelled his name wrong.

How Her Hand Slipped.

The Babe took a javelin from the pack to demonstrate the accident which had made her a world champion. There was a hand grip of tightly wound cord about five inches long, about half way down the shaft, and the girl took it in her fingers, just so. She had a good enough grip during the first part of her run to the foul line but just as she went into the final hitch, or wiggle, the javelin handle slid out of her grasp and her fingers closed over the naked shaft. She was too close to the line and going too fast to do anything about it now. So she whipped it away, only hoping it wouldn't stick some innocent party on the running track or in the crowd, for two men had been pinned by javelins within the year, and killed.

As she watched apprehensively, the javelin sailed higher than good form desires, but stuck in the turf 143 feet away. The Braumueller girl from Germany, who held the old record, just sat and looked and looked at the javelin that "slee-upped" out of Didrikson's hand.

Reminds You of Grange.

GUS FETZ CARDS 74; WINS MEDAL IN PUBLIC LINKS

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Gus Fetz, the Mid-City star who never took a lesson, apparently is bent on winning his second Midwest Public Links championship at Lincoln park. Gus led a field of 110 players in the fifth annual tournament, sponsored by the Lincoln Park Golf club on its Waveland avenue course, yesterday by shooting a 74, three strokes in front of the rest of his opponents, and thus bringing himself the qualifying medal.

Gus won the title in 1929, and this year finds only the persistent Al Andereggen of Jackson park, the defending champion, out of four former titleholders to oppose him in the match play, which opens this morning.

Woods Shoots 78.

Next to Gus, the best medal score was turned in by Jim Woods Jr., the younger half of the Garfield park father and son combination. Jim came in with a 78, which was followed by a pair of 79's, submitted by George O'Brien of the home club and Jerry Behrstock of Bryn Mawr.

Among others who broke into the match play bracket were Andereggen, who shot the only 79 of the day; Percy Swanberg, the Cog Hill sharpshooter, who had 81; Sterling Dawson, the Lincoln park champion; Frank Ghiselli, recent runner-up in the Garfield park consolation flight for the Cook county open, and the veterans, R. A. Bowker of Kinsman and Roy Quayle of Mid-City.

Survivors Meet Today.

Gus Fetz, Mid-City, [74] vs. Tom Jones, Lincoln Park, [85]; Chuck Schroeder, Jackson Park, [82] vs. M. M. Moren, Jackson Park, [87]; Al Andereggen, Jackson Park, [79] vs. C. A. Wolf, Woodridge, [86]; Frank Ghiselli, Sherwood, [82] vs. M. Noel, unattached, [87]; George O'Brien, Lincoln Park, [78] vs. N. Gustavsen, Lincoln Park [85]; William Fitzgerald, Turkey Creek, [83] vs. H. Pote, Marquette, [87]; C. W Stewart, Lincoln Park, [81] vs. B. T. Reilly, Jackson Park, [86]; A. M. Clary, Lincoln Park, [85] vs. Jack Blumel, Lincoln Park, [87]; James Woods Jr., Garfield Park, [77] vs. T. P. Constant, unattached, [85]; Percy Swanberg, Cog-Hill, [81] vs. R. A. Bowker, Kinsman, [87]; George Blarr, Marquette, [80] vs. Bert Gibson, Mid-City, [86]; Sam Taylor, Lincoln Park, [83] vs. Roy Quayle Mid-City, [87]; Jerry Behrstock, Bryn Mawr, [78] vs. Fred Siebel, unattached, [86]; Sterling Dawson, Lincoln Park, [82] vs. R. M. Crow, Lincoln Park, [87]; Elmer Freed, Silver Lake, [84] vs. Laurie Schutts, Lincoln Park, [87]; C. S. Wolf, Woodbridge, [85] vs. Joe Smiesko, unattached, [87].

Evergreen's team won the caddy championship of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association at Golfmoor yesterday with a total score of 313, twenty-two strokes better than the card turned in by the runner-up, Mid-City, which had 335. Crystal Lawn of Joliet was third with 338, two strokes in front of Oak Hills, which had 340.

Other association members finished in the following order: Golfmoor, 347; Cog-Hill, 360; Northbrook, 360; Twin Eagles, 367; and Pipe O' Peace, 373.

The winning quartet was composed by W. Dixon, 74; E. MacDonald, 77; J. Henek, 86, and J. Lynch, 76. They will compete in the district tournament at the Oak Park Country club Aug. 15.

Bert Herbster of Mid-City won the caddy master's championship with a medal card of 77, after a tie with William McGovern of Oak Hills, who failed to appear for the playoff. Pete Eise of Cog-Hill was next with an 84, followed by Morrie Fitzgerald of Evergreen with 85.

The combination of Jack Daray of White Pines and Tom Frainey of Glen Oak proved too much for the remainder of the field yesterday in the weekly pro-amateur event of the Illinois Professional Golfers' association at the River Forest Country club and the pair walked off with honors with a best ball card of 69.

They were pursued by a trio of 70's submitted by S. Wittek and Laurie Ayton Jr.; Harry Hampton and John White, and Jim Wilson, president of the association, and Charles Renfer.

The best ball card for Daray and Frainey follows:

Par—Out	443	544	354—36
Par—In	434	544	354—36—72
Daray-Frainey—Out	543	454	344—36
Daray-Frainey—In	325	534	353—33—69

Brown Jr., 35—40—75; Joe Swider and Fred Cole, 37—38—75, and Al Eggert and L. H. Reinking, 38—38—76.

Mrs. Rose Marshall of Cog Hill, a consistent annoyer of par at many golf courses the last few years, brushed it again yesterday to win the qualifying medal in the twelfth annual Cook county championship tournament sponsored by the Woman's Jackson Park Golf club. She shot a 41—40—81, three strokes over par at the south side course, to lead two home club experts, Mrs. Claire Darr, who had 84, and Mrs. Rose Long, the club champion, who turned in an 86. Miss Marge Roesslein, a stenographer from Lincoln park who won the title last year, did not appear to defend her title.

DICK TRACY—Won't You Come Into My Parlor?

PARIS, Aug. 1.—Paris is talking of little else today except the extraordinary Davis cup incident and the decision which cost Wilmer Allison his match and the United States the cup itself. Today's post mortems, both in the press and in tennis circles, confirm the feeling, which is almost unanimous as far as Americans are concerned, that the linesman erred in failing to call Jean Borotra's service out at match point.

Allison when asked to comment on the incident today laughingly replied, "The less I say about it the better." Nevertheless, there is not the slightest doubt what he thinks about the matter in view of his certainty at the time that he had won the match. It is worth noting that at least four other doubtful decisions went against Allison, who took them without a murmur, but the final decision was too much even for him.

Praise Allison's Performance.

For Allison's playing during the entire series there is nothing but praise today on all sides. He was the mainstay of the American team, rising, at a time when Ellsworth Vines and Frank Shields were off form, to better tennis than any one dreamed he could play. His greatness, however, need no way detract from Borotra's comeback when called upon to defend the cup. His rally yesterday when trailing two sets to nothing to even the score was as courageous as one could hope to see.

Asked this morning what he thought of the linesman's decision, Borotra said frankly that, while he thought certain other decisions against Allison were incorrect, it really looked to him as if the disputed serve had nicked the line.

Lenglen Sees Partiality.

The French press generally takes the line of least resistance though with some notable exceptions. Suzanne Lenglen, writing for Intransigeant, says: "There were certain doubtful decisions, of which the one above all at Allison's match point undoubtedly favored Borotra."

L'Oeuvre prints in a large headline "France Retains Davis Cup—But." That but is explained in a description of the disputed point which says "the ball Borotra hit fell beyond the service square. Groans came from the spectators, for it fell several inches beyond the line. Allison restrained his joy, at first looking questioningly at the linesman who certainly was going to pronounce 'Out' and give him the match. But the linesman kept silent. He had not seen the ball go out. All those who did, and they were very numerous, must have been victims of an optical illusion."

Guy Daggy Adds Two Birdies to Ace for a 79

Guy O. Daggy, 6139 South Artesian avenue, hung up the first hole in one of his life the other day at Twin Eagles, but wasn't satisfied with that. He found a ball on the way to the 12th tee and proceeded to hole it out, 172 yards away, with his spoon. He added birdies on the 14th and 18th to finish his last nine with a 36, one under par, and an 18 hole card of 79.

Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

The lotus beds which are found in the northern Illinois lake country annually bring out not only a gorgeous crop of flowers but also an interesting batch of stories regarding their origin. Irrespective of the stories, the plant itself is well worth seeing at this time of the year because the blossoms are quite distinctive among the aquatic plants in Chicagoland.

Whenever we visit the Fox lake section of northern Illinois and look at the lotus beds we wish some Indian naturalist had jotted down the number of such beds observed in America about 150 or 200 years ago and then added some notes regarding the dissemination of the plant in various waters. If we had this record on the lotus, present day information on the plant would be fairly complete.

The Lotus Is Nelumbo Lutea.

Briefly, the lotus story can be summed up like this: The American lotus is Nelumbo lutea which is distributed over North America from some points in the eastern states through Ontario to Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and southward to the southern states.

Our lotus is one of the two species in existence. The other is the pink lotus of Asia now introduced in many parks and gardens. We once saw this form in the zoological gardens of Para, Brazil, where it was thriving.

The American lotus is not an Egyption lotus, nor is it extremely rare in the great lakes region. It doesn't grow in every lake or marsh, but in many spots in the Mississippi valley and around the lakes it still covers acres of lowlands.

Lotus Makes Good Eating.

Indians must have had many a good meal from the lotus beds. The nuts which the plant grows are good eating, as are the thick tuberiferous roots which creep along the bottom of the ponds. Thus the practical American Indian proves as expert in culinary arts as the fabled Lotophagi whose diet was the fruit of the lotus and who gave themselves up to ease and enjoyment.

Although we haven't any written evidence to prove that the Indians cultivated lotus beds, we are confident that the savages must have expanded the range of the plant after tasting both the nuts and the roots. It would have been an easy matter for them to have carried lotus nuts and dropped them in lakes or ponds in order to start new colonies of flowers.

In this connection we are reminded of the fact that the root of the yellow pond lily has been used for food by Indian tribes for many centuries. It's a starchy root, quite tasty when boiled or roasted and then ground up as the Indians used to prepare it.

O'Connell Sets Pace in City Tennis Meet

George O'Connell, winner of the public parks tennis tournament, led the advance of the seeded players in the Chicago city championships yesterday. He was successful in two matches and reached the fourth round.

Other tournament favorites, all of whom saw action on the clay courts of the Oak Park Tennis club yesterday, disposed of less experienced opponents and moved into the third bracket.

Jack Harris ran through G. E. Morris, 6-1, 6-0, and later defeated William Dee, 6-2, 6-0.

Clarence Chaffee of Evanston sent Bob Clark, a University of Michigan player, down in defeat, 0-6, 6-0, 6-3. Chaffee's backcourt drives were the deciding factor.

Other results:

In addition to the gold medals, silver and bronze medals are the prizes for those who finish second and third in each of the ten divisions. For the club swimmers a gold cup will be awarded to the organization which scores the most points.

Sports will play a big part in the Cook County fair which opens Friday at North avenue and River road.

A dog show with some of the finest pedigreed dogs in the country entered will feature the last two days of the fair, Aug. 13 and 14. The dog show is being conducted by Dr. J. M. Kaiser, president of the Cook County Kennel club.

MAGNER, CHICAGO JOCKEY HURT IN CRASH, IMPROVES

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Walter Magner, wealthy jockey, who was severely injured in an automobile crash, was reported tonight to be improving at a hospital here.

Hurst Beaned; Headache His One Complaint

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Hit on the head by a pitched ball, Don Hurst, star first baseman of the Phillies and leading hitter in the National league, tonight complained only of a severe headache after he had been removed to a hospital. He was beaned by Glenn Spencer in the fifth inning of today's game with Pittsburgh.

Though not believed seriously hurt despite the headache, he was ordered out of tomorrow's last of the series games with the Pirates so that an X-ray examination of his skull might be made. The fact that Hurst underwent a sinus operation recently made a careful examination advisable, physicians said.

KID CHOCOLATE DEMONSTRATES HIS TITLE STYLE

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Kid Chocolate, the world's junior lightweight champion, who meets Eddie Shea at the Stadium Thursday night, worked out yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium against two former Golden Gloves champions. He will complete his ring preparations this afternoon and then, like his opponent, who is drilling at the Arcade gymnasium, will wait the call to action.

Nick Scialaba, who won the 1931 inter-city featherweight title and then won from the champion of France in the first international Golden Gloves bouts at Soldiers' field, was one of Chocolate's spar mates yesterday. The other was Paul Dazzo, who competed in Golden Gloves several years ago. Judging from his speed and sharp punching, the Cuban Kid will take the decision from Shea, if he does not win by a knockout.

The Kid Is Good.

That Chocolate is a great fighter none can deny. He holds the 130 pound title, won more than a year ago by knocking out Benny Bass. He can make the 126 pound featherweight limit, which labels him as a contender for that title if a match can be arranged, and, while he lost a championship bout to Tony Canzoneri for the lightweight crown, those who saw the fight believed Chocolate equally as good as the New York Italian.

This is the first time Chocolate has met a first rate opponent in Chicago. For that matter, it is his first fight of importance in the central states since Manager Guiterrez has had the Kid performing almost exclusively in New York.

Clinnin to Present Belt.

The Stadium yesterday sent the National Boxing association a check to cover the expense of the official junior lightweight championship belt. This trophy, although won by Chocolate a year ago, will be presented Thursday night by Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the N. B. A., before the fight.

The delay in presentation was occasioned by the fact that Chocolate won his title in Pennsylvania, whose commission is not affiliated with the national organization. This is the first time Chocolate has defended his title in N. B. A. territory. Consequently, if Shea licks him, the Kid will have had his belt less than an hour.

Angel Cliville, another West Indian (he comes from Porto Rico) will meet Willie Oster in the supporting card Thursday night. Both are wild swingers, possessing knockout punches, so the bout is expected to contain a full share of thrills.

Miller Meets Wiseman.

Freddie Miller, regarded as a contender for the featherweight title, will meet Hymie Wiseman of Des Moines, Ia. Wiseman has appeared at the Stadium several times and is highly regarded by the regular clientele of the west side arena.

Sammy Slaughter, Bud Taylor's Negro star from Terre Haute, Ind., whose greatest achievement is a decision over Dave Shade, will battle Paul Pirrone of Cleveland.

Immediately after the show Chocolate and his handlers will leave for New York to watch the lightweight title encounter between Tony Canzoneri and Billy Petrolle Monday. Then they go to Cincinnati, O., where the Kid meets Johnny Farr, Aug. 10. After the Farr match Chocolate will go into training for his third 15 round match with Jack [Kid] Berg at New York, Aug. 22. The Kid lost two hairline decisions to Berg.

Prince Saunders, Chicago lightweight, has signed to meet Lou Paluso of Salt Lake City, Utah, in the semi-final to the Tony Canzoneri-Billy Petrolle title match at New York Monday. . . . Harry Wills, former Negro heavyweight challenger, will attempt a comeback at New York next Tuesday. . . . Floyd Fitzsimmons and Scotty Monteith, Detroit promoters, and Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker, are bidding for Primo Carnera and Charley Retzlaff for a bout late this month. . . . Franta Nekolny, European welterweight titleholder, will return to America in September.

Cleveland, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Rube Walberg bested Wes Ferrell in a pitching duel that was not decided until the ninth inning today as Philadelphia made it three straight over Cleveland, 1 to 0.

The Athletics' southpaw, pitching the second shutout the Indians have suffered in as many days, yielded only four hits. Ferrell allowed only two safeties until the ninth, when the Macks grouped three singles for the only run of the contest. Cochrane, Foxx and McNair supplied the punch that sent the Athletic catcher home. Score:

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The Yanks made it three straight over the Tigers today by winning, 6 to 3. Gehrig drove in half of the victors' runs, with a triple and a single.

Babe Ruth was given four straight passes, after being called out on strikes in the first inning. Score:

HENRY FRIEND, MERCHANT, DIES SUDDENLY AT SEA

Succumbs on Ship Which Carries Cermak.

Henry Friend, 70 years old, retired pioneer State street merchant, died suddenly yesterday on board the steamship Bremen, one day out of Bremerhaven, its home port. Mr. Friend was a friend of Mayor Cermak, who is on the same ship.

Messages sent to David Komiss, loop merchant and brother-in-law of Mr. Friend, told of his death which Mr. Komiss said was caused by acute indigestion. With Mr. Friend at his death was Harry Blum, Michigan avenue store owner, and Dr. Frank J. Jirka of Chicago, son-in-law of the mayor. Mr. Komiss said Mr. Friend had been ailing slightly and had planned to take the cure at Carlsbad.

A Rumanian Immigrant.

Mr. Friend was well known to shoppers for thirty years prior to his retirement two years ago. Born in Rumania, he came to America when he was 15 years old and worked as a laborer in Syracuse, N. Y., before coming to Chicago. In the early '90s, he helped organize the old Columbus department store. Next he started a shoe store, and shortly afterward opened a store devoted exclusively to feminine wear. He was said to be the first owner of a specialty store in State street.

For years Mr. Friend operated the store known as H. Friend & Sons at 37 South State street. He sold out his interests two years ago and retired from active business at that time, although he established his son, Milton, in business in Logan square.

Three Children Survive.

Surviving Mr. Friend are his widow, Mrs. Emma Komiss Friend, and three children, Mrs. Charles Levy, Mrs. Ethel Pacyna, and Milton Friend. Mrs. Friend is now living with Mrs. Levy at the Belden-Stratford hotel. Five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also survive. Among the grandchildren are Mrs. Violet Pacyna Annenberg, wife of Ivan Annenberg, whose father is Max Annenberg, newspaper executive.

Mr. Friend was a member of the Covenant club and the Bryn Mawr Country club, and a member and director of Temple Sholom. The body will be brought back to America on the Bremen, arriving Aug. 11. Funeral services will be held in Chicago a few days later.

SENATOR DAVIS' BROTHER DIES AT AGE OF 53

Samuel Davis, 53 years old, brother of Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, and postmaster at Mooseheart, Ill., died yesterday in an Aurora hospital. Senator Davis had chartered a plane in Washington to fly to his brother's bedside, but canceled the flight when he was informed of the death as he was about to take off.

Two Loan Offices Robbed by Three Within Hour

The same three bandits are believed to have held up two loan company offices within an hour yesterday on the northwest side. They took $325 from the Lincoln Loan company, 1931 Milwaukee avenue, and $60 from the Division Finance company, 2445 Division street, and $70 from Samuel Berger, who has his office in the latter building.

J. R. QUIRK, PUBLISHER OF FILM MAGAZINE, DIES AT HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 1.—(AP)—James R. Quirk, 43, who started his writing career as a reporter on a Boston newspaper and later saw his motion picture magazine grow from a little known publication into a medium read by more than a half million film fans, died today of pneumonia.

Quirk, publisher of the Photoplay magazine, contracted a severe cold during a tour of northern California. He was stricken with a heart attack which weakened him. As surgeons prepared to operate upon him for a stomach disorder, the publisher died.

Quirk married Miss May Allison, film actress, in Santa Barbara Nov. 15, 1926. He had been married before and is survived by two daughters of the previous marriage who are in the east. Miss Allison was at the bedside.

Quirk traveled between New York and his Hollywood home several times each year to attend to business.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED.

WORK RUSHED ON COUNTY FAIR; OPENS FRIDAY

Annual Show Has a New Home.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Cook county is to have a "county fair" with all the horse races, pumpkins and quilts that go with this historic agrarian institution.

A. C. THOMPSON.

Last minute efforts are under way today to have it ready for opening in a new location at North avenue and River road in Proviso township next Friday, and according to A. C. Thompson, general manager of the fair, it will be a show befitting the largest agricultural county in the state. The ten day fair ends Aug. 14.

While the county fair is an old institution in Cook county, its former location having been near Palatine, the entire management and type of exhibitions have been changed. A new half mile race track, stables, grand stand and exhibition quarters are being completed to house this annual show. And city folk will share with country folk in the competitive classes for which $100,000 in prize money has been offered.

Many Contests Promised.

Of modern note in the premium lists are the events for musical talent, the classes for art and the floriculture events. A dog show, a competition to select the prettiest girl to be named "Miss Cook County" and two days set aside for the two political parties are other special attractions planned by the management.

From well known horse stables in the county will come some of the best trotting horses in the middle west to defend honors against those being shipped from considerable distances. This program, in charge of M. E. Bacon, will offer 26 harness classes for purses totaling $8,600.

Of course there will be the usual showing of well groomed cattle, the pens of pigs and sheep, and the large tables filled with farm wives' cakes, pies, knitting, and jellies. The school children will compete for prizes on their vegetables and classroom work. As in all good county fairs of former years, also, a "midway" with its amusements will be there.

Gardens to Be Displayed.

One of the new features that will be viewed by fair visitors this year is the display of flower gardens and landscaping which has been arranged by John A. Servas, designer of the annual spring garden club shows in Chicago. Many of these gardens will skirt the entrance to the grounds.

Transportation facilities to the fair are being provided each afternoon and evening. Buses will meet North avenue and Lake street surface lines and the Fifth avenue elevated trains in Maywood.

Family Revives Lawyer Overcome by Gas Fumes

Attorney William C. Wermuth, 44 years old, was recovering yesterday after being overcome early in the morning when he went to look for a gas leak in the basement of his home at 1139 Farwell avenue. Awakened by the barking of her chow dog, the attorney's wife, Phyllis, went to the basement and found Wermuth unconscious. She opened the basement windows and, with the aid of her four sons, revived him by means of artificial respiration.

AUTO FATALITIES IN COUNTY SHOW INCREASE OF 17%

A total of 673 persons lost their lives in automobile accidents in Cook county during the first seven months of this year. This is an increase of 17 per cent over the fatalities recorded during the same period in 1931, when 665 deaths occurred.

The one fatality in Cook county yesterday was that of Peter J. Ranella, 26 years old, 3421 West 36th street, Cicero. He died at the county hospital from hurts incurred in a crash on May 21.

E. Drukeom, 8110 Essex avenue, was killed in an automobile collision on a highway 10 miles south of Hammond, Ind.

Mrs. Katherine Shamet, 28 years old, 1410 South 29th street, Cicero, died as a result of a broken neck at Crystal Lake, Ill., a few hours after the car in which she was a passenger collided head-on with another machine on the highway.

William Hulbary, 38 years old, 1016 Greenwood avenue, Maywood, and Thomas Read Jr., 7 years old, 327 Watres place, Elgin, died at a hospital there from burns suffered when the gasoline tank on their automobile exploded on Sunday.

KITTIE BUTZOW, BANKER'S WIDOW, DIES AT AGE 63

Mrs. Kittie Eno Butzow, widow of the late Frank F. Butzow, Iroquois county banker, died yesterday morning at the Englewood hospital following an attack of heart disease. Mrs. Butzow was 63 years old. She lived at 6429 Ingleside avenue.

Mrs. Butzow was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and of the Daughters of 1812. She was born in Watseka, Ill., Jan. 14, 1869. She is survived by a daughter, Kathryn, and two sons, Frank and Ernest Butzow.

Following brief funeral services at the Lain chapel, 63d street and Harvard avenue at 8 o'clock tonight, the body will be taken to Loda, Ill., for funeral services and burial.

Robert Norman Collyer, Trunk Line Official, Dies

TOMMY MALIE, LYRIC WRITER, DIES PENNILESS

A Prohibition Tragedy, His Friends Say.

Tommy Malie, armless composer of lyrics for popular song hits, died penniless yesterday in the county hospital, a victim of prohibition booze. He was 35 years old. Physicians said that a combination of alcoholism, pneumonia, and kidney infection caused his death.

Malie made more than $100,000 on his songs, but spent it all in cabarets and speakeasies, friends said. Among the better known songs for which he wrote the lyrics are "Looking at the World Through Rose Colored Glasses," "Jealous," "Highways Are Happy Ways," "Every Little Smile Is Like an Umbrella," and "Stars Are the Windows of Heaven."

May Lie in Potter's Field.

He reached the height of his career some five years ago. For the last three years he had been lodging in the rooming house district on the near north side. The body was taken to the county morgue. Unless it is claimed by friends, officials said, it will be buried in a pauper's grave.

Malie lost both arms when he was run over by a train at the age of 2 years. He overcame the handicap to become one of the best known popular song writers in Chicago.

Comeback Effort Fails.

A few months ago several of Malie's former co-workers, headed by Erwin Barg and Milton Weil, financed him in an attempted comeback. Malie was fed, clothed, and sent to a sanitarium to rest.

He stayed several days in the sanitarium and then returned to the city to resume his former habits. Malie was admitted to the county hospital in a semi-conscious condition on July 27.

Malie was known to radio listeners seven or eight years ago when he sang from a number of Chicago stations. He teamed with "Little Jack" Little in a song act during part of his radio career. Malie also performed at the Oriental theater when Paul Ash was master of ceremonies there.

SMALL ESTATE LEFT BY SLAIN REALTY DEALER

The late Ulysses G. Hinman, who was shot and killed on June 22 in his office at 192 North Clark street by a disgruntled tenant of a building for which he was receiver, left an estate of $1,000. This was learned yesterday when his will was filed and approved by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner.

Under the will the entire estate was left to Mrs. Anna L. Hinman, 1151 Greenleaf avenue, the widow. A daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth L. Pascoe of the same address, was not mentioned. Mrs. Hinman told the assistant judge that her husband's estate had totaled $50,000 when the will was executed in 1922.

Hinman as the head of the real estate concern, U. J. Hinman & associates, had been appointed receiver for the building in which he had his offices. On the afternoon of his death he was visited by David Edell, a restaurant owner in the building, who owed several months' rent. The two men quarreled, presumably over Edell's debt. Edell drew a pistol, killed Hinman and then committed suicide.

John Niele, 73 years old, died yesterday of heart disease in his home at 147th street and Cleveland avenue, Midlothian. He is survived by his widow, Margaret, four sons, four daughters, eight grand children and six great grandchildren.

ALCOHOLISM DEATHS DECREASE IN FIRST 5 MONTHS OF 1932

Deaths from alcoholism in Chicago were fewer during the first five months of this year than they were during the corresponding period in 1931, President Bundesen of the board of health said yesterday. The classification includes all mortality directly traceable to the use of intoxicating liquor.

DR. BUNDESEN.

There were 24 such deaths up to June 1 during 1932. Last year the first five months showed a mortality of 31. Separate statistics are not available on deaths traceable to poison booze.

Analyses made by the health department show, however, that of 356 samples seized during 1931 by the police in raids, 90.17 per cent were classed at potable beverage. This was a lower rate of potability than in 1930, when police evidence showed a potability of 95.22 per cent, the highest of the prohibition era.

Out of 15 samples of alcohol seized in police raids last year, only four were classed at good.

Police seized 54 samples of whisky, and health department chemists reported that only two samples were genuine. Of the remainder, 20 specimens showed traces of larger quantities of poisonous substances, while 22, although not genuine, were potable.

Wine received the best rating from the chemists. Of 27 samples submitted by police, all were potable.

The largest number of seizures were of beer, of which 260 samples were taken. Only four of these were found to be needled or spiked with alcohol, and the remainder of the beer, consisting of home brew or illicit brewery beer, was rated by the chemists as potable.

READY TO OFFER $18,000,000 EDISON BONDS

New Audit's Results Made Public.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A syndicate of the leading Chicago and New York banks has exercised its option to purchase $18,000,000 of bonds of the Commonwealth Edison company and will offer those securities to the public today or tomorrow.

A certified pro forma balance sheet giving effect to the sale of the bonds and the negotiation of a $2,000,000 bank loan was made public yesterday. In addition a summary of consolidated earnings of the company for the last five years, together with a summary of surplus account for the 15 months ended March 31, 1932, was issued. The reports are certified by Arthur Andersen & Co. and Arthur Young & Co., accountants.

Full Statement Made.

Every fact concerning the financial standing of the company is made public in these reports, according to a statement by James Simpson, who succeeded Samuel Insull as chairman of the board of directors.

"This financing," Mr. Simpson's statement said, "marks the inauguration of a new era in utility financing, in which nothing is hidden from the public and no reservations of fact are made. Everything available is given the public for their guidance in estimating the situations of these companies and to enable them to make purchases while knowing the true situation."

The summary of the surplus account for the fifteen months ended March 31, 1932, shows a reduction of $46,530,004 as compared with Dec. 31, 1930. The balance of surplus on March 31 was $6,946,455. This write-down is in line with earlier published estimates.

New Reserve Created.

The largest surplus deduction is represented by an investment reserve of $30,000,000 created by directors. Investments in subsidiary and affiliated companies and advances to them are now carried at $87,067,094, as compared with $117,067,094 at the close of 1931.

The balance of the surplus reduction is accounted for by the following write-offs: $9,047,010 for losses in connection with transactions in the company's reacquired stock; $849,463 for losses on company's stock loaned to affiliates; $338,323 investment and advances to nonutility companies in receivership. In addition reserves of $10,370,133 were set aside for losses on the employes' investent fund, the pension and insurance funds and on advances and loans of stock to employes and individuals connected with affiliated concerns.

The investment portfolio as of March 31 includes advances of $2,011,036 subsequently made to the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, with which the Commonwealth Edison company has close affiliations.

Because the investment portfolio consists mainly of permanent investments it has not been the policy to make adjustments with fluctuations in market values, according to the report furnished by the company. Directors, however, made such an adjustment March 31 through the creation of a reserve of $30,000,000.

Explains Valuation Methods.

In this connection the statement says: "If a valuation were made on the basis of taking investments at values comparable with market prices for similar investments [which basis is not customarily used in valuing permanent investments], but disregarding any special value of the major part of the investments to Commonwealth Edison company as operating company, the resulting amount would be materially lower than such net book value of $87,067,094."

The present bond issue, series G, carries a coupon of 5½ per cent. The offering price has not yet been made public. Other series of the same bonds sold in the past by the company are currently selling to yield from 5½ to 5¾ per cent.

The group offering the bonds is headed by a Chicago bank, the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, as syndicate manager, through its affiliate, the Continental Illinois company. The Guaranty Company of New York will act as syndicate manager in the east. Other members of the syndicate are the First Union Trust and Savings bank, Harris Trust and Savings bank, Chase Harris Forbes corporation, Bankers Trust company, Northern Trust company, and Field, Glore & Co.

Bankers pointed out that new safeguards are provided for investors in the supplemental indenture to the mortgage under which the bonds are issued. The indenture provides in general that additional bonds against the present properties be limited to $20,000,000 over the present issue.

Plans for New Bonds.

It is also provided that bonds against new properties may be issued in amounts not exceeding 75 per cent of the cost of the properties and only if the company's earnings are double the interest charges on bonds outstanding and those proposed to be issued.

The supplemental indenture also provides for a maintenance and renewal fund of not less than 12½ per cent of the gross earnings to be used for three purposes: maintenance and repairs, for property additions, which may not be used as the basis for new bonds, and for the redemption and cancellation of bonds issued under the mortgage.

A feature of the offering is the agreement by the company to provide approximately half a million dollars a year for purchase of the bonds in the market when they are available at par or less. The company agrees to create a market fund up to 2½ per cent each year, of the maximum amount of the bonds for purchase of the bonds.

Better Housing Urged as Spur for Business

BY SCRUTATOR.

"What this country really needs to bring on another era of prosperity is some new invention that will create a broad enough popular demand to start a new industry," a friend of mine said the other day. "Look what the automobile and the radio did, and before them the electric light and the telephone."

While waiting for the scientists and inventors to devise new things, why not consider how the things we already have can be improved? After all, the progress of civilization is largely constant improvement in living conditions.

Hunt for Improvements.

It has seemed to the writer that Americans have made less progress in housing and have been contented with less satisfactory conditions than in any other adjunct of living. True, there has been broad progress in architecture, in methods of construction, and in building appliances. However, the slums of cities with their old and dilapidated buildings and the meager and well-nigh obsolete housing in rural sections suggest there is vast room for improvement.

Perhaps this results from the fact that building costs have not kept pace with the downward trend of other things. Perhaps the average American needs to be brought to want a home comparable with his automobile, his office or plant, or his farm machinery.

What Data Show.

Along this line of thought some random data and analyses are interesting. According to statistics gathered by the Building Market News there were 24,157,300 dwellings throughout the United States in 1930. Surely, these buildings offer a vast field for remodeling and replacement.

Again, a recent issue of Fortune tells of a company formed to utilize mass production factory methods in the construction of homes similar to those employed in the automotive industry.

"They will be pressed steel homes in various models," it continues. "The price, it is understood, will be kept below $3,500, erected and fully equipped. They will compare favorably with the present day residence of comparable size and quality costing $7,000."

The National Association of Building Trade Employers calls attention to several campaigns to improve city housing.

"In Illinois there are nearly a dozen of the smaller cities conducting a very successful modernizing campaign," it says. "The business men generally are supporting the movement and contributing to newspaper advertising to push it over.

For Better Housing.

"Decent housing for residents of slums and also for families with incomes of $1,000 to $2,500 annually is a problem that the usual mortgage money interests have not been sold on to date. Millions of families are now in this group. The recent housing conferences held in New York brought out details of plans for slum clearance projects that would net an investor a safe 5 per cent. After late experiences on risky 10 and 20 per cent investments it is hoped that money will be attracted to this most needed social uplift movement."

But the need for lower building costs is emphasized in other paragraphs.

"While wage rates for building tradesmen have been reduced in most all of our large American cities," it is said, "the skeptic public does not seem to respond very quickly to reduction in labor costs on construction. Perhaps it is because they keep their eyes on the prices of commodities. Apparently the building public is still on strike and will not do any amount of construction work until lower costs are assured."

BRIGHT SPOTS IN DAY'S BUSINESS NEWS

At Camden, N. J., after a month's shutdown for repairs, the Campbell Soup company re-opened its three Camden plants and recalled to work nearly 1,300 men and women who were laid off on June 30. Within the next week or two, depending on the development of the tomato crop, the company's force will be increased probably to 3,500.

The Continental Can company, which has been running with a small crew, hired 75 additional workers and may increase the number to 200 next week for the duration of the canning season.

Standard Brands has started on a substantial expansion program at its plant at Peekskill, N. Y., including the construction of twelve huge copper fermenters to replace the thirty-two smaller units now in use of considerably less total capacity. The work will require about 500,000 pounds of copper and will take about a year to complete. The company also announces the purchase of a six story building in Chicago, opposite McKinley park, which will be equipped with new machinery for roasting and distributing Chase & Sanborn coffee.

At Chambersburg, Pa.—Two hundred persons returned to work when the Blue Ridge Woolen mills, idle for two months, resumed operations on full schedule.

At Coldwater, Mich.—Heads of the Romer Furnace company here, largest employer of men in Branch county, announced sufficient orders on hand to warrant six days per week work and three night per week all night shifts. At the Shaw Shoe Manufacturing company plans are being made to take care of orders which promise almost to double the present pay roll.

At Hattiesburg, Miss. — Full time operations were resumed by the Tatum Lumber company, which employs about 250 men in its saw mill and many more in its logging camps. Recently the mill had been operating on part time.

ATTACK HIGHER SWITCHING RATE IN THIS REGION

Big Industries Make Protest to I. C. C.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Sixty of the most important shippers in the Chicago district yesterday filed with the interstate commerce commission in Washington their formal objections to the higher rates recently imposed on interstate traffic in the Chicago switching district. They also opposed the proposed raising of intrastate switching rates to the level of interstate rates.

The complainants include Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Inland Steel company, Interlake Iron corporation, Acme Steel company, Morton Salt company, Illinois Brick company, Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, International Paper company, South Chicago Coal and Dock company, and the Consumers company.

The briefs were filed by H. F. Mueller, John S. Burchmore, Luther M. Walter, and Nuel D. Belnap, attorneys for the shippers.

Call Present Rates High.

Switching rates in the Chicago district, the shippers declare, are now higher than comparable rates in other big shipping centers. They contend that the recent increases authorized by the interstate commerce commission were based on a now out of date survey made in 1927 and, furthermore, that the high rates divert a vast amount of business from the railroads and force even unwilling shippers to resort to less convenient substitute forms of transportation to the disadvantage of both shipper and railroad.

"It is important to note," declare the complainants, "that the rates here complained of and which have been in operation since Dec. 10, 1931, represent an increase in rates theretofore in effect of 20 per cent for one line, 40 per cent for two line, and 33 1-3 per cent for three or more line hauls.

"At the time the record closed before the commission in 1928 practically all of the business between points within the Chicago switching district moved all-rail.

Cite Traffic Changes.

"For example, in 1926 23,137 cars of crushed stone moved by rail in the Chicago switching district. At the present time there is practically no movement of crushed stone within the district by rail. In the last two years practically all of the stone has moved by truck. The stone in its entirety for the viaduct in the 16th street grade separation, amounting to 56,000 tons, was transported by truck."

The brief calls attention to the two large construction jobs under way in Chicago at present, the postoffice building and the Field building, pointing out that the postoffice is being built immediately above railroad tracks and that the Field building is only a few blocks from railroad trucks.

Railways Lose Business.

"Hundreds of carloads of material are going into these buildings," it states, "but none of it is handled by rail. The present rates are prohibitive and the attitude of the rail carriers is that they will not seek any business in the Chicago switching district on rates lower than those fixed by this commission as reasonable."

What has happened in the stone and gravel business is happening in other industries, the shippers declare. Their record shows, for example, that the Standard Oil company already has begun the use of trucks but is withholding making further arrangements until the termination of the pending proceedings.

"That company, like many others," says the brief, "desires to use rail transportation, even though it be somewhat more expensive. It is loath to incur investment in tank trucks until it knows what the rail rates finally will be. If the rail rates are to be reduced to their former level then the rail carriers will be used. If the present level of interstate rates is to continue, or to be extended to intrastate business, then the entire volume of movement will go to trucks."

Cite Market Decreases.

The shippers also call attention to the great decline in the value of many of the articles transported and the consequent inability of industries to pay higher freight charges.

The complainants call attention to the lower rates charged in switching

Two Standard Oil Companies Pay Dividends

Regular quarterly dividends were declared yesterday by the boards of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. In the case of the former company a dividend of 25 cents was declared, while the New Jersey Standard in addition to the regular 25 cents declared an extra of 25 cents. The dividends are payable Sept. 15 to stockholders of record Aug. 16.

The United States Envelope company took no action on the dividend on the common stock due at this time. The company six months ago paid $2, prior to which time the stock was on an annual basis of $8. However, the company paid the regular semi-annual dividend of $3.50 on the preferred stock, payable Sept. 1 to stock of record Aug. 15.

The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 was declared on the preferred stock of the A. O. Smith corporation of Milwaukee. The dividend is payable Aug. 15 to stock of record Aug. 1.

Westvaco Chlorine Products corporation has omitted its quarterly dividend on the common stock due at this time. A dividend of 25 cents was paid three months ago.

Representative Trust Shares announced yesterday that it was paying a semi-annual dividend of 22.62 cents covering accumulations since Jan. 31.

The decrease in dividend payments by corporations in July continued to reflect the decline in earnings. Payments to stockholders by 710 corporations during the month totaled $134,577,492, compared with $229,390,702 paid by 1,091 corporations in July, 1931, according to a compilation made yesterday.

Of the number of corporations which declared dividends last month, 161 reduced disbursements from the previous quarterly or semi-annual declaration, against 92 cuts made in July a year ago.

On the other hand, extra dividends were declared by 11 companies in July.

Sues Consumers Company Asks Receiver, Accounting

The Consumers company, members of its finance committee, and five concerns which formed a syndicate to purchase 1,100,000 shares of common stock of the company at $5 a share, were named defendants yesterday in a suit filed in the Circuit court.

The complainant is Emanuel Weigselbaum, holder of $38,000 in stock. He asks that a receiver be appointed for the Consumers company, that an accounting of its assets be made, that its officers be restrained from further participation in the management of its affairs.

New Directors Already Chosen.

The bill also asked that the finance committee, consisting of Stuyvesant Peabody, C. S. Ellis, C. D. Caldwell, and George F. Getz, be restrained from calling a meeting for the election of a new board of directors. The election, however, took place early yesterday morning. The bill was not filed until the clerk's office was closing at 5 o'clock.

Charging that the Insull companies in the syndicate have been promised a release from financial obligation in the stock subscription, the bill alleges that the new board of directors were to be chosen so that the other members of the syndicate group may be released.

The bill asserts that was to be done on the advice of counsel, who had held the board members could not release the subscribers, "because of their direct financial interest in, and connection with the subscribers of the stock, as well as their connection with the Consumers company as officers and directors."

When informed of the suit last evening, George C. Hager, vice president and secretary of the Consumers company, said: "I am not in the least apprehensive. This action is in the nature of a disgruntled stockholders' bill."

The six elected as new directors were Sheldon Clark, vice president of the Sinclair Oil company; Joseph F. Connery, manager of several estates; D. B. Fulton, manager of the Levi Z. Leiter estate; A. F. Gartz Jr., vice president of the Crane company; E. C. Kohlsaat, an attorney, and John W. O'Leary, vice president of the board of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company.

Would End Syndicate.

It is expected that one of the first actions of the expanded board will be to act on a proposal to release members of the syndicate and, in lieu of such subscription, to raise the needed capital by a mortgage on property of the company in the Indiana dune country. The Insull companies that were to have taken a large part of the stock in question were prevented from doing so by their financial troubles.

The directors elected yesterday filled five vacancies, including two caused by the deaths of William Wrigley Jr., and Bernard A. Eckhart. The others were caused by the resignations of Frank G. Logan, capitalist; D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair, and Patrick H. Joyce, president of the Chicago Great Western.

STOCKS CLIMB IN WALL STREET; PACE IS SLOWER

Profit Taking Near Close Cuts Gains.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—Again dominated by the bulls, the stock market continued on what may or may not be the long climb back today, but some of last week's steam was lost by way of the profit taking valve. Gains were in a comfortable majority at the close, but they were rarely more than a point. Scattering setbacks, running to more than two among the railroads, prevented the picture from being all of a bright hue, as was the close generally last week.

After little more than holding its own in the face of considerable realizing in the early part of the day, the market lumbered into a rally shortly after lunch time. From then on the rise was in progress. Continued offerings by speculators for a turn were

JULY BUILDING FIGURES SHOW GAIN OVER JUNE

Comparison with 1931 Is Not So Cheering.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago's July construction figures, made public yesterday by John Ericsson, building commissioner, showed an increase over those of the month preceding. There were forty-six building permits issued at the city hall during July, calling for an expenditure of $316,075. In June of this year the number was thirty-two and the total value $186,800. This is an increase of fourteen in number of permits and a total of $129,275. While these figures are not startling in size, they at least indicate a trend in the right direction.

JOHN E. ERICSSON.

Now if only we could calmly change the subject and talk about the weather, but we've got to go on and finish the conversation we started. Comparisons between July of this year and July of 1931 are distinctly nothing to smile over, for that month last year had ninety-two permits, with a total of $1,658,600.

Seven Months' Total Lower.

Comparisons between the first seven months of 1932 and the same period of 1931 are spectacularly saddening. The figures so far this year, up to Aug. 1, were 251 permits, totaling $2,308,575. Last year they were 910 permits, with a total of $37,222,800. This isn't quite so bad as it seems, however, for the permit for the $14,000,000 Field building was taken out last year and a few other unusually large ones.

There were twenty-two residential permits taken out during July, 1932. Of these twenty-one were for houses and one for a one apartment unit, presumably over a store. This was an increase over June which had ten houses and five apartment units issued. Since the first of the year there have been 161 residential units issued.

Sells Kenwood Building.

Henning Bood has sold the two story building at the southeast corner of East 47th street and Greenwood avenue, lot 106x79, to Ruth Lewis of Benton, Ill. There was only one revenue stamp on the deed, indicating $1,000 paid for the equity. The property was purchased subject to an incumbrance. The building contains six stores and ten offices. Mr. Bood is a painter at 2304 East 75th street.

The 99 year lease on the property at the northeast corner of 53d and the I. C. right of way, between Thomas C. Worden, lessor, and the Cooper-Carlton Garage company, lessee, has been cancelled, according to the county records. The lease began on Jan. 1, 1927, and called for $10,000 annual rental. O. B. Jones is president of the lessee concern.

CONSOLIDATED GAS, N. Y., NET SHRINKS FOR SECOND QUARTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—Reduced by seasonal influences and the further curtailment in general industrial consumption, net income of the Consolidated Gas company of New York fell slightly below the regular dividend requirements for the period during the second quarter of the year. For the first half year and the twelve months ended June 30, however, earnings were in excess of such requirements.

Net income for the June quarter totaled $13,748,557 after charges and taxes, equivalent after preferred dividends to 94 cents a share on the common stock, against $16,191,165, or $1.15 a share, on the common for the like 1931 period. For the first quarter of this year net income amounted to $22,493,506.

For the first half year, net income of the company aggregated $36,242,064, equal to $2.65 a share on the common, against $41,441,980, or $3.10 a share, for the corresponding period of last year.

Net income for the twelve months ended June 30 last totaled $62,974,006, equal to $4.47 a share on the common, against $70,392,162, or $5.11 a share, for the preceding year. The company is paying regular common dividends of $4 a share a year.

The offering of $30,000,000 of Consolidated Gas 5 per cent debenture bonds have all been sold and the syndicate has been closed.

readily absorbed and all recessions, however small, brought out an increased demand. Those shares which failed to end the session in the gains column merely lacked the activity to recoup from morning softness.

Profit Taking Develops.

With the closing bell a half hour away the market showed the first signs of ennui since the advance got under way about a fortnight ago. A run of profit taking such as developed in the morning returned in the final half hour and shaded values all along the line from the day's highs.

The market was somewhat of an industrial affair, interspersed with erratic performances by special issues supposed to be under pool direction. A dozen stocks made up 25 per cent of the trading volume, which topped the two million mark.

U. S. Steel was a leader in activity and managed, with most other pivotals, to gain territory. It crossed 30 for the first time in nearly two months.

Steel Gains ⅝ Point.

Closing at 29½, U. S. Steel was up ⅝ on the day. During the afternoon that other leader, American Telephone, ranged between four and five points higher and was within hailing distance of par. Telephone withstood the final selling sally and rested with an advance of 1¼.

Other topnotchers to score, although limited to fractions by the windup liquidation, were American Can, Radio, Westinghouse, and Woolworth. Du Pont, General Electric, and General Motors closed on an off note. Their movement through the session was marked by a lack of the pep shown by the others.

The railroads came in for a particular pounding by sellers both in the morning and late afternoon. As a result Santa Fe closed off 2⅛, Chesapeake and Ohio 1, New York Central 1⅛.

A demand for copper stocks followed rumors of a marked improvement in the industry to be effected through an agreement among producers, the nature of which was not disclosed. American Smelters reflected the better sentiment more than the others, with a net advance of 1⅛. Anaconda and Kennecott were up fractionally. All had fairly large turnovers.

Largest Sale in Weeks.

Something akin to a thrill went through the market with changing hands of one block of 17,900 shares of Consolidated Oil, the largest single sale in several weeks for any issue. Consolidated Oil closed up a large fraction at 8. Oil shares generally were buoyant. Standard of New Jersey at one time being quoted at 31⅝, within a fraction of its year's high and reflecting the cheering news of New Jersey Standard's maintenance of the usual extra dividend of 25 cents.

The usual wide advances were made by leading preferred stocks. Senior issues to rise from 2 to 12 points were: Locomotive, Smelters, Woolen, Bethlehem, Bush Terminal, General Cable, Jones & Laughlin, Loews, National Lead, United Gas Improvement, Willys Overland, and Steel.

THREE NEWSPRINT CONCERNS FAIL TO PAY INTEREST

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 1.—Showing the financial difficulties of the newsprint industry in Canada, three such companies today were unable to meet their bond interest. Approximately 2 million dollars was needed by the three companies. They are: Price Brothers, Limited, leading independent; Abitibi Power and Paper company, one of the world leaders in newsprint production, and Lake St. John Power and Paper company. In the case of Price Brothers and Lake St. John, Aug. 1 was the due date of interest; in the case of Abitibi, June 1 was the date of interest, but Aug. 1 represents expiration of the sixty days of grace allowed.

HUTCHINSON, KAS., TAKES OWN POKE AT FARM BOARD

Hutchinson, Kas., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The board of trade announced today it had denied membership to the Hall-Baker Grain company, a trading unit of the Farmers' National Grain corporation.

R. C. Davidon, president of the board, refused to amplify the announcement that the Hall-Baker application had been rejected.

The action followed the recent refusal of the Chicago Board of Trade to grant clearing house privileges to the Updike Grain company, another federal farm board agency.

districts in Cleveland, Duluth, Toledo, Milwaukee, and other large industrial centers, and asks "whether it is not much more fitting to determine the reasonableness of the switching rates in the Chicago district by comparing them with charges for similar service in other cities, rather than to compare them with line haul rates in the southwest on sand, gravel and brick."

"For the reasons stated," the shippers' argument concludes, "the commission should find that the present rates for switching service in the Chicago switching district of 3 cents for one line, 3.5 cents for two line, and 4 cents for three or more line hauls are unjust and unreasonable and should require the carriers to establish in lieu thereof rates not in excess of those in effect prior to Dec. 10, 1931."

Briefs are being filed by both the Illinois commerce commission and the public service commission of Indiana in support of their present lower intrastate rates, which the interstate commerce commission has sought to raise to the level of the higher rates that it has imposed on interstate switching.

MORE RAILWAY REPORTS SHOW LOWER EARNINGS

Further Federal Loans Are Asked.

New York estimates of the total net earnings of the class one railroads of the United States for June of this year show a decline of 71.8 per cent from June, 1931. The decrease for the first six months of this year, however, was 52.2 per cent, according to the same estimates.

The comparative figures were given as $14,100,000 for June, compared with $50,162,558 in the same month last year, while the six month period of 1932 was credited with $113,595,000, compared with $246,048,926.

Another Decrease Shown.

In line with the same trend was the report of the Kansas City Southern made yesterday, showing its June net operating revenue as $33,855, against $229,775 a year ago, and its gross as $820,000, compared with $1,202,372 in the same month of last year.

Further recognition of the plight of the railroads came from Washington yesterday when the Chicago Great Western was authorized by the interstate commerce commission to borrow $1,289,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The money is to be used to pay taxes and equipment notes.

Asks for Delay, Money.

From Denver there came a petition to Washington asking that the commission that regulates the railroads extend until 1935 the time for the purchase by the Denver and Rio Grande Western of the stock of the Denver and Salt Lake railroad at $155 a share. That purchase was made a condition of the commission's consent to the Denver and Rio Grande's construction of the Dotsero cutoff. The road also has appealed to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a loan of $4,000,000 to finance that cutoff.

The average yield of the sixteen stocks on July 30 was 8.61 per cent. That compared with an average yield of 9.89 per cent recorded at the close of the previous week, and a record yield of 13.94 per cent on May 31.

RESERVE BANK HERE TO ASSIST BUSINESS LOANS

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago will participate in the general action of the federal reserve system to aid industry, trade and commerce through making direct loans to individuals, partnerships, and corporations. This action is taken under an amendment to the federal reserve law signed by President Hoover on July 21, which became effective yesterday.

No applications have been received at the Chicago reserve bank, is was asserted yesterday, although a number of inquiries have been made. Reports from New York stated that the federal reserve bank there had augmented its force to take care of new business arising under the amended act. The Chicago reserve so far has not increased its staff. It will watch events and act accordingly.

It has been pointed out that loans will be granted by the federal reserve to individuals only on prime risks and only after it has been demonstrated that all other sources of loans have failed. Inasmuch as the security to be asked by the federal reserve will be of a high class character, in the majority of cases the customer could arrange a loan on it from his banker.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable, was dull and the undertone barely steady, with final prices unchanged to 2 points higher. Sales were 3 contracts or 400 barrels. Bleachable spot closed 3.80c; Sept., 4.12; Dec., 4.32c; March, 4.35c.

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The country's monetary gold stocks increased by $10,947,400 net today in consequence of heavy release from earmark of metal held here for foreign account and substantial volume of imports chiefly from the far east. The daily statement compiled by the Federal Reserve bank of New York showed $7,512,800 had been released from earmarked stock, while the balance was received in imports as follows: From Philippine islands, $2,200,000; Australia, $534,000; China, $482,000; India, $190,300, and Mexico, $28,300.

Central Public Service Pays Debenture Interest

The Central Public Service corporation yesterday paid the regular semi-annual interest of 2¾ per cent on the convertible debenture 5½s of 1949. These securities were quoted in New York at around 4 last Saturday. About $37,000,000 is outstanding. The company has arranged with bankers, it was announced yesterday, to extend all its bank loans for three years, or until 1935. On April 30, 1932, the company's bank loans amounted to $5,650,000, having been reduced from $6,804,875 on Dec. 31, 1931.

Damage Reported During Russian Harvesting.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders lacked an incentive to take a decided stand on either side of the market yesterday. Winnipeg and Liverpool were closed. The private crop estimates are not to be given out until Tuesday. At no time yesterday did the market show any strength of consequence. It held within a range of around 1c and closed with net losses of ⅝c with September at 51@51⅛c and December at 54¼@54⅜c.

There was some selling of wheat futures by a house with eastern connections and also some pressure attributed to a professional operator, but the aggregate trade was much lighter than recently, with little attention paid to the relative strength in stocks and cotton.

Export Demand Limited.

With the holiday in Canada and England there was little interest taken in export wheat and sales were reported as limited. Heavy rains were reported in the section of Russia where there is harvesting being done. In the Volga area hot and dry weather continue. Bartlett Frazier in a summary of weather and crop reports from that country say they expect Russia will harvest a poor crop this year.

Agricultural Commissioner Steere in a cable to the department of agriculture said practically all of the spring wheat belt in eastern and southeastern European Russia remained dry, although July was normally a month of considerable rainfall. Owing to late sowing this may be of considerable importance this year.

Despite heat and drought, the three Canadian provinces promise to harvest a large wheat crop this season. Gordon Brown, one of the leading Regina, Saskatchewan, grain men in a special report to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE estimated the Alberta crop at 170,000,000 to 195,000,000 bu; Saskatchewan at 210,000,000 to 245,000,000 bu, and Manitoba at 40,000,000 to 45,000,000 bu, a total of 420,000,000 to 480,000,000 bu, compared with 284,000,000 bu harvested in 1931, and a 10 year average of 385,000,000 bu. The yield this season is expected to be the second or third largest on record.

The heat wave, he says, which caused considerable damage in southern and central Saskatchewan has improved the wheat crop prospect in the northern areas of the three provinces materially. Harvesting has started in a few places, but is not expected to be general for two or three weeks.

New Spring Wheat Moving.

Harvesting of spring wheat in the American northwest is well under way and about half of the receipts of 283 cars at Minneapolis were from the new crop. The northwestern market closed ⅝c lower with some hedging pressure in evidence, while Kansas City was off ½@⅝c for the day. Durum wheat futures at Duluth led the decline, being ⅞@1⅛c lower. An increase of 1,535,000 bu was shown in the domestic visible supply for the week with the total 170,255,000 bu, compared with 212,674,000 bu. Owing to inability to secure the Toledo stocks, the holdings in the latter market have been eliminated from the total.

Corn Belt Receives Rain.

Fairly general rains fell over the Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, and Missouri corn belt, and were regarded by the trade as practically assuring a large crop of corn. The country apparently took the same view as offerings of old cash corn to arrive increased materially with 490,000 bu booked to arrive by local handlers, the largest of the season. There were intimations that some new corn had also been bought for distant shipment.

Purchases of cash corn to arrive were generally hedged by sales of futures which had a depressing effect. Prices dropped around 1c from Saturday's finish and the market showed little disposition to rally, closing ¾@1c lower, with September at 31⅛@31¼c and December 31⅞@32c. A decrease of 259,000 bu was shown in the visible supply for the week with the total 10,985,000 bu, against 3,183,000 bu last year.

OCTOBER EGGS HIGHER

October eggs advanced to new high levels for this year's trading, reaching 17⅞c on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. The close was at 17⅞c, up ⅝c for the day. November butter gained at the opening, but reacted, closing unchanged. Steady buying support continued in eggs from the start to near the close. Short covering remained heavy, encouraged by daily storage figures showing a heavier outward movement than last year. Profit taking increased, however near the close, and the market dropped back slightly. The early advance in November butter resulted from bullish storage figures, but later the daily movement proved heavier than the year ago storage input and selling increased. Sales: Butter, 71 cars; eggs, 151 cars. Prices follow:

Pure Oil.

I write to ask your views on the advisability of investing funds in Pure Oil company 5½ per cent notes. Such assistance as you can render will be greatly appreciated.—R. M. C.

Pure Oil company is a completely integrated unit in the petroleum industry. It produces, refines, transports, and sells oil products. Its principal producing territories are in Texas and the midcontinent field. Its Van Zandt field in east Texas was opened in 1929 and now constitutes one of the country's major producing centers.

In common with most oil companies, 1931 and 1930 were lean years for Pure Oil in comparison with preceding years. For the fiscal year ended March 31, 1932, the company reported net income of $470,000, against $[illegible],618,000 for the preceding year. Fixed charges were earned 1.33 times, against 2.19 times in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1931. In the year ended March 31, 1930, charges were earned 5.85 times, against 9.58 times in the preceding year.

Had undistributed earnings in certain subsidiaries been included last year, net income would have been increased by $1,647,000.

President Dawes announced that higher prices for petroleum products in 1932 resulted in an increase in net of $1,500,000 for April and May over the corresponding months of 1931.

On March 31, 1932, current assets were $26,064,000 and current liabilities were $11,598,000. Cash was $5,353,000 and notes payable were $5,824,000. Working capital was $14,465,000, against $16,261,000 the year before.

Sinking fund requirements reduced funded debt from $36,500,000 to $34,500,000. Funded debt consists of $16,000,000 5½ per cent notes due Aug. 1, 1937, and $18,500,000 5½ per cent notes due March 1, 1940. The notes are a business man's risk.

LARD STOCKS DECREASE; MEAT SUPPLIES ALSO CUT

Lard stocks in Chicago decreased 4,300,797 lbs last month, and dry salted bellies decreased 941,340 lbs. Stocks of all meats are 124,984,567 lbs, a decrease last month of 8,706,278 lbs. A year ago stocks were 122,855,557 lbs, a reduction of 2,134,000 lbs as compared with present supplies. The reduction in lard was about as expected, and of bellies were disappointingly less.

The report on stocks was given out after the close and is not expected to have much, if any, effect on the provision market.

Trading in lard was limited and the close was 2½@5c higher. In bellies the only business was in September deliveries, with prices 5c lower. Liverpool market was closed and there was no information from there. Exports of lard for the week were 7,361,000 lbs, against 7,365,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 1,904,000 lbs compared with 2,832,000 lbs last year. Cash trade was quiet, with pork loins in car lots 12@12½c for desirable weights. Hog supplies were smaller than a week and a year ago. Prices were 10@15c higher. Prices follow:

COTTON MARKETS FIRM

Cotton markets had a firm undertone and a narrower range. There was a fair volume of business without sensational developments. Moderate buying of December and January featured the early trading. That was credited to Japanese interest. Cooperative brokers were said to be doing very little and most of the offerings were supplied by spot interests in the south.

A crop of 12,497,000 bales was estimated by the Fairchild service, compared with 17,090,000 bales last year. Condition was 68.5. Weather on the whole was generally favorable. Heaviest infestation of boll weevil since 1923 is reported by the J. E. Bennett-E. H. Miller returns. Hot dry weather during the latter part of July checked activity of this test somewhat, but the infestation is so great that even the high temperatures failed to prevent damage in many localities.

Whether the farm board will sell its cotton freely from now on is a question which puzzles the trade. At the close futures in Chicago were 3@4 points net higher and other markets 1 point lower to 2 points higher. Spots were unchanged, with New York, 6.05c; New Orleans, 5.85c; Galveston, 5.75c, and Houston, 5.70c. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Sentiment in the grain trade was more two sided yesterday. There was a tendency on the part of operators to sell on all bulges. It was believed the short interest had been increased because of the dragging markets. Considering the heavy receipts in the northwest and southwest, it was said that wheat and all grains acted surprisingly well.

Liverpool was closed and the trade was without the usual foreign statistics which are due today and expected to be bullish. The trade was largely evened up in all grains in preparing for the private crop reports which are due early today.

Traders in the wheat pit are inclined to credit the heavy selling by a few houses to eastern interests. The latter have turned bullish because the stock market has shown strength. In some respects professionals are inclined to go a little slow on the buying side of stocks except on breaks.

Houses with country connections express the belief that country holders of corn will sell freely at around 22c to 24c, at country loading stations. Oats are at around 10c to 12c. Northwestern and local interests are hedging their purchases of cash oats mainly by sales of September, and oats specialists said it was surprising the way the speculative trade absorbed the offerings.

RAILS LEADERS AS BOND MARKET CONTINUES GAINS

Curb List Overcomes Profit Taking.

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The bond market continued its advance today after hesitating momentarily in the face of considerable profit taking which it overcame without any serious casualties.

Outside of the German elections there was little if any news which might have had a bearing on senior securities. In some quarters the vote in the reich was viewed as fairly constructive, while in others there was some apprehension expressed regarding the big gains of the communists. At least most German bond issues improved substantially, the government 5½s gaining 2 points.

Domestic railways resumed their leadership of the forward movement. Gains of from 1 to 3 or more points were recorded by some loans of Baltimore and Ohio, Canadian Northern, Central Pacific, Central of Georgia, Chesapeake and Ohio, Chicago and North Western, Rock Island, Colorado and Southern, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, M-K-T, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Frisco, and Southern Pacific. Illinois Central 6½s were up 12 points.

Utilities and industrials advanced on a smaller scale. Most oils rallied after sagging under realizing. Consolidated Gas issues were in demand, as were some American Telephone, Detroit Edison, Duquesne Light, Laclede Gas, National Steel, Paramount Publix, Warner Brothers, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

The United States government section was quiet and steady. Bonds of Queensland, New South Wales and Argentina were heavy. British 5½s recovered early losses and French loans firmed. Italian 7s registered a new year's high.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Coffee was higher today on light but steady buying for the account of local trade interests. One month ago	5.25@6.25

Top yesterday, $6.00; average, $5.75.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 6,000; hogs, 19,000; sheep, 10,000.

The hog market started out strong to higher yesterday. The top touched the $5.00 line on the first bulge. Later it plunged downward 10@20c, medium and weighty butcher hogs leading the way.

The general average for the day remained unchanged at $4.25, the early gains in lighter weights being counter balanced by later losses registered in heavy grades.

The trade had not anticipated this abrupt reaction and attributes it to the seasonal widening of the range, calling attention to the fact that only hogs running into weight suffered any set back.

The top and general average prices showed a spread of 75c against 50c a week ago. The biggest spread, however, was noted between the markets for weighty butchers and top sorted light weights. Prime 350@400 lb butcher hogs dragged slowly at $3.70@4.00, with 250@300 lb averages at $4.15@4.50. Most of the high quality 160@220 lb averages were easily disposed of at $4.80@5.00. The peak price stands 20c above Saturday's high mark and 5c over last Friday being within 15c of the high spot of last week. Receipts of hogs were about like expected and eastern buying was up to average for recent Mondays, but practically all orders were for the dwindling supply of choice light weights. Moderate supplies are in sight for today, the five points reporting 45,000 on the way against 49,500 last Tuesday.

Cattle Receipts Light.

Cattle receipts were light yesterday, but not light enough to offset the influence of the Jewish holidays after the middle of the week.

Beef steers slumped 15@25c in value with some of the medium grades off as much as 50c before the session ended late in the afternoon. More than the usual number of cattle were carried into the later rounds and peddled out to bargain hunters, while some were locked up for today's trade.

Several shipments of 1,232@1,291 lb beef steers sold at $9.50, the top of the market, while the bulk of beef steers brought $7.00@9.00. A fairly large number of plain cattle ranged downwards to $6.00 and odd lots of the poorest light steers of beef merit cashed around $5.00.

Low grade grassy natives were not abundant, but the few here dragged slowly at $3.50@4.50 and occasionally even lower. Butcher stock shared in the 15@25c break. Best calves declined 25@50c with some of the plain quality kinds off 75c to $1.00. Buyers showed little interest in stockers and feeders.

Lamb Market Holds Firm.

In spite of the erratic turn in the markets for other live stock yesterday, lambs held firm all day and finished slightly above last week's closing quotations. Packers took on the majority of the closely sorted native lambs at $6.00@6.25, while city butchers hand-picked a few of the top up to $6.60, the highest paid for lambs since last Tuesday. Bulk of the range lambs cashed at $6.25@6.50, the cull end of those going for slaughter at $4.75. Matured sheep and yearlings were scarce and firm, with 70@90 lb yearlings up to $5.00 and good ewes at $2.50 and below. Some 185 lb mutton ewes sold at $1.25.
